U. S. Calls Up Air Reservists After Cubans Fire On Planes

Turkey Cool To Proposal On Missiles

Soviet Premier Asks Kennedy To Swap Pullouts

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Turkey's Foreign Minister Feridun Cemal Erkin Cold - shouldered in advance Soviet Premier Khrushchev's offer to withdraw offensive weapons from Cuba if the West takes its missiles out of Turkey, press reports said.

Erkin refused to answer any questions about the matter Saturday, saying he was awaiting the text of Khrushchev's message to President Kennedy.

VIEWS QUOTED

However, several Turkish newspapers quoted him Thursday as saying that the bases in Turkey are North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases, that they were not installed under bilateral agreements and are merely defensive.

Erkin also was quoted as saying that these factors should be considered in any comparison between bases in Cuba and Turkey.

Earlier last week, Premier Ismet Inonu backed the United States in the Cuban crisis but did not specifically okay Kennedy's blockade measures.

In his address to Parliament on Wednesday he repeated the U.S. Defense Department's statement that the bases here and in Greece are only defensive.

Privately, some Turkish officials asserted that while the missile bases here contribute to Turkey's defense, they are becoming outdated. Missile-carrying Polaris submarines and other, newer long-range striking methods are more important, they say, than the intermediate-range missiles—reportedly Jupiters with a 1,500-mile range—in Turkey.

In addition, the bases never have been popular among the Turks who know about their existence. Officially, Turkey's 28 million people have never been told they are here.

Wreck Injury Is Fatal To Monroe Youth

An 18 - year - old Monroe youth, Roger Curtis Beavers, died early Saturday in the St. Francis Hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile accident last Monday.

Funeral services will be Monday at 10 a.m. in the Pine Grove Baptist Church with the Rev. Robert Peek and the Rev. L. L. Morris officiating. Interment will follow in the New Light Cemetery under the direction of Peter's Funeral Home. The body will lie in state at Peter's until an hour before services.

Young Beavers, who graduated from Ouachita Parish High School last spring, sustained critical injuries when the compact car in which he was riding alone crashed. The mishap occurred about 12:30 a.m. last Monday, approximately 2.4 miles south of Monroe on Louisiana Highway 15.

He was returning to his home on Prairie Road, after taking a date home when the accident happened.

A lifetime resident of Ouachita Parish, he was a member of the Pine Grove Church and an employee of Motor Supply Co.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Velda Beavers of Monroe; one sister, Miss Donna Jean Beavers of Monroe; two brothers, Dale Beavers and Donnie Beavers, both of Monroe; his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Hatten of West Monroe; and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Beavers of Sikes.

India Appeals For Arms

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru appealed to the world Saturday for arms as Chinese Communist invaders drove back Indian troops defending a key mountain pass guard the plains of India.

A government spokesman said Indian forces broke off contact with Chinese troops at Jang, five miles east of the fallen monastery town of Towang and retreated to high ground along the Towang-Bomdilla road.

KEY CENTER

Bomdilla, some 50 miles east of Towang, is the site of an Indian army headquarters, and a key Northeast Frontier Agency center controlling an invasion route to the rich Assam plains 14,500 feet below.

On the far northeastern front, the spokesman said, Indian troops hurled back two more Chinese Communist attacks on the outskirts of Walong, a principal, town of the Luhit division of the northeast frontier above the Burmese border.

Indian defenders had previously beaten back two Chinese Red assaults in the same sector.

The government's all-India radio, meanwhile, announced Nehru told an informal meeting of Congress Party lawmakers Saturday that arrangements were being made with foreign countries to send arms to India quickly.

The broadcast account of the closed meeting did not name the foreign countries involved.

(In London, a spokesman at the Commonwealth relations office said Britain will send Indian a quantity of small arms as soon as possible. He said the arms would be shipped in response to an Indian request received within the past 24 hours.)

In other developments:

The Indian Embassy in Moscow announced it had delivered a message from Nehru to Sovier Premier Nikita Khrushchev but said it could not reveal the note's contents. Nehru sent a message to President Kennedy Friday.

Red China called anew for troop disengagement along the Sino-Indian border and a summit meeting between the Indian and Chinese Communist premiers. It rejects as "absolutely unacceptable" India's stipulation that the border situation must be restored to the status of Sept. 8, 1962, before the Indians would consent to such talks.

Nehru told assembled members of parliament he had written to all countries except Portugal and South Africa to explain India's border conflict with Red China. The letter declared that the Communists had broken international law in invading India.

Radiation Study Satellite Orbits

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Explorer XV satellite rocketed into apparently successful orbit Saturday night to survey an artificial radiation belt created by a U.S. high-altitude nuclear explosion last summer.

The payload was shot aloft by a Thor - Delta rocket at 6:15 p.m. More than an hour latter a project official told newsmen "I see no reason why the satellite would not be in orbit."

LOOPING COURSE

The official, Robert Gray of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, reported that preliminary information indicated that all three stages of the rocket performed as planned.

But he was reluctant to claim complete success until the satellite had completed one orbit of the globe.

Because of the highly cliptacle orbit that was sought, one circuit would take about five hours.

The 98-pound payload was aimed on a wide-looping course ranging from 170 to 10,360 miles above the earth.

The payload bore the experimental name S3B. If successful, it will be called Explorer XV.

The satellite, assembled in a record 50 days, was designed to study location, extent, composition, and decay rate of the man-made belt which was formed last July 9 when a hydrogen bomb was detonated 250 miles above the United States testing ground at Johnston Island in the Pacific.

IF BLOCKADE RAISED

Castro Will Halt Missile Building

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro offered Saturday night to stop construction of major military facilities in Cuba if the United States lifts its blockade.

U.S. rejection of Castro's offer seemed certain. Washington has insisted that the missile sites must be rendered inoperable before the arms quarantine is lifted.

TALK TO THANT

Castro's proposal was made in a message to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant in which Castro also invited Thant go to Cuba for "direct discussions on the present crisis." A U.N. spokesman said Thant would make a decision on Castro's invitation soon, but not Saturday night.

U.S. and Cuban sources said Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa would arrive in New York, probably Sunday, to talk with Thant.

Castro's message was a reply to an appeal Thant dispatched to him Friday. Thant's appeal also was made public Saturday night.

In his reply, Castro made no mention of soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal that the United States withdraw missile bases from Turkey in exchange for a Soviet weapons withdrawal in Cuba.

But Castro did not repeat his earlier assertions that Cuba would not allow U.N. observers on Cuban territory. The United States had proposed that the U.N. Security Council send observers to Cuba to verify that Soviet missile bases were dismantled, as the United States demanded. Castro said Tuesday night that such observers had better go armed to fight.

Castro expressed willingness to consider any new suggestion from Thant.

Machine Guns On Guard At Rocket Launch Sites

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI)— The Army set up machine gun emplacements Saturday to guard land approaches to the anti-aircraft rocket installations that now rim this tense town.

Portable radar units were set up between the launchers, which doubled in number since Friday.

The rocket positions were manned throughout the night. Off-duty missilement slept in sleeping bags on the beach while their buddies walked guard duty with rifles.

This morning they were up bright and early, digging the machine gun emplacements and setting up the guns.

There were signs that most of the defense force was now in place.

Fighter plane activity continued heavy. Silver Navy jets, which flew in pairs earlier in the week, were zooming overhead today in groups of four.

The few soldiers seen around town were cordial but had little to say to newsmen. However, one confided.:

Friday night, a big crowd turned out to see Key West High School's Conchs defeat Archbishop Curley High of Miami, 19-0. The game was played next to what has become the Army's motor pool.

JFK Asserts Negotiations Are Possible

Talks Depend On Dismantling Red Rockets In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy told Soviet Premier Khrushchev Saturday night he believes the United States and Russia could negotiate a solution to the Cuban crisis but said again the possibility depends on prompt dismantling of Soviet missile sites in Cuba.

The White House made public a letter from Kennedy to Khrushchev which termed proposals made by the Soviet leader Friday "generally acceptable."

These proposals, White House sources advised, did not include the deal set forth by Khrushchev Saturday in which Russia would withdraw its offensive arms from Cuba and the United States would do the same in Turkey.

KENNEDY LETTER

In his letter, Kennedy summed up Khrushchev's previous suggestions as requiring Russia to remove offensive weapons from Cuba under U.N. observation and stop sending weapons to the Castro regime, while the United States would—with U.N. safeguards—halt its weapons blockade of Cuba and pledge not to invade Cuba.

But Kennedy insisted that Russia must first stop work on missile sites in Cuba and render offensive weapons there incapable of operation "under effective international guarantees."

Khrushchev's letter of Friday did not contain any reference to the deal the Soviet Premier proposed in a separate message broadcast Saturday morning by Moscow radio under which Russia said it would take offensive weapons out of Cuba if the United States pulled missiles out of Turkey.

East Shivers In Cold, Digs Out Of Snow

By United Press International

A few snow flurries persisted in Northern Maine, over the Pennsylvania mountains and along the shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario. But for the most part the unseasonable storm that dumped up to 13 inches of snow in a six-state area had spent itself.

The snow chilled the air and again Saturday the mercury took record plunges, to 33 at Tallahassee, Fla., 24 at Pittsburgh, Penn., seven above at mile - high Mt. Washington, N. H.

The storm was blamed for at least 11 deaths in New England. Traffic was snarled throughout the area as snow blanketed the roads, caused scores of highway accidents and made driving treacherous from Connecticut to Maine.

TROOPS LINE COAST

Cuba Preparing Against Invasion

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's regime continued Saturday to temper this nation for an invasion by stringing army and militia units along Cuba's 2,500 miles of coastline. Women with colorful knitted sweaters over their militia uniforms stood guard in a brisk wind in Havana.

Heavy movements were reported on Cuba's main highways. In most provinces gasoline sales were limited to armed forces personnel, government officials and doctors, travelers reported. In Havana two gallons of gasoline were allotted to a customer.

The Communist newspaper Hoy said the United States is preparing a direct attack on Cuba, "supposedly to protect its national safety."

It added: "The anteroom to a terrible world war is becoming each time more imminent and real."

EMERGENCY ONLY

In Havana hospitals turned away all but emergency cases, apparently to leave room for casualties in the invasion the nation is being told is coming. Patients in convalescent stages were sent home.

The Cuban Women's Federation kept up its appeals for blood donations and counseled members on conduct in case of an air attack.

The weatherman says there is a possibility of a few showers this afternoon and this evening, but the mercury is expected to continue to rise in the day and drop slightly at night.

Today's highs are to be in the 70's with tonight's low near the 50 mark.

The mercury climbed to 77 Saturday after registering 50 as the low.

Sunrise today will be at 6:22 a.m. today and sunset at 5:22 p.m. Skies are supposed to be mostly cloudy.

Barometric pressure dipped only .02 in 24 hours Saturday. It was 30.19 at 6 p.m. Friday and 30.17 at the same time Saturday.

Some temperature extremes from across the nation, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, listed Saturday's low at 12 in Elkins, W. Va., while sunny California and arid Arizona reported the highs. Yuma, Ariz., and Imperial, Calif., both recorded 96.

Legislative Auditor Proposal On Tap

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on the Nov. 6 constitutional amendments that the people will vote on. Today's article covers amendments 20 through 24.)

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

Louisiana voters will go to the polls Nov. 6 in the general election to decide on 48 constitutional amendments, including a major proposal sponsored by the now-defunct Little Hoover Commission.

This is the creation of a legislative auditor, thus abolishing the present office of the Supervisor of Public Funds.

The Legislature, in adopting the Little Hoover Commission bill, felt that a legislative auditor — working directly for the Legislature — would give lawmakers a better insight on state spending.

J. B. Lancaster, the present Supervisor of Public Funds, backed the bill.

At present Lancaster's office conducts audits of all state spending on the state and local level. He serves at the pleasure of the governor, but is one of the top state officials who has not been tampered with during the changing of administrations.

Under Amendment No. 20, the legislative auditor would be chosen by a majority of the members of the Legislature. He would have the same responsibilities for auditing state and local agencies as does the supervisor of public funds.

The legislative auditor also would have additional duties, including continual analysis of state revenues and expenditures, appraisal of the proposed state budget, follow-up on the execution of the budget and periodic and special reports to the Legislature on the state's financial condition and outlook.

Duty Orders Sent Troops Flying Units

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered 24 troop carrier squadrons of the Air Force Reserve into active duty Saturday night after Cuban guns fired upon unarmed American reconnaisance planes.

Troop carriers are planes used to transport paratroopers and other combat men. More than 14,000 men are involved in the callup.

CONFIRMS ATTACK

In his announcement, McNamara confirmed for the first time that Cuban antiaircraft guns actually had fired upon American planes.

Earlier, the Department of Defense had announced only that a reconnaissance plane was missing and presumed lost.

McNamara said that in order to fulfill the resolutions adopted by the Organization of American States to insure peaceful relations in the Western Hemisphere, "it is essential that such reconnaissance continue."

McNamara said that he was activating associated support units for the troop carrier squadrons.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester was asked if the order activating the troop squadrons so soon after Cuban guns had fired on U.S. planes implied that a U.S. invasion of Cuba was imminent.

Sylvester declined to reply.

2 Construction Project Bids Slated On I-20

Bids for two construction projects on Interstate 20 in Monroe and West Monroe will be received by the Louisiana Department of Highways Wednesday in Baton Rouge, Highway Director Ray W. Burgess has announced.

The first project is a segment of I-20 in West Monroe beginning 0.4 of a mile west of Stella St. and going easterly to the west side of Fifth Street.

The other proposed project calls for a right - of - way clearance, rough grading and drainage excavation which largely amounts to relocating Young's Bayou preparatory to the construction of the interchange of U. S. 165 with I-20. This work will begin at Peach St. between 18th and 19th streets and run easterly along a new location for 0.7 of a mile to the junction of Nutland Road.

The West Monroe project calls for grading, installation of drainage structures, construction of elevated expressway structures and concrete paving.

"This will be a major section of I-20 construction," explained Burgess. "When this project is completed, along with the Ruston-to - West Monroe work now underway, as well as the Ouachita Bridge, we'll have a usable section from the Ruston area to Jackson St. in Monroe."

India Appeals For Arms

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru appealed to the world Saturday for arms as Chinese Communist invaders drove back Indian troops defending a key mountain pass guard the plains of India.

Bomdilla, some 50 miles east of Towang, is the site of an Indian army headquarters, and a key Northeast Frontier Agency center controlling an invasion route to the rich Assam plains 14,500 feet below.

KENNEDY LETTER

In his letter, Kennedy summed up Khrushchev's previous suggestions as requiring Russia to remove offensive weapons from Cuba under U.N. observation and stop sending weapons to the Castro regime, while the United States would—with U.N. safeguards—halt its weapons blockade of Cuba and pledge not to invade Cuba.

But Kennedy insisted that Russia must first stop work on missile sites in Cuba and render offensive weapons there incapable of operation "under effective international guarantees."

Khrushchev's letter of Friday did not contain any reference to the deal the Soviet Premier proposed in a separate message broadcast Saturday morning by Moscow radio under which Russia said it would take offensive weapons out of Cuba if the United States pulled missiles out of Turkey.

East Shivers In Cold, Digs Out Of Snow

By United Press International

A few snow flurries persisted in Northern Maine, over the Pennsylvania mountains and along the shores of Lakes Erie and Ontario. But for the most part the unseasonable storm that dumped up to 13 inches of snow in a six-state area had spent itself.

The snow chilled the air and again Saturday the mercury took record plunges, to 33 at Tallahassee, Fla., 24 at Pittsburgh, Penn., seven above at mile - high Mt. Washington, N. H.

The storm was blamed for at least 11 deaths in New England. Traffic was snarled throughout the area as snow blanketed the roads, caused scores of highway accidents and made driving treacherous from Connecticut to Maine.

TROOPS LINE COAST

Cuba Preparing Against Invasion

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's regime continued Saturday to temper this nation for an invasion by stringing army and militia units along Cuba's 2,500 miles of coastline. Women with colorful knitted sweaters over their militia uniforms stood guard in a brisk wind in Havana.

Heavy movements were reported on Cuba's main highways. In most provinces gasoline sales were limited to armed forces personnel, government officials and doctors, travelers reported. In Havana two gallons of gasoline were allotted to a customer.

The Communist newspaper Hoy said the United States is preparing a direct attack on Cuba, "supposedly to protect its national safety."

It added: "The anteroom to a terrible world war is becoming each time more imminent and real."

EMERGENCY ONLY

In Havana hospitals turned away all but emergency cases, apparently to leave room for casualties in the invasion the nation is being told is coming. Patients in convalescent stages were sent home.

The Cuban Women's Federation kept up its appeals for blood donations and counseled members on conduct in case of an air attack.

The weatherman says there is a possibility of a few showers this afternoon and this evening, but the mercury is expected to continue to rise in the day and drop slightly at night.

Today's highs are to be in the 70's with tonight's low near the 50 mark.

The mercury climbed to 77 Saturday after registering 50 as the low.

Sunrise today will be at 6:22 a.m. today and sunset at 5:22 p.m. Skies are supposed to be mostly cloudy.

Barometric pressure dipped only .02 in 24 hours Saturday. It was 30.19 at 6 p.m. Friday and 30.17 at the same time Saturday.

Some temperature extremes from across the nation, excluding Alaska and Hawaii, listed Saturday's low at 12 in Elkins, W. Va., while sunny California and arid Arizona reported the highs. Yuma, Ariz., and Imperial, Calif., both recorded 96.

Legislative Auditor Proposal On Tap

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of articles on the Nov. 6 constitutional amendments that the people will vote on. Today's article covers amendments 20 through 24.)

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

Louisiana voters will go to the polls Nov. 6 in the general election to decide on 48 constitutional amendments, including a major proposal sponsored by the now-defunct Little Hoover Commission.

This is the creation of a legislative auditor, thus abolishing the present office of the Supervisor of Public Funds.

The Legislature, in adopting the Little Hoover Commission bill, felt that a legislative auditor — working directly for the Legislature — would give lawmakers a better insight on state spending.

J. B. Lancaster, the present Supervisor of Public Funds, backed the bill.

At present Lancaster's office conducts audits of all state spending on the state and local level. He serves at the pleasure of the governor, but is one of the top state officials who has not been tampered with during the changing of administrations.

Under Amendment No. 20, the legislative auditor would be chosen by a majority of the members of the Legislature. He would have the same responsibilities for auditing state and local agencies as does the supervisor of public funds.

The legislative auditor also would have additional duties, including continual analysis of state revenues and expenditures, appraisal of the proposed state budget, follow-up on the execution of the budget and periodic and special reports to the Legislature on the state's financial condition and outlook.

Duty Orders Sent Troops Flying Units

WASHINGTON (AP)— Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara ordered 24 troop carrier squadrons of the Air Force Reserve into active duty Saturday night after Cuban guns fired upon unarmed American reconnaisance planes.

Troop carriers are planes used to transport paratroopers and other combat men. More than 14,000 men are involved in the callup.

CONFIRMS ATTACK

In his announcement, McNamara confirmed for the first time that Cuban antiaircraft guns actually had fired upon American planes.

Earlier, the Department of Defense had announced only that a reconnaissance plane was missing and presumed lost.

McNamara said that in order to fulfill the resolutions adopted by the Organization of American States to insure peaceful relations in the Western Hemisphere, "it is essential that such reconnaissance continue."

McNamara said that he was activating associated support units for the troop carrier squadrons.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester was asked if the order activating the troop squadrons so soon after Cuban guns had fired on U.S. planes implied that a U.S. invasion of Cuba was imminent.

Sylvester declined to reply.

2 Construction Project Bids Slated On I-20

Bids for two construction projects on Interstate 20 in Monroe and West Monroe will be received by the Louisiana Department of Highways Wednesday in Baton Rouge, Highway Director Ray W. Burgess has announced.

The first project is a segment of I-20 in West Monroe beginning 0.4 of a mile west of Stella St. and going easterly to the west side of Fifth Street.

The other proposed project calls for a right - of - way clearance, rough grading and drainage excavation which largely amounts to relocating Young's Bayou preparatory to the construction of the interchange of U. S. 165 with I-20. This work will begin at Peach St. between 18th and 19th streets and run easterly along a new location for 0.7 of a mile to the junction of Nutland Road.

The West Monroe project calls for grading, installation of drainage structures, construction of elevated expressway structures and concrete paving.

"This will be a major section of I-20 construction," explained Burgess. "When this project is completed, along with the Ruston-to - West Monroe work now underway, as well as the Ouachita Bridge, we'll have a usable section from the Ruston area to Jackson St. in Monroe."

The Cuban Blockade

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev may have ordered construction of missile bases in Cuba as part of a Kremlin plot to put President Kennedy under a surprise threat of nuclear war in an attempt to force U.S. concessions on Berlin.

This possible strategic purpose for the sudden and unexplained installation of Soviet nuclear missiles 90 miles from the United States is being given serious consideration in official quarters here.

It is one of the reasons why authorities are sticking grimly to their conviction that while the first phase of the Cuban crisis has been passed on the naval blockade front a second and potentially far more serious phase is yet to come.

As to the nature of the second phase there are two possibilities in speculation. One is that Khrushchev is intent on forcing a showdown with the West over Berlin and may go through with his main plan in spite of the disclosure of the Cuban missile buildup. The other is that the U. S. government is determined that the missiles must be removed from Cuba and the bases demolished.

SEARCH

The frantic diplomatic search for a peaceful way out of the crisis, centered at the United Nations, is so far little more than a lull in the diplomatic storm which broke over the world Monday night.

A defense spokesman reports that Soviet missilemen and military technicians — of whom there are an estimated 5,000 on the Caribbean island — are still working at top speed to complete the bases and get whatever missiles are available to them in place.

The naval blockade force which President Kennedy set in motion Monday has proved an effective barrier to the island but the U.S. action has not evidently put a halt to the Soviet activities already under way there.

The question of why the Soviet government set out on such a radical new course in its cold war strategy, carrying a clear increase in the danger of nuclear war, is a source of intense study among experts and policy makers for it may give clues to future Soviet behavior.

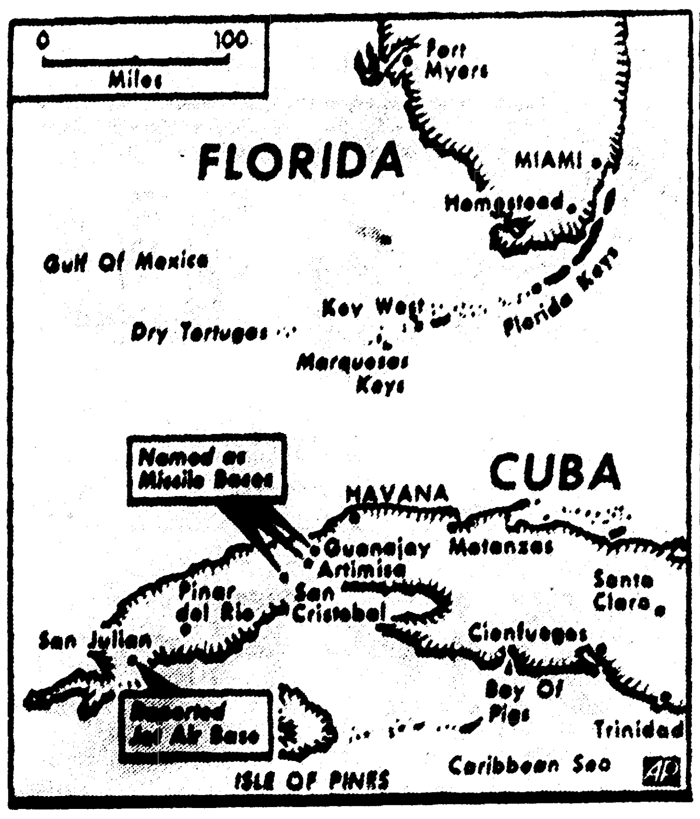
AGREED

One point on which authorities seem agreed is that the thrust of Soviet nuclear striking power into the Western Hemisphere must represent a basic Soviet policy decision made much earlier this year. The indication is that the decision called for a switch to a much more aggressive strategy with much greater reliance on military power to serve Moscow's expansionist purposes in the world.

Perhaps Khrushchev and his advisers had decided that their "peaceful coexistence" efforts to penetrate Southern Asia, Afica, and Latin America by economic means were too slow and too costly. They may also have expected that the Western powers would demonstrate more apprehension about Soviet nuclear test explosions, than the Allies did.

The projection of this analysis is that the Soviet government was compelled by frustration and impatience and perhaps by political discontent with the Soviet bloc, to achieve some spectacular victories in the cold war by a more reckless brandishing of nuclear weapons than ever before.

If that was the policy, the U.S. reaction upon discovery of the installations in Cuba seems to have given the Kremlin strategists a reason for pause and reassessment. Whether it has also persuaded them that they are in serious danger of setting off a nuclear war, no one here knows.



THE ISLAND of Cuba was the center of fear, worry and possible war the past week. Located only 90 miles from our shore, disclosure that the Russians were building missile sites and bomber bases brought a quick blockade by the United States. The map shows areas in western Cuba where the U.S. charged missile bases and a jet air base have been built. (AP Wirephoto)

Reaction Of Soviet People In Crisis

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—For the first time in a good many months people here were genuinely worried this week about the danger of a clash with America over Cuba.

For the Soviets to be worried is not an unusual thing but normally their worries are mostly domestic. That has been true this year. Their food supplies have been bad and are getting worse. The cost of living jumped sharply upward in mid-summer.

They never know fully what is going on outside their country. They are told what the government wants them told. They have never been told in any kind of detail what the Western position is on Berlin, and with Cuba it was even worse.

STILL NOT TOLD

To this hour the people are still being told that the main concern of the United States is the danger that Cuba will attack America. President Kennedy's statement that massive Soviet armor was in Cuba has not been reported here. When the Cuban problem is mentioned, Soviets see one thing—a big nation picking on a little one with the single excuse that Cuba is dangerous to America.

When President Kennedy ordered a blockade against arms deliveries to Cuba, the situation took on another look. Soviets learned about that only in the slanted manner related by the government in its reply to Kennedy's speech. But the ordinary man in Moscow knows how dangerous a blockade can be when it threatens to bring Soviet ships smack up against American warships.

There was genuine anger, and a sense of shock. This looked dangerous. Soviets who avoided talking politics with you—it is still dangerous for them to spout off—began suddenly voicing their worries. Why was America taking such drastic actions?

Some began to feel they were not getting the whole story.

But now the pressure is off. There will be talking instead of banging—or so it seems. And the man who changed that was Premier Khrushchev—or so it seems.

Students this week demonstrated against the American Embassy. Later, after the news got out about the Khrushchev letter to Lord Russell, the worry reduced and some of these same classes of students began voicing their happiness about their leader.

As the week drew toward a close, that was the prevailing mood. The worry was still there, but somehow Khrushchev was in control again. Or so it seemed to the Soviets.

STILL FRIENDLY

Despite propaganda, Premier Khrushchev was demonstrating that he continued friendly toward Americans, even if not especially toward America. He went to the Bolshoi to hear the Metropolitan basso, Jerome Hines, singing a favorite Russian opera, "Boris Gudunov." He had a long talk with an American businessman, William E. Knox, of Westinghouse Electric.

But a new factor is developing. The Soviet propaganda machine has been turned on full-blast against America. It always is pointed at America to some degree but there was little else this week.

Americans in the embassy were told to stay off the streets so far as possible, lest some misguided Soviet create an incident.

The results of the propaganda were spotty. An American newspaperman, visiting here, found all his appointments abruptly canceled. But resident correspondents found the Soviets they knew were acting just as before, always a little reserved, and friendly. American diplomats found it the same way.

Soviets don't necessarily like Americans better than other people. They do like the way Americans live—automobiles, refrigerators, good shoes and fountain pens that work. They try to imitate Americans more than any others.

A part of the average Soviet's worry is that trouble may delay the time when he, too, can have what Americans have.

700 Soviets Stage March On Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) — A well-organized but mostly casual crowd of Russians marched to the U.S. Embassy from schools, factories and offices Saturday in the biggest anti-American demonstration in Moscow since the start of the Cuban crisis. It had a raucous start but a mild end, with an order from police for the crowd to go home.

Shortly before noon, about 700 youths paraded into the broad boulevard in front of the yellow, 10-story embassy building. They threw bottles of red, green and purple ink at the building and several windows were smashed but no one inside the embassy was injured. Windows on the lower floors had been barricaded from the inside.

About 300 Moscow police awaited their arrival but did little more than keep them off the sidewalk in front of the embassy. About 100 soldiers sat in trucks parked on a nearby side street.

Two hours later, when factories and offices let out, the crowd swelled to 3,000. The adults seemed bored. They stood at the rear, chatting in small groups and watching the youngsters at the front shout and shake their fists for Soviet and Western cameramen. By 3 p.m., the adults started drifting away, leaving only the youths.

The demonstrators carried well-prepared signs saying "Shame on Kennedy," "Hands off Cuba", and "Cuba da, Yankee nyet" — the Russian version of the Cuban battle cry, "Cuba si, Yankee no."

REACTIONS DURING CRISIS

Patriotism And Prayer Join 'At The Brink'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Patriotism ran high across the nation this week in the wake of President Kennedy's dramatic speech on the Cuban crisis. But an Associated Press survey reveals that there were more hymns than rousing martial music, more prayers than boasts. And America as you might expect, didn't loose its sense of humor.

By SAUL PETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

In a Montana bar called the Capri Lounge, on a Helena street called "Last Chance Gulch," all the customers, all the help, even the two-man combo, fell silent.

Nobody stopped drinking. Everybody stopped talking. The President of the United States was on television announcing a blockade of Cuba.

Now suddenly, on this Monday night, Oct. 22, 1962, in Helena, Mont., and in Rye, N.Y., in San Francisco, Calif., and in Key West, Fla., in Boston, Mass., and in Oxford, Miss., the simple everyday word, goodbye, grew to the size of a huge boulder in the road, to be walked around, climbed over or laughed at nervously in the hope its new shading would go away.

"Just for the heck of it," said the man in Long Island, turning off the TV set he had watched all evening, "I think I'll call the heiress."

And he called his daughter at college and he tried to let the talk skip lightly over the roller coaster of her love life and she asked if there would be a nuclear war and he tried to convince her and himself there wouldn't be and when there was finally nothing else to say, he started to say goodbye, and thought better of it and said, "Well, see you Thanksgiving."

And he hung up and left unsaid in his mind the "if" that had been there tiny and unused all the years of the cold war but now on this night had grown to fill the room.

All across the country this week, Americans tried to deal with the word, goodbye, and the word, if, in a variety of ways. There was no panic. Nobody ran screaming in the streets. But there was deep, dark anxiety expressed in a variety of ways, large and small, obvious and subtle.

In Portland, Ore., an 11-year-old girl got up from the TV set and quietly left the living room. Her mother found her later, alone in her room, on her knees, praying no harm would come to her home in this crisis she could not understand.

In the same town, in another house, an eight-year-old boy announced with a confidence his adult countrymen didn't share: "We'll shoot the Japs down."

In Key West, 90 miles from Cuba, and in Los Angeles, 3,000 miles from Cuba, and in many other places in America flags appeared in house windows and store fronts. In Jacksonville, Fla., for the first time in anyone's memory, the audience at a symphony concert broke out spontaneously in the singing of the national anthem.

Patriotism ran high. We put out our flags, if not our chests. If this was to be war, we'd march off, but not at any oldtime swagger. There were more hymns sung in America this week than rousing martial tunes. We weren't thirsting for anybody's blood, theirs or ours.

At the White Sands missile range in New Mexico, where Army brass was collected for the firing of a new missile, a cheer went up when it was announced that Russian ships in the Caribbean had altered course. So far, so good. No shooting. But we held our breath from coast to coast.

Across the country, civil defense offices were swamped with calls. Do I stay in the house or evacuate? Are there public shelters? Where are the shelters? Have you stocked them with food?

Everywhere, civil defense booklets, which last week couldn't be given away with a set of dishes, were being gobbled up. In Salt Lake City, an elevator operator ran his elevator with one hand and read air raid instructions with the other.

In Des Moines, the state civil defense director, Ray Stiles, said, "Iowa is not ready for a nuclear attack." Coupled with the fact was the hope Iowa wouldn't need to be ready. As fact or wish, it could be echoed across the country.

In Washington, Defense Department officials said 60 million shelter spaces around the nation were scheduled to be stocked with supplies. Scheduled? Yes, scheduled. As of now, the officials said, only enough shelters for several hundred thousand people were stocked.

While we're waiting for schedules to be met, let's make jokes, the grimmer the better.

In Dallas, they said over their martinis: "Let's go down there and whip the 'R' out of Cuba." . . .get it, Charlie? Kennedy pronounces it "Cubar."

In Port Washington, N.Y., the high school wits were shaking hands and saying "goobye" with a mock solemnity and humor they didn't feel. Two clowns sang a new lyric to the tune of "Camptown Races":

"What do I see in the sky?

"A bomb, a bomb.

"In 10 seconds we will die. . ."

In San Diego, the humor was completely unintentional. Navy sailor James Barton prepared for the emergency by teaching his wife judo. He did. She tossed him, breaking his hip.

Almost everywhere, there were big boffs in the contagion of nervous humor. And everywhere there was prayer and everywhere there were people hanging on the news, phoning papers and wire services, staring at television and riding commuter trains or walking in the street carrying small transitor radios.

And in Boston and Cheyenne and Fort Worth and hundreds of other places we heard the unfamiliar calpyso accent of the delegate of Ghana and the antiseptic Russian translator at the United Nations and the familiar voice of Adlai E. Stevenson, who at long last seemed to have a big majority of Americans behind him.

In Atlanta, a cop directed traffic with one hand and held a radio to his car with the other, informing passing drivers, "No, they haven't met the Russian ships yet."

In many places around the country people were buying extra canned goods, bottled water, guns, ammunition, flashlights, first aid kits and various kinds of "survival" kits. In Los Angeles, one avid woman preparing for nuclear armageddon bought a load of food for her bomb shelter, including two whole cases of Metrecal.

In many places, familiar sounds brought unfamiliar reactions. Jet contrails in the sky were followed with intensity.

Cuba Dangerous Toy For Russia

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Cuba has become an expensive and dangerous toy for the Kremlin.

It is expensive because the chances are that carefully laid Soviet plans to use the Caribbean island as a pawn on the cold war chessboard have been thrown into confusion by the U.S. blockade. Indeed, the whole world Communist timetable may have been thrown out of kilter.

It is dangerous because, conceivably, it could start a nuclear war—one that the present Communist party leadership in the Kremlin at any rate, appears to want to avoid.

Thus, the Russians have been careful on at least one point: the finger on the trigger is not Cuban but Russian. In itself, this has been a form of insurance against an unwanted accident. It would be entirely out of character for the Russians to permit the Castro regime to have authority over missile bases.

But since the Russian finger is on the trigger, the United States has told the Russians they, as present-day bosses of the Cuban nation, are responsible for any aggressive action from that direction against any Western Hemisphere area.

Cuba has been the center of hopeful Soviet planning since 1960. There is reason to believe the Soviet military buildup there was sold to Premier Khrushchev by his generals. A nuclear weapons base under Soviet control in Cuba would at once be a weapon for blackmailing the United States, a response to North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases around the world, and a potent weapon of terror and intimidation against the rest of the Western Hemisphere.

Khrushchev, under fire from Red Chinese and even from quarters within his home party for delays in advancing the world revolution, probably found the Cuba buildup idea to have attractive points. It might even permit him to back the United States into an untenable position in the Berlin quarrel.

But the whole thing was a gamble. And now, it must be a source of acute discomfort for the Kremlin. If Soviet ships have to turn back rather than face the guns of a U.S. blockade, that is a humiliating state of affairs, and there probably will be a lot of grumbling about who is to blame for the dilemma.

If the result of the Cuban blockade is to upset Soviet plans for the West Berlin showdown, rather than advance them, if the master plan has to be called back and revamped, then there will be painful embarrassment for somebody in Moscow.

But the Russians knew for several weeks that something was about to happen in the Caribbean. At least two weeks before the blockade was announced, the Russians were eyeing the U.S. buildup in the vicinity of Vieques Island off Puerto Rico and elsewhere, describing it as "part of another provocative scheme of the Pentagon." They even speculated that the United States was preparing for a blockade and said that would be an act of war.

If the Russians suspected what was about to happen, why were they unable to come up with an adequate response?

The answer apparently is that Khrushchev has no intention of leading the U.S.S.R. into nuclear war over Cuba. The island represents a gamble, an experiment, a hope for the Kremlin. But when the chips are down, it is not important enough to induce the Russians to risk the big show.

Embarrassment in the Kremlin can have its whiplash effects elsewhere in the Communist world, and the regime in Cuba itself might feel the sting.

The recent events possibly could signal the beginning of the end for Prime Minister Fidel Castro, even as the figurehead ruler of Cuba, although breaking the Communist grip short of invasion seems unlikely.

Castro plays the role of supreme leader, but it is becoming more and more evident he is nothing of the sort. He is the man who signs decrees and makes speeches. He is necessary to the Communists because he is the only man in the regime with a popular following. But how necessary is he now? How much longer will the Russians need him?

It is hardly conceivable that the Russians would have begun construction of missile bases in Cuba without being certain first of their complete control over the island, and all indications are that the buildup did not get under way until the Russians were sure they had the island nailed down.

It seems likely the decision to go ahead with the bases was taken a little more than a year ago, after Castro declared Cuba "Socialist." The development came after the tough Moscow-line wing of the Cuban Communist party moved openly into top places of control under boss Blas Roca.

Soviet-type organization already had been in evidence. On Sept. 28, 1960, the so-called defense committees were formed, setting up block-by-block spy systems in every city, town and hamlet in Cuba, to discourage and paralyze resistance.

Once the Communists were firmly in the saddle, events moved swiftly. Plans were promulgated for "socialization" of the economy. Labor was regimented along Communist lines. A single-party organization was formed, to swallow the old 26th of July Movement which had ousted Fulgencio Batista.

Membership in the controlling party, to be called the United Party of the Socialist Revolution, was "reserved for those who fulfill Leninist conditions." That is, the rulers would be Communists and only Communists.

There had been a struggle early in 1961 for control of the party. Even the controlled Havana press admitted it. Castro felt the hot breath on his neck, felt himself being pushed aside as supreme boss. The struggle ended in the expulsion of a willing and convenient Communist scapegoat, and Castro seemed thereafter to accept his role as just one of a collective.

Blas Roca went to Moscow in October, 1961, for the 22nd Soviet Communist Congress. Leaders of 81 Communist parties around the world were present. Roca billed himself as the representative of Cuba's collective leadership, but by then it seemed obvious he bossed the collective, with Castro just another committee member.

It is quite possible that at the Soviet congress the Russians and Cuban Communists cooked up plans concerning the role Cuba was to play in Soviet power politics, both in the Western Hemisphere and toward such knotty problems as West Berlin.

The buildup was at the expense of the cuban economy. Today, nearly four years after Castro's revolution, the economy is in worse shape than it ever was.

The sudden turn of events which brought about the blockade is likely to throw a new monkey wrench into an already chaotic Cuban situation. The blockade has spotlighted the Cuban menace and will tend to inhibit non-Communist trade with the island. Supplies from Communist countries will be slowed by the interceptions.

Most important of all is the fact that Castro has proclaimed general mobilization. The Cubans have been doing little but mobilizing for several years, but something extra is added now. It means that an economy already hard pressed for manpower, particularly skilled manpower, has been further stripped by the need for people to parade with guns and look brave.

KHRUSHCHEV OFFER

'Deal' Is Costly To Castro Image

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
UPI Latin American News Editor

Latin American experts said Saturday Russia's blunt offer to make a deal with the United States on Cuban bases has dealt Premier Fidel Castro's "image" a severe blow in the Western Hemisphere and elsewhere.

They said the Soviet offer of a "horse trade" on bases in Cuba a half-a-world away from Russia unveiled Castro as a simple puppet of the Kremlin.

The extent of the Russian grip on Cuban sovereignty was betrayed by Premier Nikita Khrushchev's offer to President Kennedy to guarantee the U.S. against any surprise missile attack from Cuba.

Not only did Khrushchev admit that the Cuban bases were under Soviet control, but he contemptuously ignored the stand Castro has taken publicly against any neutral inspection of them.

Although Castro said any outsiders aiming to visit Cuba to inspect the sites should come "ready to fight," Khrushchev said he "though" Cuba should allow such an inspection.

As recently as Oct. 8, Ca[illegible]ro's representative in the Unite[illegible] Nations, Mario Garcia Inchau[illegible]ui, proclaimed a new Cuban "[illegible]reignty" and "independen[illegible]" action.

Khrushchev dispelled th[illegible]sion forever.

How Castro, self-styled "[illegible]imum leader," will seek to explain away Khrushchev's role as spokesman for Cuba in matters affecting its independence and sovereignty remains to be seen.

In equally as much of a bind for a political out are those nations of the hemisphere which so far have failed to break with Communist Cuba.

These include Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Uruguay and Mexico.

Brazil and Mexico have long justified their neutralism in the Cuban situation by explaining the Castro phenomenon as simply an internal exercise of independence of political thought.

How the chancellories of those American republics regard the Khrushchev confession of Soviet rule in Cuba should be of considerable interest.

The question of why the Soviet government set out on such a radical new course in its cold war strategy, carrying a clear increase in the danger of nuclear war, is a source of intense study among experts and policy makers for it may give clues to future Soviet behavior.

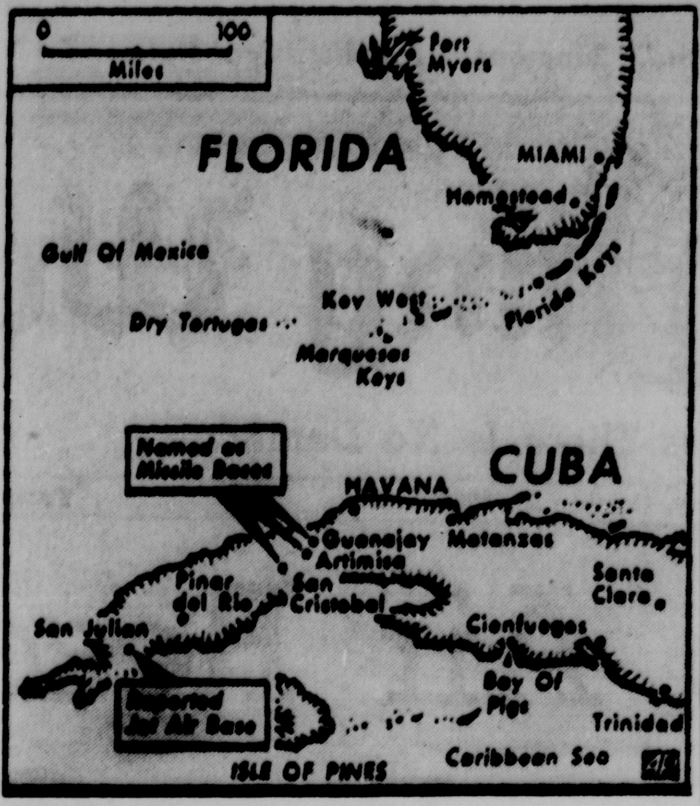
AGREED

One point on which authorities seem agreed is that the thrust of Soviet nuclear striking power into the Western Hemisphere must represent a basic Soviet policy decision made much earlier this year. The indication is that the decision called for a switch to a much more aggressive strategy with much greater reliance on military power to serve Moscow's expansionist purposes in the world.

Perhaps Khrushchev and his advisers had decided that their "peaceful coexistence" efforts to penetrate Southern Asia, Afica, and Latin America by economic means were too slow and too costly. They may also have expected that the Western powers would demonstrate more apprehension about Soviet nuclear test explosions, than the Allies did.

The projection of this analysis is that the Soviet government was compelled by frustration and impatience and perhaps by political discontent with the Soviet bloc, to achieve some spectacular victories in the cold war by a more reckless brandishing of nuclear weapons than ever before.

If that was the policy, the U.S. reaction upon discovery of the installations in Cuba seems to have given the Kremlin strategists a reason for pause and reassessment. Whether it has also persuaded them that they are in serious danger of setting off a nuclear war, no one here knows.



THE ISLAND of Cuba was the center of fear, worry and possible war the past week. Located only 90 miles from our shore, disclosure that the Russians were building missile sites and bomber bases brought a quick blockade by the United States. Reaction Of Soviet People In Crisis

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—For the first time in a good many months people here were genuinely worried this week about the danger of a clash with America over Cuba.

Concern eased a little, however, when Premier Khrushchev snapped up the proposal of the philosopher Bertrand Russell and suggested talks with Kennedy.

For the Soviets to be worried is not an unusual thing but normally their worries are mostly domestic. That has been true this year. Their food supplies have been bad and are getting worse. The cost of living jumped sharply upward in mid-summer.

They never know fully what is going on outside their country. They are told what the government wants them told. They have never been told in any kind of detail what the Western position is on Berlin, and with Cuba it was even worse.

STILL NOT TOLD

To this hour the people are still being told that the main concern of the United States is the danger that Cuba will attack America. President Kennedy's statement that massive Soviet armor was in Cuba has not been reported here. When the Cuban problem is mentioned, Soviets see one thing—a big nation picking on a little one with the single excuse that Cuba is dangerous to America.

When President Kennedy ordered a blockade against arms deliveries to Cuba, the situation took on another look. Soviets learned about that only in the slanted manner related by the government in its reply to Kennedy's speech. But the ordinary man in Moscow knows how dangerous a blockade can be when it threatens to bring Soviet ships smack up against American warships.

There was genuine anger, and a sense of shock. This looked dangerous. Soviets who avoided talking politics with you—it is still dangerous for them to spout off—began suddenly voicing their worries. Why was America taking such drastic actions?

Some began to feel they were not getting the whole story.

But now the pressure is off. There will be talking instead of banging—or so it seems. And the man who changed that was Premier Khrushchev—or so it seems.

Students this week demonstrated against the American Embassy. Later, after the news got out about the Khrushchev letter to Lord Russell, the worry reduced and some of these same classes of students began voicing their happiness about their leader.

As the week drew toward a close, that was the prevailing mood. The worry was still there, but somehow Khrushchev was in control again. Or so it seemed to the Soviets.

STILL FRIENDLY

Despite propaganda, Premier Khrushchev was demonstrating that he continued friendly toward Americans, even if not especially toward America. He went to the Bolshoi to hear the Metropolitan basso, Jerome Hines, singing a favorite Russian opera, "Boris Gudunov." He had a long talk with an American businessman, William E. Knox, of Westinghouse Electric.

But a new factor is developing. The Soviet propaganda machine has been turned on full-blast against America. It always is pointed at America to some degree but there was little else this week.

Americans in the embassy were told to stay off the streets so far as possible, lest some misguided Soviet create an incident.

The results of the propaganda were spotty. An American newspaperman, visiting here, found all his appointments abruptly canceled. But resident correspondents found the Soviets they knew were acting just as before, always a little reserved, and friendly. American diplomats found it the same way.

Soviets don't necessarily like Americans better than other people. They do like the way Americans live—automobiles, refrigerators, good shoes and fountain pens that work. They try to imitate Americans more than any others.

A part of the average Soviet's worry is that trouble may delay the time when he, too, can have what Americans have.

700 Soviets Stage March On Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) — A well-organized but mostly casual crowd of Russians marched to the U.S. Embassy from schools, factories and offices Saturday in the biggest anti-American demonstration in Moscow since the start of the Cuban crisis. It had a raucous start but a mild end, with an order from police for the crowd to go home.

Shortly before noon, about 700 youths paraded into the broad boulevard in front of the yellow, 10-story embassy building. They threw bottles of red, green and purple ink at the building and several windows were smashed but no one inside the embassy was injured. Windows on the lower floors had been barricaded from the inside.

About 300 Moscow police awaited their arrival but did little more than keep them off the sidewalk in front of the embassy. About 100 soldiers sat in trucks parked on a nearby side street.

Two hours later, when factories and offices let out, the crowd swelled to 3,000. The adults seemed bored. They stood at the rear, chatting in small groups and watching the youngsters at the front shout and shake their fists for Soviet and Western cameramen. By 3 p.m., the adults started drifting away, leaving only the youths.

The demonstrators carried well-prepared signs saying "Shame on Kennedy," "Hands off Cuba", and "Cuba da, Yankee nyet" — the Russian version of the Cuban battle cry, "Cuba si, Yankee no."

Patriotism And Prayer Join 'At The Brink'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Patriotism ran high across the nation this week in the wake of President Kennedy's dramatic speech on the Cuban crisis. But an Associated Press survey reveals that there were more hymns than rousing martial music, more prayers than boasts. And America as you might expect, didn't loose its sense of humor.

By SAUL PETT

AP Newsfeatures Writer

In a Montana bar called the Capri Lounge, on a Helena street called "Last Chance Gulch," all the customers, all the help, even the two-man combo, fell silent.

Nobody stopped drinking. Everybody stopped talking. The President of the United States was on television announcing a blockade of Cuba.

Now suddenly, on this Monday night, Oct. 22, 1962, in Helena, Mont., and in Rye, N.Y., in San Francisco, Calif., and in Key West, Fla., in Boston, Mass., and in Oxford, Miss., the simple everyday word, goodbye, grew to the size of a huge boulder in the road, to be walked around, climbed over or laughed at nervously in the hope its new shading would go away.

"Just for the heck of it," said the man in Long Island, turning off the TV set he had watched all evening, "I think I'll call the heiress."

And he called his daughter at college and he tried to let the talk skip lightly over the roller coaster of her love life and she asked if there would be a nuclear war and he tried to convince her and himself there wouldn't be and when there was finally nothing else to say, he started to say goodbye, and thought better of it and said, "Well, see you Thanksgiving."

And he hung up and left unsaid in his mind the "if" that had been there tiny and unused all the years of the cold war but now on this night had grown to fill the room.

All across the country this week, Americans tried to deal with the word, goodbye, and the word, if, in a variety of ways. There was no panic. Nobody ran screaming in the streets. But there was deep, dark anxiety expressed in a variety of ways, large and small, obvious and subtle.

In Portland, Ore., an 11-year-old girl got up from the TV set and quietly left the living room. Her mother found her later, alone in her room, on her knees, praying no harm would come to her home in this crisis she could not understand.

In the same town, in another house, an eight-year-old boy announced with a confidence his adult countrymen didn't share: "We'll shoot the Japs down."

In Key West, 90 miles from Cuba, and in Los Angeles, 3,000 miles from Cuba, and in many other places in America flags appeared in house windows and store fronts. In Jacksonville, Fla., for the first time in anyone's memory, the audience at a symphony concert broke out spontaneously in the singing of the national anthem.

Patriotism ran high. We put out our flags, if not our chests. If this was to be war, we'd march off, but not at any oldtime swagger. There were more hymns sung in America this week than rousing martial tunes. We weren't thirsting for anybody's blood, theirs or ours.

At the White Sands missile range in New Mexico, where Army brass was collected for the firing of a new missile, a cheer went up when it was announced that Russian ships in the Caribbean had altered course. So far, so good. No shooting. But we held our breath from coast to coast.

Across the country, civil defense offices were swamped with calls. Do I stay in the house or evacuate? Are there public shelters? Where are the shelters? Have you stocked them with food?

Everywhere, civil defense booklets, which last week couldn't be given away with a set of dishes, were being gobbled up. In Salt Lake City, an elevator operator ran his elevator with one hand and read air raid instructions with the other.

In Des Moines, the state civil defense director, Ray Stiles, said, "Iowa is not ready for a nuclear attack." Coupled with the fact was the hope Iowa wouldn't need to be ready. As fact or wish, it could be echoed across the country.

In Washington, Defense Department officials said 60 million shelter spaces around the nation were scheduled to be stocked with supplies. Scheduled? Yes, scheduled. As of now, the officials said, only enough shelters for several hundred thousand people were stocked.

While we're waiting for schedules to be met, let's make jokes, the grimmer the better.

In Dallas, they said over their martinis: "Let's go down there and whip the 'R' out of Cuba." . . .get it, Charlie? Kennedy pronounces it "Cubar."

In Port Washington, N.Y., the high school wits were shaking hands and saying "goobye" with a mock solemnity and humor they didn't feel. Two clowns sang a new lyric to the tune of "Camptown Races":

"What do I see in the sky?

"A bomb, a bomb.

"In 10 seconds we will die. . ."

In San Diego, the humor was completely unintentional. Navy sailor James Barton prepared for the emergency by teaching his wife judo. He did. She tossed him, breaking his hip.

Almost everywhere, there were big boffs in the contagion of nervous humor. And everywhere there was prayer and everywhere there were people hanging on the news, phoning papers and wire services, staring at television and riding commuter trains or walking in the street carrying small transitor radios.

And in Boston and Cheyenne and Fort Worth and hundreds of other places we heard the unfamiliar calpyso accent of the delegate of Ghana and the antiseptic Russian translator at the United Nations and the familiar voice of Adlai E. Stevenson, who at long last seemed to have a big majority of Americans behind him.

In Atlanta, a cop directed traffic with one hand and held a radio to his ear with the other, informing passing drivers, "No, they haven't met the Russian ships yet."

In many places around the country people were buying extra canned goods, bottled water, guns, ammunition, flashlights, first aid kits and various kinds of "survival" kits. In Los Angeles, one avid woman preparing for nuclear armageddon bought a load of food for her bomb shelter, including two whole cases of Metrecal.

In many places, familiar sounds brought unfamiliar reactions. Jet contrails in the sky were followed with intensity.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent

Cuba has become an expensive and dangerous toy for the Kremlin.

It is expensive because the chances are that carefully laid Soviet plans to use the Caribbean island as a pawn on the cold war chessboard have been thrown into confusion by the U.S. blockade. Indeed, the whole world Communist timetable may have been thrown out of kilter.

It is dangerous because, conceivably, it could start a nuclear war—one that the present Communist party leadership in the Kremlin at any rate, appears to want to avoid.

Thus, the Russians have been careful on at least one point: the finger on the trigger is not Cuban but Russian. In itself, this has been a form of insurance against an unwanted accident. It would be entirely out of character for the Russians to permit the Castro regime to have authority over missile bases.

But since the Russian finger is on the trigger, the United States has told the Russians they, as present-day bosses of the Cuban nation, are responsible for any aggressive action from that direction against any Western Hemisphere area.

Cuba has been the center of hopeful Soviet planning since 1960. There is reason to believe the Soviet military buildup there was sold to Premier Khrushchev by his generals. A nuclear weapons base under Soviet control in Cuba would at once be a weapon for blackmailing the United States, a response to North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases around the world, and a potent weapon of terror and intimidation against the rest of the Western Hemisphere.

Khrushchev, under fire from Red Chinese and even from quarters within his home party for delays in advancing the world revolution, probably found the Cuba buildup idea to have attractive points. It might even permit him to back the United States into an untenable position in the Berlin quarrel.

But the whole thing was a gamble. And now, it must be a source of acute discomfort for the Kremlin. If Soviet ships have to turn back rather than face the guns of a U.S. blockade, that is a humiliating state of affairs, and there probably will be a lot of grumbling about who is to blame for the dilemma.

If the result of the Cuban blockade is to upset Soviet plans for the West Berlin showdown, rather than advance them, if the master plan has to be called back and revamped, then there will be painful embarrassment for somebody in Moscow.

But the Russians knew for several weeks that something was about to happen in the Caribbean. At least two weeks before the blockade was announced, the Russians were eyeing the U.S. buildup in the vicinity of Vieques Island off Puerto Rico and elsewhere, describing it as "part of another provocative scheme of the Pentagon." They even speculated that the United States was preparing for a blockade and said that would be an act of war.

If the Russians suspected what was about to happen, why were they unable to come up with an adequate response?

The answer apparently is that Khrushchev has no intention of leading the U.S.S.R. into nuclear war over Cuba. The island represents a gamble, an experiment, a hope for the Kremlin. But when the chips are down, it is not important enough to induce the Russians to risk the big show.

Embarrassment in the Kremlin can have its whiplash effects elsewhere in the Communist world, and the regime in Cuba itself might feel the sting.

The recent events possibly could signal the beginning of the end for Prime Minister Fidel Castro, even as the figurehead ruler of Cuba, although breaking the Communist grip short of invasion seems unlikely.

Castro plays the role of supreme leader, but it is becoming more and more evident he is nothing of the sort. He is the man who signs decrees and makes speeches. He is necessary to the Communists because he is the only man in the regime with a popular following. But how necessary is he now? How much longer will the Russians need him?

It is hardly conceivable that the Russians would have begun construction of missile bases in Cuba without being certain first of their complete control over the island, and all indications are that the buildup did not get under way until the Russians were sure they had the island nailed down.

It seems likely the decision to go ahead with the bases was taken a little more than a year ago, after Castro declared Cuba "Socialist." The development came after the tough Moscow-line wing of the Cuban Communist party moved openly into top places of control under boss Blas Roca.

Soviet-type organization already had been in evidence. On Sept. 28, 1960, the so-called defense committees were formed, setting up block-by-block spy systems in every city, town and hamlet in Cuba, to discourage and paralyze resistance.

Once the Communists were firmly in the saddle, events moved swiftly. Plans were promulgated for "socialization" of the economy. Labor was regimented along Communist lines. A single-party organization was formed, to swallow the old 26th of July Movement which had ousted Fulgencio Batista.

Membership in the controlling party, to be called the United Party of the Socialist Revolution, was "reserved for those who fulfill Leninist conditions." That is, the rulers would be Communists and only Communists.

There had been a struggle early in 1961 for control of the party. Even the controlled Havana press admitted it. Castro felt the hot breath on his neck, felt himself being pushed aside as supreme boss. The struggle ended in the expulsion of a willing and convenient Communist scapegoat, and Castro seemed thereafter to accept his role as just one of a collective.

Blas Roca went to Moscow in October, 1961, for the 22nd Soviet Communist Congress. Leaders of 81 Communist parties around the world were present. Roca billed himself as the representative of Cuba's collective leadership, but by then it seemed obvious he bossed the collective, with Castro just another committee member.

It is quite possible that at the Soviet congress the Russians and Cuban Communists cooked up plans concerning the role Cuba was to play in Soviet power politics, both in the Western Hemisphere and toward such knotty problems as West Berlin.

The buildup was at the expense of the cuban economy. Today, nearly four years after Castro's revolution, the economy is in worse shape than it ever was.

The sudden turn of events which brought about the blockade is likely to throw a new monkey wrench into an already chaotic Cuban situation. The blockade has spotlighted the Cuban menace and will tend to inhibit non-Communist trade with the island. Supplies from Communist countries will be slowed by the interceptions.

Most important of all is the fact that Castro has proclaimed general mobilization. The Cubans have been doing little but mobilizing for several years, but something extra is added now. It means that an economy already hard pressed for manpower, particularly skilled manpower, has been further stripped by the need for people to parade with guns and look brave.

KHRUSHCHEV OFFER

'Deal' Is Costly To Castro Image

UPI Latin American News Editor

Latin American experts said Saturday Russia's blunt offer to make a deal with the United States on Cuban bases has dealt Premier Fidel Castro's "image" a severe blow in the Western Hemisphere and elsewhere.

They said the Soviet offer of a "horse trade" on bases in Cuba a half-a-world away from Russia unveiled Castro as a simple puppet of the Kremlin.

The extent of the Russian grip on Cuban sovereignty was betrayed by Premier Nikita Khrushchev's offer to President Kennedy to guarantee the U.S. against any surprise missile attack from Cuba.

Not only did Khrushchev admit that the Cuban bases were under Soviet control, but he contemptuously ignored the stand Castro has taken publicly against any neutral inspection of them.

Although Castro said any outsiders aiming to visit Cuba to inspect the sites should come "ready to fight," Khrushchev said he "though" Cuba should allow such an inspection.

As recently as Oct. 8, Castro's representative in the United Nations, Mario Garcia Inchaustegui, proclaimed a new Cuban "sovereignty" and "independence of action.

Khrushchev dispelled that illusion forever.

How Castro, self-styled "maximum leader," will seek to explain away Khrushchev's role as spokesman for Cuba in matters affecting its independence and sovereignty remains to be seen.

In equally as much of a bind for a political out are those nations of the hemisphere which so far have failed to break with Communist Cuba.

These include Brazil, Bolivia, Chile, Uruguay and Mexico.

Brazil and Mexico have long justified their neutralism in the Cuban situation by explaining the Castro phenomenon as simply an internal exercise of independence of political thought.

How the chancellories of those American republics regard the Khrushchev confession of Soviet rule in Cuba should be of considerable interest.

West Berlin Possible Next Target Of Soviets

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Many observers believe that the next major Soviet move will be toward West Berlin—in an effort to offset the U.S. move in Cuba. Here is a story describing West Berlin and its people.)

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — During the bombing of World War II Berliners crouching in their cellars quipped:

"You think this is bad—well, wait til you see the peace."

In 17 years of cold war, the Berliners have been through: Soviet rape and looting, a Communist blockade, mass unemployment, backbreaking work for prosperity and finally the cruel wall which brutally bars them from relatives and friends in their own city.

Living day after day under threat of being gobbled up by the East, surrounded by pitiless men with guns in their hands—this has toughed the Berliners.

"We have callouses on our nerves," they explain.

The bravest of men would be daunted by the possible consequences of a Red take-over. So the West Berliner needs constant reassurance, never tired of hearing pledges of support from the West.

"President Kennedy could issue a daily promise on Berlin and every day it would be a banner headline," said a Berlin editor.

NO QUALITIES

These are not qualities that endear him to fellow Germans in the Western Federal Republic. They often find the Berliner brusque and self-centered with little awareness of other people's problems.

This is an old complaint. During Germany's brief history as a united country there was always coolness between the Prussians and the more easy-going people of the Rhineland and Bavaria.

Wally Brack, a handsome widow who runs a real estate agency says:

NEWS ANALYSIS

"We just say straight out what we think. Sometimes people don't like it, but it can't be helped. We're tough. We have to be, sitting on a powder keg for 17 years.

"Other cities in West Germany would have capitulated years ago," she said.

"But not us."

She said she could make more money in the West, where property values are booming. "But I won't go. I'm a Berliner. Here I belong.

"Berliners don't like being away from the city." And she hummed a few bars of the hit song "I'm Homesick for the Kurfuerstendamm."

The gaudy, neon-lit Kurfuerstendamm is the center of Berlin's cafe life and a big feature of the city's traditions. It is always referred to as the Ku'damm.

It's a place for strolling, sipping coffee, buying autos, jewels, furs and nightclubbing. It's the place to watch the trim models from the garment district tripping by.

Their not-so-trim mothers, resigned to double chins, sit in marble and plush cafes eating Viennese pastries heaped with whipped cream while an orchestra plays nostalgic tunes from operettas.

How do you live under the constant pressure of the cold war?

"You can't shiver forever. You have to get used to this sort of life and get on with your work. It is defeatist to put off doing things just because of what might happen politically," Stresemann says.

Berliners like doing things in big crowds. They love fairs and circuses. They pack theaters, operas, concerts, prize fights, bicycle races, trotting tracks and exhibitions of all kinds.

As many international expositions as possible are staged in Berlin to support the city. Starved of outside contacts, Berliners crowd around the foreign stands.

"We like foreigners here," said Felix, bartender in a small nightclub. "So long as they can visit us we know we're safe."

Air hostess Brigitte Pohl says she prefers Berlin to any other German city "because it is full of adventure—it has a special atmosphere you don't get anywhere else."

She says she likes the Berliners' wit. She conceded it wore a bit thin in the shock after the wall.

"But it's coming back — have you heard the latest? The Communists are going to knock down the wall on the birthday of their leader, Walter Ulbricht. He and his wife want to celebrate it alone."

You can live and work in West Berlin without ever seeing the wall, although its existence is always felt, like a nagging tooth. (One in four West Berliners has relatives in East Germany).

On Sundays many West Berliners go to the wall in the slender hope of spotting a loved one across it. They stand on ladders and garden walls, peering through binoculars and waving colored scarves in what appear to be prearranged signals to figures in the distance.

But most West Berliners prefer to bury themselves in hard work and then play hard.

There is a big drive on to clear away the ugly ruins of 6,000 bombed buildings. A new concert hall of startling design is to be opened next year.

Fortunately for the health and sanity of the Berliners they have a bracing climate and plenty of open space.

One-fifth of the city area within the ring of wire and concrete is agricultural land. One-third is water and parks.

Thousands of hemmed in Berliners till tiny truck gardens allotted to them by the city. Lucky is the family with a small summer house, often only a wooden hut, overlooking one of the many lakes. There are 50,000 boats, sail or motor, on the lakes.

But the vigorous tempo of Berlin life cannot make up for its biggest loss—it is no longer the proud capital of a world power.

It has become a symbol of Western resistance to communism. It is an important industrial workshop.

But policy no longer is made here. Berliners have to listen to Washington and Moscow to learn what might be in store for them.

The restive young are aware of this. Their thoughts, their clothes, their music, their dances, are influenced more by the United States, Italy and France than by German traditions.

The young are leaving and that is a grave problem for free Berlin. Of its 2,189,000 people, 400,000 are over 65. In 1961 38,000 West Berliners died. Only 23,000 were born.

More people are needed to check this weakening drain if Berlin is to survive. Courage is not enough.

West Berlin Possible Next Target Of Soviets

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Many observers believe that the next major Soviet move will be toward West Berlin—in an effort to offset the U.S. move in Cuba. Here is a story describing West Berlin and its people.)

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — During the bombing of World War II Berliners crouching in their cellars quipped:

In 17 years of cold war, the Berliners have been through: Soviet rape and looting, a Communist blockade, mass unemployment, backbreaking work for prosperity and finally the cruel wall which brutally bars them from relatives and friends in their own city.

Living day after day under threat of being gobbled up by the East, surrounded by pitiless men with guns in their hands—this has toughed the Berliners.

"We have callouses on our nerves," they explain.

The bravest of men would be daunted by the possible consequences of a Red take-over. So the West Berliner needs constant reassurance, never tired of hearing pledges of support from the West.

"President Kennedy could issue a daily promise on Berlin and every day it would be a banner headline," said a Berlin editor.

NO QUALITIES

These are not qualities that endear him to fellow Germans in the Western Federal Republic. They often find the Berliner brusque and self-centered with little awareness of other people's problems.

This is an old complaint. During Germany's brief history as a united country there was always coolness between the Prussians and the more easy-going people of the Rhineland and Bavaria.

Wally Brack, a handsome widow who runs a real estate agency says:

NEWS ANALYSIS

"We just say straight out what we think. Sometimes people don't like it, but it can't be helped. We're tough. We have to be, sitting on a powder keg for 17 years.

"Other cities in West Germany would have capitulated years ago," she said.

"But not us."

She said she could make more money in the West, where property values are booming. "But I won't go. I'm a Berliner. Here I belong.

"Berliners don't like being away from the city." And she hummed a few bars of the hit song "I'm Homesick for the Kurfuerstendamm."

The gaudy, neon-lit Kurfuerstendamm is the center of Berlin's cafe life and a big feature of the city's traditions. It is always referred to as the Ku'damm.

It's a place for strolling, sipping coffee, buying autos, jewels, furs and nightclubbing. It's the place to watch the trim models from the garment district tripping by.

Their not-so-trim mothers, resigned to double chins, sit in marble and plush cafes eating Viennese pastries heaped with whipped cream while an orchestra plays nostalgic tunes from operettas.

How do you live under the constant pressure of the cold war?

"You can't shiver forever. You have to get used to this sort of life and get on with your work. It is defeatist to put off doing things just because of what might happen politically," Stresemann says.

Berliners like doing things in big crowds. They love fairs and circuses. They pack theaters, operas, concerts, prize fights, bicycle races, trotting tracks and exhibitions of all kinds.

As many international expositions as possible are staged in Berlin to support the city. Starved of outside contacts, Berliners crowd around the foreign stands.

"We like foreigners here," said Felix, bartender in a small nightclub. "So long as they can visit us we know we're safe."

Air hostess Brigitte Pohl says she prefers Berlin to any other German city "because it is full of adventure—it has a special atmosphere you don't get anywhere else."

She says she likes the Berliners' wit. She conceded it wore a bit thin in the shock after the wall.

"But it's coming back — have you heard the latest? The Communists are going to knock down the wall on the birthday of their leader, Walter Ulbricht. He and his wife want to celebrate it alone."

You can live and work in West Berlin without ever seeing the wall, although its existence is always felt, like a nagging tooth. (One in four West Berliners has relatives in East Germany).

On Sundays many West Berliners go to the wall in the slender hope of spotting a loved one across it. They stand on ladders and garden walls, peering through binoculars and waving colored scarves in what appear to be prearranged signals to figures in the distance.

But most West Berliners prefer to bury themselves in hard work and then play hard.

There is a big drive on to clear away the ugly ruins of 6,000 bombed buildings. A new concert hall of startling design is to be opened next year.

Fortunately for the health and sanity of the Berliners they have a bracing climate and plenty of open space.

One-fifth of the city area within the ring of wire and concrete is agricultural land. One-third is water and parks.

Thousands of hemmed in Berliners till tiny truck gardens allotted to them by the city. Lucky is the family with a small summer house, often only a wooden hut, overlooking one of the many lakes. There are 50,000 boats, sail or motor, on the lakes.

But the vigorous tempo of Berlin life cannot make up for its biggest loss—it is no longer the proud capital of a world power.

It has become a symbol of Western resistance to communism. It is an important industrial workshop.

But policy no longer is made here. Berliners have to listen to Washington and Moscow to learn what might be in store for them.

The restive young are aware of this. Their thoughts, their clothes, their music, their dances, are influenced more by the United States, Italy and France than by German traditions.

The young are leaving and that is a grave problem for free Berlin. Of its 2,180,000 people, 400,000 are over 65. In 1961 38,000 West Berliners died. Only 23,000 were born.

More people are needed to check this weakening drain if Berlin is to survive. Courage is not enough.

Private Plane Crash Fatal To Italy Oil Czar

MILAN, Italy (AP)—The Italian government oil czar, Enrico Mattei, was killed Saturday night. His private plane, carrying him and his pilot, crashed in a dense fog.

The twin-jet went down in a marshy area near the village of Bescape, 10 miles south of Milan. The wreckage and the bodies of Mattei and the pilot were found by farmers.

Officials first reported that five persons were aboard but then revised the figure to two. The plane lost radio contact when it was about six miles from the airport.

Mattei was flying from Catania, Sicily, to this northern industrial capital.

Mattei, 55, won world attention as the aggressive chief of the government-owned ENI — Ente Nazionale Idrocarburi (National Hydrocarbon Authority).

ONE-PARTY RULE

Ike Warns Against GOP Submission

MARION, Ill. (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower told a campaign Crowd Saturday that the Cuban crisis "must not become an excuse for silence or submission" by Republicans on the nation's internal affairs.

Eisenhower called upon Americans to present a united front to the world until the Cuban situation is resolved, and he added:

"But in our internal affairs a foreign crisis must not become an excuse for silence or submission by us Republicans."

Eisenhower called for the election of fellow Republicans, specifically Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, Senate minority leader, and Rep. Leslie Arends, R-Ill. Both are campaigning for re-election in this state.

The former president spoke from a flatbed truck at the Williamson County Airport. State police estimated that 7,500 persons heard the speech.

Eisenhower referred to campaigning in the Midwest by President Kennedy and said:

JFK WANTS WORK HALTED

Missile Bases Key Issue To Settling Cuba Crisis

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev worked cautiously Saturday through the preliminary stage of a search for a peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis with Kennedy laying down one prime condition which is evidently beyond compromise.

This is the requirement that Russia halt work at once on nuclear missile bases on Cuban soil. Although other conditions were announced, this appeared to be the key to a solution.

At the outset, the door appeared to be wide open for negotiation on any of various proposals, provided Khrushchev acts on this demand.

Continued Soviet efforts to bring the missile bases to an advanced stage of operational readiness could cause Kennedy to order the "further action" he has talked about, beyond the present naval blockade.

The U.S. position was laid down in emphatic terms in a White House statement issued some two hours after Moscow announced a new Khrushchev message to Kennedy proposing a deal for the removal of U.S.-NATO missile bases in Turkey in return for elimination of the new Soviet bases in Cuba.

A proposal for a trade had been expected and did not cause any surprise here. Administration officials have been saying privately the United States would not make any deals swapping an easing of Soviet pressure in Cuba for concessions involving U.S. bases in foreign countries.

How this attitude might be applied in the present circumstances was not clear.

Authorities noted at least three significant points in Khrushchev's message as announced in Moscow:

1. He indirectly admitted that there are weapons in Cuba that Kennedy considers are offensive although he insisted they were put there for defensive purposes.

This has the effect of bringing the diplomatic exchange among Washington, Moscow and the U.N. down to the level of reality.

Had the Soviets stuck to the line that there were only "defensive" weapons in Cuba and refused to deal directly with the missile problem negotiation might have been extremely difficult.

2. Khrushchev seemed to accept the principle of international inspection and verification for the removal of nuclear missile bases from Cuba subject to the condition that the same procedure be applied to the closing down of U.S. bases in Turkey. This appeared to advance the prospects for negotiation because Kennedy had called for U.N. observation in dismantling the bases but officials of the Castro government had said they would never accept it.

3. Khrushchev confirmed that Russian officers are in control of the missiles established on Cuban soil. This had been the impression of American experts from photographic evidence and the assumption that the Soviets would not be reckless enough to let Castro get control of the machinery that could start a nuclear war.

The United States missile bases in Turkey may now be considered somewhat outmoded.

Britain recently began dismantling its U.S. intermediate range bases and switched to airborne missiles which are considered less vulnerable to enemy attack. Britain had 60 Thor missiles.

The best available information on the bases in Turkey is that the United States has 15 Jupiter IRBMs set up there, manned by Turkish crews. Jupiters have a range of 1,500 miles. The force in terms of either of numbers of missiles or striking power is relatively small.

The United States won a decision of the NATO allies at a 15 nation summit conference at Paris in 1957 to place U.S. missiles in Atlantic Treaty Organization nations but they were set up in only three countries—Britain, Turkey, and Italy which had 30 Jupiters, manned by Italians.

JFK Asserts Negotiations Are Possible

Kennedy referred was not made public, but in his reply Kennedy said the key elements were "generally acceptable as I understand them."

Kennedy said he regarded these points the principal elements of the Khrushchev's proposals:

1. Russia "would agree to remove these weapons systems from Cuba under appropriate U.N. observation and supervision and undertake, with suitable safeguards, to halt the further introduction of such weapons systems into Cuba."

2. The United States "would agree—upon the establishment of adequate arrangements through the United Nations to insure the carrying out and the continuation of these commitments—(a) to remove promptly the quarantine measures now in effect and (b) to give assurances against an invasion of Cuba. I am confident that other nations of the Western Hemisphere would be prepared to do likewise."

If Khrushchev would instruct his representatives at the United Nations to attempt to negotiate a solution, Kennedy said, "There is no reason why we should not be able to complete these arrangements and announce them to the world within a couple of days."

The tone of Kennedy's reply had been foreshadowed earlier Saturday when the White House issued a statement saying that Russia would have to defuse the Cuban nuclear threat before there could be sensible negotiation toward a peaceful settlement of the war-threatening crisis.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy's letter, delivered to a Soviet Embassy official as it was being made public, dealt with both Khrushchev messages—those of Friday night and Saturday.

Only indirectly, however, did Kennedy formally respond to Khrushchev's suggestion for a Cuba-Turkey arrangement.

After mentioning the possibility of an early agreement, Kennedy said:

"The effect of such a settlement on easing world tensions would enable us to work toward a more general arrangement regarding 'other armaments', as proposed in your second letter which you made public."

Kennedy reiterated that the United States is interested in halting the arms race.

"If your letter signifies that you are prepared to discuss a detente (agreement) affecting NATO and the Warsaw Pact, we are quite prepared to consider with your allies any useful proposals" he said.

Emphasizing his insistence of dismantling of Soviet installations in Cuba, Kennedy also said:

"The continuation of this threat, or a prolonging of this discussion concerning Cuba by linking these problems to the broader questions of European and world security, would surely lead to an intensification of the Cuban crisis and a grave risk to the peace of the world. For this reason I hope we can quickly agree along the lines outlined in this letter and in your letter of Oct. 26th."

Nowhere in the letter did Kennedy set a deadline. But the whole tone was urgent and insisted on prompt Soviet action—so prompt that he linked Soviet action with the suggestion for a start of negotiations this weekend.

Kennedy said he would tell U.N. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson to work out immediately, cooperating with Thant and the Soviet representative, Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin, "an arrangement for a permanent solution to the Cuban problem along the lines suggested in your letter of Oct. 26."

strengthen military forces in the Cuban crisis. Last Monday, as the blockade was being ordered into effect, McNamara froze most Navy and Marine enlistments and duty tours for up to 12 months.

This action was taken to assure enough men to maintain the arms blockade of Cuba and to reinforce the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay.

Congress, before its adjournment, had authorized the President to call up as many as 150,000 Reservies and National Guardsmen while it is out of session.

During the Berlin crisis last year, the Pentagon called up almost 150,000 men from all the services. The Defense Department said the Reserviews called up Saturday night included men from the following states:

Massachusetts, Utah, Ohio, Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, Pennsylvania, New York, California, Oregon, Michigan, Oklahoma, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Washington, New Jersey, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Texas.

"Today U.S. unarmed reconnaissance aircraft, conducting surveillance of the buildup of the offensive weapons secretly introduced into Cuba by the Soviet Union, were fired upon. Such surveillance operations were in accordance with the resolution adopted on Oct. 23, 1962 by the organ of consultation of the inter-American system under the provisions of the Rio treaty of 1947. To insure that the nations of the Western Hemisphere continue to be informed of the status of the threat of their security, it is essential that such reconnaissance flights continue. The possibility of further attack on our aircraft in Cuba require that we be prepared for any eventuality.

"Therefore, tonight, acting under the authority granted me by Executive Order 11058, dated Oct. 23, 1962, I have instructed the secretary of the Air Force to order to active duty 24 troop carrier squadrons of the Air Force Reserve with their associated support units."

Sylvester, after reading the statement of McNamara, said:

"In accordance with Executive Order 11058, the secretary of defense today issued instructions for the recall to active duty of 14,214 Air Force reservists.

"The units to be recalled include six aerial port squadrons. These are ground operations squadrons."

SOME ANTI-CASTRO

2 Groups Picket At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 500 pickets choked the sidewalk in front of the White House Saturday, waving banners for and against the Cuban blockade.

Police, responsible for keeping the diverse groups separated, arrested three persons on disorderly conduct charges. And a man carrying a huge sign saying "President Kennedy is a traitor" was hauled off for a while.

The White House is picketed almost daily for a variety of reasons but rarely in such numbers. In late afternoon there still were 250 marchers, parading in circular fashion near the executive mansion.

First on the scene, shortly after dawn, were representatives of the Student Peace Union. Solemnly they carried signs reading: "No American Hungary"; "Liquidation is not liberation" and "No more wars."

These pickets came from a string of Eastern and Midwest colleges and universities including Cornell, Connecticut, Michigan State, Michigan, Temple, George Washington, Howard, Johns Hopkins, Maryland, Maryland Institute of Art, Antioch, American, Columbia, City College of New York, and New York University.

Next on the scene were two dozen anti-Castro Cubans, carrying a huge American flag and a more modest Cuban banner. Police assigned them to a strip of the sidewalk to the west of the peace marchers.

"All the way with JFK," the Cubans' placards said. "One for all, all for one."

Legislative Auditor Proposal On Tap

ture a better understanding of state finances recognized as a vital need in the operation of the state government.

But the creation of the legislative auditor's office presents a problem in that it might lend itself to pressures from lawmakers regarding audits of local governments in their districts.

No. 21 pertains to compensating persons who suffered losses from an artificial break in the Mississippi River levee near Caernarvon in 1927.

The break was ordered in Plaquemines Parish in 1927 and there still remain $369,000 in bonds outstanding issued by the Orleans Levee Board to pay reparations.

Under this amendment, New Orleans could also be assisted in selling its bonds since this tax, although not needed, remains as a possible tax liability on property in New Orleans.

Two other amendments, No. 22 and No. 23, pertain to the Orleans Levee Board, shifting tax authority from the levee district to the City of New Orleans.

No. 23 would grant the city authority in 1963 to add to half-mill tax for general use without requiring an election.

Officials of the levee district support the proposed changes.

No. 24 would permit the City of New Orleans to issue bonds up to 12 per cent of the assessed value of property. At present New Orleans can't go over 10 per cent.

If the amendment is approved, any bond issues would be subject to approval by New Orleans voters.

Castro Softens Stand To U.N. On Inspections

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro's message to U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant was interpreted in diplomatic circles cited the absence of Castro's earlier refusal to permit them in Cuba and his invitation to Thant to personally come to Cuba as signs that the Cuban regime was softening its earlier position.

The United States has demanded that U.N. observers verify any dismantling of Soviet missile bases in Cuba. Castro replied to this Tuesday night by saying the observers had better come armed to fight.

However, Premier Khrushchev earlier Saturday gave his apparent approval to the principle of on-site inspection in Cuba by foreign observers. And Brazil also has been trying to get the Castro regime to accept them.

General Election Races Are Noted

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Two members of Louisiana's famed Long family and House Majority Whip Hale Boggs are the only Democrats with Republican opposition in Louisiana's Nov. 6 congressional election.

All are heavy favorites, after a lackluster campaign that has seen outside issues—first, desegregation of the University of Mississippi, and now, Cuba—dominate most political talk.

U.S. Sen. Russell Long, at 44 the leader of his family's dynasty, is an odds-on choice to whip Shreveport businessman Taylor W. O'Hearn in the only state-wide contest.

Rep. Boggs, survivor of a tough primary campaign against three outspoken conservatives, faces another in David Treen, 34-year-old former Louisiana States Rights Party chairman, in the 2nd District, mainly New Orleans and Jefferson Parish.

Gillis Long, a political newcomer and the senator's cousin, takes on Republican Jack Lewis, former Alexandria postmaster, in central Louisiana's 8th District where Long ousted Rep. Harold McSween in the July 28 Democratic primary.

The state's six other House members are unopposed for another two-year term in Washington. They are Reps. F. Edward Hebert, New Orleans, 1st District; Edwin Willis, St. Martinville, 3rd District; Joe D. Waggonner Jr., Plain Dealing, 4th District; Otto Passman, Monroe, 5th District; James Morrison, Hammond, 6th District; and T. Ashton Thompson, Ville Platte, 7th District. All are Democrats.

A Republican, George Snellings of Monroe, is opposing W. E. Whetstone of Monroe, who won the Democratic primary for State Board of Education member from the 5th Congressional District. Democrat George Madison is retiring.

Some 48 constitutional amendments, and a variety of local contests, including a six-man race for two seats on the Orleans Parish school board, round out the general election ballot.

Sen. Long, held in Washington until recently by the long congressional session, has barely taken notice of O'Hearn, a 55-year-old political novice and converted Democrat.

Hearn, who was 4th District campaign chairman for segregationist Willie Rainach in the 1959 gubernatorial campaign, has based his campaign on opposition to whatever support Long has given President Kennedy.

A militant conservative, O'Hearn declares: "They (the Kennedy administration) murdered the Monroe Doctrine in Cuba and murdered states rights in Mississippi."

After the Kennedy administration invoked its Cuban blockade, O'Hearn said he hoped the administration "is not planning an inept, inefficient blockade. . ."

Although he has stumped the state since early summer, O'Hearn still remains a virtual unknown, compared with Long, seeking his third full six-year Senate term.

Lewis, 48-year-old lumberman, resigned his position as postmaster to oppose Gillis Long in the 8th District. The district is home of most of the Longs and was represented for many years by Dr. George Long, Russell's uncle, Gillis' cousin and brother of the late Govs. Huey and Earl Long.

U.S. Announces Satellite Launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The Defense Department Saturday announced that a satellite will be launched in a northeast direction from Cape Canaveral next Tuesday, presumably to alert Russia to the fact that it will not be a hostile rocket aimed in its direction.

The announcement said the flashing light geodetic satellite will be fired between 3:08 and 5:08 a.m. Pinpointing blastoff time is a rarity for prelaunch information on U.S. satellite firings.

The satellite is named Anna, an acronym for Army, Navy, NASA and Air Force, the participating agencies. Its purpose is to make more accurate measurements of the size and shape of the earth.

The launching was postponed twice last week, reportedly because of the international situation resulting from the Cuban crisis.

Sources reported the unusual trajectory planned for the Thor-Able-Star rocket possibly could be mistaken for a war rocket aimed at the Soviet Union. So, the sources said, the shot was delayed until Russia could be informed.

The two-stage Thor-Able-Star is to take off on a northeast heading from the Cape. The second stage is to ignite about 2½ minutes after launch and burn for two minutes before shutting down to enter a coast period some 600 miles above the earth.

Dour Doctor Role Makes Actor Happy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Vincent Edwards smiles!

Some folks believe that should rate a headline any day. After all, hasn't television's Ben Casey been written up by alliterative magazine writers as the "dour doctor" and "surly surgeon"? Not to mention "morose medico."

Is he really an angry young (33) man?

"I think people sometimes confuse an actor with the role he plays," he says in his own defense. "Sure, I can get mad when things go wrong. But I can also make a joke as well as anyone."

Edwards is more in a laughing mood these days, and why not? "Ben Casey" is sailing into its second season with the stamp of success. (This alliteration has got to stop.)

One of the reasons Edwards is happier than last season is that this time he is getting a larger piece of the action. He staged a sitdown last spring until his bosses came up with a new deal.

He scoffs at the idea that his action comprised ingratitude. Merely the workings of the free enterprise system, he argues.

"I didn't mind working the first season at a nominal fee," he reasoned. "But after the show had proved itself, I figured I was due for a share.

BY GOVERNORS GROUP

Support Pledged On Civil Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of governors headed by New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller pledged President Kennedy full support Saturday of any civil defense actions needed during the Cuban crisis.

The group, representing the Civil Defense Committee of the Governors Conference, offered their support during a personal call at the White House following a Defense Department briefing.

Rockefeller, often spoken of as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1964, told Kennedy the governors were enlisting "their full support behind the federal government's civil defense program" and stood ready to encourage any effective state action that should be taken.

At their Pentagon briefing, the state executives were told by Stuart Pittman, assistant defense secretary for civilian defense, that he would recommend easing radiation requirements so more shelters could be built, offering protection to nearly twice as many Americans.

They also heard a discussion of the crisis situation from Director John McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

After the White House call, the governors held further discussions with Pittman.

Pittman's radiation protection proposal would clear the way for the sheltering of between 110 million to 120 million persons. Present requirements provide space for only 60 million.

Current standards require radiation inside a shelter to be limited to one hundredth of the amount outside. Pittman advocated that this be allowed to run as high as one-fortieth. He said he wants to develop the present civil defense system into "something more effective" as a result of the Cuban developments.

"It is not a crash program," Pittman commented, "but an attempt to take advantage of the opportunity to do things better than we are now doing them."

Rockefeller said the governors had agreed to return to their states and cooperate fully with federal civil defense officials. He said instructions would be sent to all 50 governors to help them accelerate their state programs.

Rockefeller said the present crisis "dramatizes the fallout shelter program as an essential need for security."

Asked if there was any discussion about evacuating major cities in case of attack, he said "I've never heard such a plan discussed."

BY GOVERNORS GROUP

Support Pledged On Civil Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of governors headed by New York's Nelson A. Rockefeller pledged President Kennedy full support Saturday of any civil defense actions needed during the Cuban crisis.

The group, representing the Civil Defense Committee of the Governors Conference, offered their support during a personal call at the White House following a Defense Department briefing.

Rockefeller, often spoken of as a possible Republican presidential candidate in 1964, told Kennedy the governors were enlisting "their full support behind the federal government's civil defense program" and stood ready to encourage any effective state action that should be taken.

At their Pentagon briefing, the state executives were told by Stuart Pittman, assistant defense secretary for civilian defense, that he would recommend easing radiation requirements so more shelters could be built, offering protection to nearly twice as many Americans.

They also heard a discussion of the crisis situation from Director John McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA).

After the White House call, the governors held further discussions with Pittman.

Pittman's radiation protection proposal would clear the way for the sheltering of between 110 million to 120 million persons. Present requirements provide space for only 60 million.

Current standards require radiation inside a shelter to be limited to one hundredth of the amount outside. Pittman advocated that this be allowed to run as high as one-fortieth. He said he wants to develop the present civil defense system into "something more effective" as a result of the Cuban developments.

"It is not a crash program," Pittman commented, "but an attempt to take advantage of the opportunity to do things better than we are now doing them."

Rockefeller said the governors had agreed to return to their states and cooperate fully with federal civil defense officials. He said instructions would be sent to all 50 governors to help them accelerate their state programs.

Rockefeller said the present crisis "dramatizes the fallout shelter program as an essential need for security."

Asked if there was any discussion about evacuating major cities in case of attack, he said "I've never heard such a plan discussed."

FUTURE AT STAKE

De Gaulle Faces Stiff Vote Test

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle faces his stiffest test yet in a national referendum Sunday when the French people will say, in effect, whether they want him to serve out his term.

About 25 million French voters will give their verdict on his administration with ballots on De Gaulle's proposed constitutional amendment for direct election of his successors.

De Gaulle himself has altered the issue by proclaiming he will resign if the proposal is beaten, or if it wins only what he calls a vague and doubtful majority.

The amendment, which aroused a political storm throughout France until it was overshadowed by the Cuban crisis, would have future presidents elected by universal suffrage instead of by an electoral college of some 80,000 "notables" dominated by the traditional political parties.

In his closing referendum campaign speech to the nation by radio and television, De Gaulle cited the Cuban crisis as proof that France needs a strong executive to cope with the troubled world situation.

The referendum is the first of three ballots which can determine the nation's political future as well as De Gaulle's.

Next month the voters ballot in two rounds of general elections to replace the National Assembly which De Gaulle dissolved following the downfall of the Georges Pompidou Cabinet. To win an assembly seat, an absolute majority is required in the first round, but a plurality suffices in the runoff vote one week later.

Like the referendum, the national elections also involve De Gaulle and the issue of presidential powers. The Pompidou Cabinet was overthrown on a vote of censure against De Gaulle's constitutional reform plan, and this inevitably will be a factor in the campaign.

The middle-road coalition which unseated Pompidou has just issued a broad joint program which it says it is ready to implement if De Gaulle does carry through his avowed intention to resign if the amendment is beaten or scrapes through. This was an effort to assure the country that, contrary to what the Gaullists are saying, the country would not be plunged into chaos if the "no" votes muster a majority Sunday.

Officer Fired Over License

DETROIT (AP) — A suburban policeman, described as a diligent ticket-giver, was fired for driving a scout car without a driver's license.

The suburban Royal Oak Township Board of Supervisors fired Elijah L. Burt after hearing reports from Constable Marshall Taylor and Police Capt. Ed Watkins.

Taylor charged that Burt's license was revoked by the state because he failed to pay a court judgement in a 1959 traffic accident.

PREENGINEERED BUILDING PARTS

NEW YORK (AP) — The rejuvenated preengineered metal building industry now has sales figures of around $200 million a year, double the 1955 peak.

The industry, once the producer of quonset huts and preengineered farm buildings, tool sheds and warehouses, now produces what may be described as giant "erector set" kits that builders use for buildings such as bowling alleys, community recreation halls and auto show-rooms.

Steelways, official publication of the American Iron and Steel Institute, says the new wide variety of preengineered parts allows a builder to combine the metal with masonry, glass or facade materials.

'Legion Weeks' Proclaimed In State, Monroe

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis and Monroe Mayor W. L. Howard have proclaimed the period of Oct. 29 through Nov. 11 as "American Legion Weeks" in the state of Louisiana and Monroe.

Howard, acting in accordance with the governor's act, issued a proclamation, urging and recommending that the citizens assist and support the programs of the American Legion in the community, state and nation.

During this period the Louisiana department of the American Legion hopes to sign a record number of Legionaires in its bid to exceed 50,000 members during 1962 - 63.

Department Commander Percy A. Lemoine of Baton Rouge urges every Legionnaire to sign a new member for '63 so the organization may surpass its enrollment of 46, 530 attained last year.

Public officials throughout the state are backing the drive 100 per cent and have agreed to promote Veterans Day, Nov. 11, to climax the campaign.

Gov. Davis designated Hal A. Burgess, director of the Louisiana department of Veterans Affairs as the state chairman of Veterans Day activities.

ECUMENICAL COUNCIL

Church May Ease Uniformity Rules

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Support seemed to be mounting in the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council Saturday for steps to allow greater flexibility in practices around the earth. The new approach would make a historic transition in ecclesiastical policy.

No vote on any aspect of the change has yet been taken at this worldwide assembly of the episcopate and preliminaries have dragged slowly. After a week of profuse floor discussions, the presidium admonished council fathers to talk less in order to do more.

Despite the snail's pace there are many indications that adjustments are in the making.

"The Church is moving into a new historical period," said Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati.

The council still faces more work on its "schema" for revamping rules of ritual.

Communiques, as well as other information gleaned about the closed sessions, suggested powerful backing for at least some relaxation in the presently fixed practices of the Church.

The Rev. Frederick R. McManus of Washington, D.C., special council consultant on liturgy, told reporters current Church thinking is to ease the system of inflexible uniformity.

This strict uniformity, he noted, arose in the 16th century to guard against the inroads of Protestantism. Previously, the ancient church had left more room for regional diversity.

Tactical Air Command Capable Of Countering Any Aggression

By NORMAN RICHARDSON
State Editor of The Times
Written for The Associated Press

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — If war comes . . ."

Many shrug it off, others give it only a passing thought, but this is a frightening phrase which was heightened to sudden realization this week by the Cuban crisis.

But there are those who can never shrug it off, including the men of the Tactical Air Command, long overshadowed by the hard brilliance of America's Strategic Air Command.

Headquarters at Langley Air Force Base, Va., TAC is capable of countering any degree of aggression with the swift impact of either nuclear or non-nuclear force.

Its operational power in the United States is based on three numbered forces: The 9th Air Force, covering the nation east of the Mississippi River; 12th Air Force, covering west of the river; and the 19th Air Force, made up of classic staff sections with a major function being to provide the command element for deploying mobile strike forces.

England Air Force Base at Alexandria is a part of TAC's 12th Air Force.

Several hundred miles out over the Gulf of Mexico, an unidentified aircraft is picked up on the radar scopes of the 653rd Aircraft Control and Warning Sqnd., an Air Defense Command tenant at England Air Force Base.

The 653rd orders a check of the unknown to determine if it is friendly and off course, flying an unregistered flight plan or if it is an enemy aircraft zeroing in on the shores of the United States. The 653rd would direct fighter planes on an intercept course with the cracft.

The unidentified plane might be friend or enemy, but planes are put into the air to "see, intercept, identify and, if necessary, destroy aircraft."

The Air Defense Command can take no changes.

It if becomes necessary to down the unknown, planes of the 401st Fighter Wing at England AFB are placed on an "increased alert and if necessary can be racing down the runway within minutes.

It is AC&W that sends the planes jumping into the air and which takes over under a code name once the jets clear the runway. The 653rd's area extends roughly through parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and all of Louisiana and keeps "scramble" fighters on five minute alert all along the coastline. It maintains surveillance over the area for aircraft in distress and also scores bomb runs for SAC.

When the Cuban crisis erupted last Monday, England was placed on an increased alert status and went into a mobility exercise, designed to determine "how well and orderly we follow the plan that we have established for such an eventuality."

One ordinarily thinks of SAC as standing alert to fly intercontinental missions, but TAC is also ready for overseas deployment of its aircraft, with the aid of air refueling, in units known as Composite Air Strike Force (CASF).

In reality, CASF is a small tactical air force composed of all essential combat and support elements, including command, fighter, reconnaissance, tanker, troop carrier, communications and support.

The units which constitute this Composite Air Strike Force come from within the resources of the Ninth and Twelfth Air Forces.

The units drawn from the Ninth and Twelfth come under the command of the 19th Air Force, which is unique in that it doesn't have any units or aircraft permanently assigned but instead has a staff—a planning agency—and provides the command element of CASF.

A vitally important responsibility of the Tactical Air Command to the overseas tactical air forces is to serve as a focal point and provide the environment for the development of doctrine, techniques and requirements, including future weapons systems, for all three of TAC's commands.

The F105 Thunderchief is TAC's star strike aircraft today, along with the F100 Super Sabre. The Thunderchief, built by Republic, is a multi-purpose, all - weather puncher with integrated flight and fire control systems.

It carries enormous firepower and can operate as a bomber, fighter bomber, interceptor or fighter and was designed with tactical air missions in mind.

Tactical Air Command Capable Of Countering Any Aggression

By NORMAN RICHARDSON
State Editor of The Times
Written for The Associated Press

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — If war comes . . ."

Many shrug it off, others give it only a passing thought, but this is a frightening phrase which was heightened to sudden realization this week by the Cuban crisis.

But there are those who can never shrug it off, including the men of the Tactical Air Command, long overshadowed by the hard brilliance of America's Strategic Air Command.

Headquarters at Langley Air Force Base, Va., TAC is capable of countering any degree of aggression with the swift impact of either nuclear or non-nuclear force.

Its operational power in the United States is based on three numbered forces: The 9th Air Force, covering the nation east of the Mississippi River; 12th Air Force, covering west of the river; and the 19th Air Force, made up of classic staff sections with a major function being to provide the command element for deploying mobile strike forces.

England Air Force Base at Alexandria is a part of TAC's 12th Air Force.

Several hundred miles out over the Gulf of Mexico, an unidentified aircraft is picked up on the radar scopes of the 653rd Aircraft Control and Warning Sqnd., an Air Defense Command tenant at England Air Force Base.

The 653rd orders a check of the unknown to determine if it is friendly and off course, flying an unregistered flight plan or if it is an enemy aircraft zeroing in on the shores of the United States. The 653rd would direct fighter planes on an intercept course with the cracft.

The unidentified plane might be friend or enemy, but planes are put into the air to "see, intercept, identify and, if necessary, destroy aircraft."

The Air Defense Command can take no changes.

It if becomes necessary to down the unknown, planes of the 401st Fighter Wing at England AFB are placed on an "increased alert and if necessary can be racing down the runway within minutes.

It is AC&W that sends the planes jumping into the air and which takes over under a code name once the jets clear the runway. The 653rd's area extends roughly through parts of Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and all of Louisiana and keeps "scramble" fighters on five minute alert all along the coastline. It maintains surveillance over the area for aircraft in distress and also scores bomb runs for SAC.

When the Cuban crisis erupted last Monday, England was placed on an increased alert status and went into a mobility exercise, designed to determine "how well and orderly we follow the plan that we have established for such an eventuality."

One ordinarily thinks of SAC as standing alert to fly intercontinental missions, but TAC is also ready for overseas deployment of its aircraft, with the aid of air refueling, in units known as Composite Air Strike Force (CASF).

In reality, CASF is a small taxtical air force composed of all essential combat and support elements, including command, fighter, reconnaissance, tanker, troop carrier, communications and support.

The units which constitute this Composite Air Strike Force come from within the resources of the Ninth and Twelfth Air Forces.

The units drawn from the Ninth and Twelfth come under the command of the 19th Air Force, which is unique in that it doesn't have any units or aircraft permanently assigned but instead has a staff—a planning agency—and provides the command element of CASF.

A vitally important responsibility of the Tactical Air Command to the overseas tactical air forces is to serve as a focal point and provide the environment for the development of doctrine, techniques and requirements, including future weapons systems, for all three of TAC's commands.

The F105 Thunderchief is TAC's star strike aircraft today, along with the F100 Super Sabre. The Thunderchief, built by Republic, is a multi-purpose, all - weather puncher with integrated flight and fire control systems.

It carries enormous firepower and can operate as a bomber, fighter bomber, interceptor or fighter and was designed with tactical air missions in mind.

New U.S. Study On Effects Of Smoking Slated

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government took final action Saturday aimed at starting a broad new study by non-biased scientists on the controversy over whether tobacco smoking has adverse health effects such as lung cancer.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry announced the membership of a 10-man Advisory Committee on Smoking and Health and said it would meet Nov. 9-10 in Washington.

The committee, selected by the surgeon general from a list of approximately 150 names submitted to the Public Health Service by federal agencies, voluntary health organizations and the tobacco industry, has a two-fold mission:

1. To make a "comprehensive review of all available data on smoking and other factors in the environment that may affect health"—a study expected to last about six months.

2. To make recommendations for action at the completion of the study.

FREEMAN REPORTS

U.S. Food Ample For Limited War

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. food stocks are so large now that Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman feels only a widespread conflict like World War II would require all-out farm production.

Freeman told reporters Saturday there would be no need to change any of the country's present farm production policies in the event the Soviet-Cuban crisis should lead to a limited, Korean-type engagement.

A re-evaluation would be needed, he said, if nuclear war should come "because no one knows what such a war would do."

The nation now has adequate stocks of food and fiber to meet needs such as were involved in the Korean engagement, he said. Present foodstocks are more than 50 per cent larger than when the Korean war began in 1950.

The population increased from 151 million to 179 million during the 10-year interval between 1950 and 1960.

The secretary said the wheat surplus totaled 400 million bushels when the Korean war began, as compared with 1.3 billion bushels now. The feed-grain surplus was 30 million tons then, and now totals 70 million tons.

Freeman met for more than three hours Friday with the Agriculture Department's civil defense board. He told reporters that the department's defense machinery is in a very advanced state of readiness.

Freeman said, "We know the location of every commodity and its volume. And we know the best means of transporting commodities to any area."

If war should come, Freeman said, his department is ready to take control of all food and agricultural supplies. A master plan for this was worked out more than a year ago.

The secretary said his department has detected "no real scare-buying of any kind" since the Cuban crisis developed.

Crisis Dangers May Grow

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Opinion in Washington is that the Cuban situation may well turn more dangerous before it gets better.

This remains the attitude despite Soviet Premier Khrushchev's latest proposal Saturday — calling for withdrawal of U.S. nuclear missiles from Turkey in exchange for which he says he says he would eliminate Soviet nuclear weapons from Cuba.

While this kept the way open for further negotiations aimed at a peaceful settlement, the White House said firmly that there could be no real negotiations until Russia withdraws the threat in Cuba.

However, the atmosphere at the White House and in the other government centers dealing with the situation is calm, if not quiet. The offices are busy. Lights burn late at night.

There is an air of wariness against possible Khrushchev traps.

Several times since he ordered the quarantine last Monday, President Kennedy has worked past 2 a.m. After going to bed he has been awakened frequently as new developments materialized.

But he managed to find time for an occasional swim. He was in the White House pool Friday night when the news came that Khrushchev had advised U Thant, acting U.N. secretary-general, that he would refrain—for the time being—from sending any more Soviet ships into the quarantine area.

How does Kennedy look after a week of tremendous pressure?

"He never looked better in his life," an intimate said.

Informed opinion here is that the Russians had two objectives in installing missile launching sites in Cuba:

1. "To see if they could get away with it. They undoubtedly figured that if we wouldn't react to something aimed right at our guts, then we wouldn't react to whatever they're planning about Berlin," one source stated.

2. To enchance their missile capabilities with medium-and intermedate-range weapons. There is no doubt the Russians can hit the United States with intercontinental missiles. But with the Cuban site as well, in the Washington view, "it is like having 13 men on the football field."

Once the facts about the Cuban sites were fully ascertained and evaluated, Kennedy acted.

"He never looked better in his life," an intimate said.

Informed opinion here is that the Russians had two objectives in installing missile launching sites in Cuba:

1. "To see if they could get away with it. They undoubtedly figured that if we wouldn't react to something aimed right at our guts, then we wouldn't react to whatever they're planning about Berlin," one source stated.

2. To enchance their missile capabilities with medium-and intermediate-range weapons. There is no doubt the Russians can hit the United States with intercontinental missiles. But with the Cuban site as well, in the Washington view, "it is like having 13 men on the football field."

Once the facts about the Cuban sites were fully ascertained and evaluated, Kennedy acted.

SOMETHING NEW

At The Zoo

Big game hunter Arthur Jones and a vast assortment of animals, snakes and birds from all parts of the world will be featured today at Bernstein Park when the City of Monroe unfolds the first phase of its development program at the city zoo.

It'll be "A Day at the Zoo with Arthur Jones," sponsored by the Monroe Optimist Club, a local civic club that is assisting the city with its zoo development.

BIG GAME HUNTERS

Jones, joined by Zoo Director Kit Beecher and big game hunter Bill Carpenter of Bastrop, will conduct exhibitions throughout the event, which is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Among the exhibitions are rattlesnake milking demonstrations and a 'gator wrestling—pitting a man against an alligator.

But the main attraction will be the opening of a new ape house, designed by Jones to house the city's new animals, reptiles and birds.

Zoo-goers will be introduced to the ape house as they walk into the main entrance where they will stare a 1300-pound-crocodile from Africa in the face. The crocodile is housed in a pool bounded on one side by glass.

OTHER CREATURES

Once inside the ape house the visitor can see cobras from Africa and India, pythons from South Eastern Asia, panthers from Asia and South America, apes from Borneo, giant lizards from South America and birds from South America.

The pythons — four big ones in all — will attract a lot of attention. The largest measures over 31 feet long — longer than the 28-foot python held in the above picture by several members of the Optimists.

Along with the new additions, the zoo will feature other species of wildlife — seals, monkeys, bears, lions, alligators and small animals. The monkey island alone — built by the Optimist Club — offers quite a show.

PROCEEDS

Proceeds from concessions sold at the "zoo day" will go toward the further development of the zoo — such as the construction of a tiger house, sidewalks and landscaping. The Optimists will ask for a 10 cent per person contribution at the gate, but only on a voluntary basis.

Optimists will don white jungle hats for "A Day at the Zoo with Arthur Jones."

Last Will, Testament

The Council of Women Citizens, with headquarters in Chicago, has drawn up a startling "last will and testament."

"We hold in trust the legacy of young Americans," the council said, pointing out that the kind of inheritance our children will receive will depend upon many things, such as:

"Our personal devotion to the principles set forth in the Constitution.

"Our individual spiritual, intellectual and political purposes.

"The kind of men and women we send to congress."

These points were stressed:

The people we elect will hold in their hands the peace of the world and the shape of things to come. The way they vote will determine the kind of government under which future generations of Americans will live.

Select them with care. Choose candidates on the basis of their dedication to the cause of freedom, their high moral standards, love of country, independence of spirit, rather than party loyalty.

Many forces are working for the concentration of power at the federal level. This was not the intention of the men who wrote the constitution. They were especially concerned with limiting, not enlarging, the power of government.

Great concentration of power has always been an evil and dangerous thing because, sooner or later, it attracts power - hungry men who grab control for selfish purposes. Loss of freedom is always the end result, history teaches.

After the usual attestation and followed by the signature of the maker of the will and the witnesses, the will said:

"Being a conscientious citizen, who recognizes the responsibilities that attend being an American, I do hereby assert my intentions and desire to pass on to succeeding generations the same kind of opportunity and personal liberties that were bequeathed to me by preceding generations of Freedom-loving people.

"In good faith, having lived under the greatest freedom mankind has ever known, I can do no less than leave to future Americans these blessings:

"A government of three separate and distinct powers as outlined by the Constitution, with neither the Legislative, Judicial of Executive infringing upon the other.

"The right to hold title to private property, be it a business for profit or a home for enjoyment. To be able to change address or business at will, to save, invest and plan a future without undue government regulations or interference. To be able to keep a fair share of their labor and otherwise enjoy the benefits of our free enterprise competitive economic system that has done for its people in 200 years what no other system has been able to do in all history.

"A government that recognizes the worth and dignity of the individual, where freedom of religion and the right to assemble are protected under the Constitution.

"The right to vote regularly and in secret for the candidates of the people's choice, not those selected by the State. The right to know, through the free flow of information, the actions taken and the policies set by public officials, at all levels of government.

"A government of law, not of men. A government responsible to the will of the people and independent of extended political control by any special group or party.

"The right to speak out, to criticise and dissent, to advocate reforms and ideas without fear of reprisal.

"The opportunity to obtain an education that is intended to meet individual needs, not those of the State; education which will prepare each person for a career of his or her choosing.

"The right to work and dream, to climb as high as ability permits. The right to select a job and to be rewarded in proportion to individual resourcefulness. The right to resign for any reason and at any time without political penalty or punishment. The right to join a labor organization that is free from the control of government, management or selfish interests; or not to join.

"And finally, a Society in which the benefits, both spiritual and material, that flow from Freedom, will continue to be cherished, revered and redefined by present and succeeding generation to the glory of our Creator and good of mankind."

Khrushchev's 'Welcome'

A fluid, red carpet, resembling blood, will be poured out as a "welcome' to Chairman Nikita Khrushchev of the Communist party when he arrives in New York for a meeting of the United Nations. This "welcome" is being prepared by the longshoremen of the United States as a reminder to the Red Russian leader of the blood he has shed.

Victor Riesel, long a prominent commentator on labor unions, has outlined some of the preparation for the "welcome."

Communist Party First Secretary Khrushchev should be intrigued by the knowledge that it is the working class of New York which is preparing the "welcome" —none other than the longshoremen.

The national union in New York is set up to buy huge quantities of red dye to be poured into the waters of New York's harbor as the Communist leader's ship heaves into sight. Nor do the longshoremen believe in subtlety.

The red dye will be "the symbol of the blood the communist troops and militia have spilled in Hungary, Berlin, Poland, Tibet and Cuba," said Ted Gleason, national general organizer of the 75,000-man International Longshoremen's Association.

"We were not really prepared," Gleason observed dryly, "for his arrival on the Baltika in the East River just two years ago. This time we will be.

"We will have small boats hovering around Khrushchev's vessel if he comes in next month. We will have large signs in Russian, reminding him of the cannonading on the streets of Budapest and the mountainsides of Tibet, and of the execution squads in Havana's short-order prisons. We will lash huge photos of Soviet - created death scenes to large buoys floating in the harbor.

"And we won't unload his ship or help it tie up, as it did last time at pier.

"Tell the country, which is not quite aware of what's happening, that we have stopped 25 ships so far. We're not unloading any Soviet cargo, even from non-communist vessels."

At one time the longshoremen were said to be pretty well shot through with communists. Either this is no longer true or Americanism is prevailing over party belief, if Gleason's words represent the general sentiment of the longshoremen.

Views Of Our Readers

On UNICEF

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

Ben Oliphint has again written an article criticizing your editorials which attempted to present to the readers of the Monroe News Star — Morning World, the true facts concerning UNICEF.

There are certain facts concerning UNICEF which either Ben Oliphint is not aware or prefers to ignore.

UNICEF, which was purportedly established for the purpose of "helping children to be better fed, healthier, have a better opportunity to grow into useful productive adulthood". appropriated $59 million of its funds from 1947 through 1958, for Communist countries. Of this amount, the United State supplied $42 million. As in the case of any "aid" program, the money does not go to the needy ones, but to their governments and is administered by their government.

The following are some of the examples of which this $59 million went:

Country		Amount of Grant	Amount that country contributed to the fund
Communist	Albania	$ 325,000	$-0-
Communist	Bulgaria	5,500,000	-0-
Communist	China	3,500,000	-0-
Communist	Czech	5,6000,000	34,722
Communist	Hungary	2,000,000	-0-
Communist	Poland	19,000,000	80,000
Communist	Romania	7,000,000	-0-

Lawrence Timbers, Past Vice-Chairman of the Department of Anti - Subversive Committee of the American Legion is his "Facts about UNICEF", which was compiled February 24, 1958, said, "We have an organization, governmental in character, and underwritten by contributions from 81 governments. The U. S. Government contributes more than 80 per cent to its support, and the other 80 nations contribute less than 20 per cent . . . 19 of the nations — and this includes all the Communist and Iron Curtain countries — contribute in non-convertible money . . . and this money can be used only to hire their citizens to work for UNICEF, or to purchase goods from that country, or to return it in aid to that country. UNICEF had a U. S. National Committee to promote its program, and at least nineteen of its sixty - five members are, or have been, affiliated with one or more Communist - front organizations. The World Health Organization, which cooperates with UNICEF by furnishing technicians, had as its head in 1955, Mr. Brock Chisholm, a Canadian. He advocates that Canadian and U. S. families should practice birth control and limit their families to two children. They should adopt children from the backward countries and the darker the skins the better, because he says the sooner we are all mixed into one race the better."

Mr. Hubert Kregeloh, in his article, "Don't Send Me A UNICEF Greeting Card", wrote, "The dissemination of the (UNICEF Greeting) cards serves, of course, a distinct propaganda goal, but the money obtained from them and all public solicitation is relatively insignificant. According to Major Edgar Bundy's analysis of UNICEF's report for 1957, of the $44 million obtained from the United States (as against $7 million for all other nations) only $2.5 million came from sale of the cards and direct solicitation combined. The purpose of the emotional ballyhoo, obviously, is 'not' to raise money 'for needy children'. One of the real purposes was noted by Mr. Timbers: 'the importance of the Halloween campaign is to put churches on public record as favorable to UNICEF, so church leaders can appear before appropriations committees of Congress and in the names of their church organizations urge more millions of dollars in Government contributions to UNICEF'. But even this purpose is secondary. A much more fundamental purpose is almost openly avowed by one of UNICEF's admirers in an article in the National Education Association Journel for May, 1959. After boasting that 2,250,000 school children had been sent out to collect on the past Halloween, he points out that the children were thereby drawn into a lot of 'preliminary' activity in many schools, 'from drawing maps and posters to writing and performing an original television play'. Some schools, indeed, to get the youngsters in the right frame of mind for passing the hat, administered "study units on the interdependency of nations." And at least one progressive school 'followed up' the Halloween stunt with a program lasting 'all year' which triumphantly 'culminated in a minature UN Assembly, with each student representing the country of his choice'. Translated from the dialect of the professional educators, this means that Halloween is the opening wedge for an intensive program of brainwashing . . .".

On page 365, of the December 2, 1961, issue of The National Review, the following interesting article appeared, "In the course of the debate in the United Nations, on the future of Southwest Africa, one speaker commented that this was hardly the time for the United Nations to take over new responsibilities when it has been forced to raid the treasury of some member organizations — UNICEF was one the speaker mentioned — in order to keep going. Looks like the goblins have been at it again. Those dimes and dollars million of warmhearted parents and teachers and American children collected on Halloween for UNICEF to feed hungry tots the world over were used, instead to buy guns with which to shoot the Katangese!"

The amount involved is $10 million according to information supplied by the State Department to the House Appropriations Committee.

Several army chaplains have staunchly maintained that UNICEF funds were not passed on to the needy youth of the Communist nations, but were used by the Communist party in the Communist controlled countries.

Mr. William Burges, the UNICEF representative in Shanghai, turned large stocks of UNICEF supplies over to the Communists. This is the same man, who said, in a speech to the Chinese communists, that the ruling clique of America are responsible for the Korean war.

The first chairman of UNICEF was Ludwig Rajchmann, representing Communist Poland, who used his influence in this position to get aid for the Communist countries. When the Senate Judiciary Committee subpoenaed him to inquire about his connection with Alger Hiss, he fled to Paris to escape U. S. jurisdiction, but still continued as Communist Poland's representative to UNICEF.

I do not believe that anyone condemns every aspect of UNICEF, because undoubtedly some of its members are sincere in their attempts to do good works.

The majority of the funds go to Communist nations, where experience has shown, there is little likelihood that it will reach those for whom it was intended, but, instead is administered by governments, who are enemies of established religions and even humanity itself. Would it not be better for the religious denominations which wish to do so, organize their children for a Halloween drive for funds which would be used to feed needy children by each denomination's own experienced and trustworthy missionaries?

Some have implied that those who oppose UNICEF are not Christians and violate God's Will. There are many biblical references which clearly indicate that this is not the case. I should like to quote only one, (I Timothy 5, 3-10) ". . . but if a widow has children or grandchildren, let them first learn to provide for their own household and make some return to their parents, for this is pleasing to God . . . but if any one does not take care of his own, especially of his household, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever."

Negroes Dislike Selves?

CHOUDRANT, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to know what is the matter with the colored race. Do they not believe in themselves and do they not have any confidence in their abilities?

We hear so much of Negroes wanting to leave their own schools or colleges and go to white schools and colleges and not one word of protest do we hear from the teachers and principals of Negro schools or instructors and presidents of Negro colleges. It seems to me they would resent the ways they are being slandered and degraded by their own race. Why do they not protest the reputation that is being given them by the ones who claim, if they are to get an education, it has to be gotten from the whites? Or is it that the integrationists are so bad themselves they are not wanted by their own race.

Also, I wonder if the Negro ministers cannot preach or lead one to know God. Is God not to be found in a colored church? If not, do they, the integrationists, think God would stay in a white man's church if they attended it? To know God is to be happy in His presence and if He is to be found in the colored man's church, and I believe He is, then why are they not happy there instead of taking the devil to the white man's church? If Martin Luther King and all other integrationists knew God they would be content in His presence. Why do we not hear words of protest from Negro laymen and clergy against their attempt to lead people to believe you have to be with the whites to find God and worship Him?

Does the colored race resent being black? If so, they are not nearly so black when they are together. It is when they are mixed with the whites that they shine blacker than ever. Did God not create them? He did, and they should learn to stand up with pride and be happy to work for the betterment of themselves and not depend on the white race to try to make something of them.

Feeding Own First

ANNE

Wisner, La.

To the Editor:

I've been reading all the pros and cons of the UNICEF controversy. As I've read the arguments both for and against, the thing that bothers me is the real issue involved.

Everybody is for feeding hungry children. Any person with any heart at all is for this. But, the world is full of hungry children, and this includes the free world. There are more hungry children in the free nations of the earth than UNICEF will ever hope to feed.

It is my firm conviction that we need to place our emphasis on rolling back the iron curtains and bamboo curtains of the world. Have we really accomplished anything when we help to raise up a child to communist servitude? A child would be far better off in heaven than living under the iron rule of a communist dictator.

It is my personal feeling that I can do more to alleviate the world's ills by giving through the mission channels of my own church.

Anti-FBI Drive

Pinkos And Muddled Liberals Would Like To Destroy Hoover

From time to time, a strange coalition of pinkos and muddled liberals, with the Communists lurking in the background, attempt to stir up a lynching. The man they would most like to see hanging from a limb is J. Edgar Hoover, who has run one of the very few untarnished agencies in the Federal government. But it is not only Mr. Hoover's hide they are after. What they wish to do is to destroy the effectiveness of the FBI.

Occasionally, the hysteria brigade impresses a few Americans — even though one of the most passionate civil liberties lawyers, Morris Ernest, has repeatedly come to the defense of the FBI and highly praised Mr. Hoover.

A new "hate Hoover" campaign is now in the making. The spearhead is one Jack Levine, a former FBI agent, who has come up with a bill of particulars which would bring the house down on the Ed Sullivan show. More's the pity, a number of otherwise responsible newspapers have given Mr. Levine's long screed — and the transcript of an interview he gave to an ultraliberal New York radio station — houseroom.

Among Mr. Levine's more "important" charges is that FBI Director Hoover will fire agents if they have a tendency to moist palms because he "considers this to be an indication of weak character." If the FBI did not stand between the Federal government and all-out Communist infiltration, this would be worth a laugh. The FBI, which puts in more free overtime in its dedicated work than any other government agency, doesn't find it very amusing.

Mr. Levine, who solemnly states that the "autocratic" Mr. Hoover even "dictated" to him "the style of socks we were to wear," can be put in his place pretty easily. He served with the Bureau from September 1960 to August 1961 — then resigned. One month later — and this is not reported by those who have aired his remarks — he wrote to the FBI asking to be reinstated and expressing his "high regard" for the Bureau and Mr. Hoover. He was turned down. In October 1961, he applied once more for reinstatement, again singing the praises of the FBI. And again he was turned down. Then he applied for a position with the Justice Department. This failing, he hit the anti-FBI sawdust trail.

In his catalogue of FBI "sins," the disgruntled Mr. Levine repeats a whole litany of charges made by the left-wing press over the years and exhaustively refuted by careful researches. (The Bureau feels that is have enough work to do without spending the taxpayer's money and its own time in preparing rebuttals.)

One of these charges will be universally resented by those who have worked for the FBI or have had any association with it — the subversives always excepted. This is that "many" FBI agents become "disillusioned" but are "afraid" to quit for fear of reprisals. To begin with, there are hosts of men in government and private industry who got their start in the Bureau, resigned when it suited their wishes, and moved on to better paying positions.

During the years that I covered what is known among newspapermen as the "subversive beat," I got to know a good many FBI agents. I watched them at work. There were times when they felt tired, when they felt that the long hours they put in and the meticulous investigations they carried out were not appreciated by the press. They never complained that they were "disillusioned" by the Bureau or by Mr. Hoover.

At the same time, I have known former FBI agents who have been elected or appointed to high office — or who hold important private jobs. They are out of the reach of the Bureau— if Mr. Levine is to be believed. Yet they have invariably spoken with nostalgia of their days in the Bureau. And they have frankly volunteered the fact that they owe much to the training they received during their FBI days. Interestingly enough, they have never voiced what I consider one legitimate complaint — that given the full-time dedication required of FBI agents, the Congress might pay them a little more — say, as much as a plumber or hod-carrier on a defense project makes.

As an individual, I would much rather see the millions we are wasting in Communist Yugoslavia, Communist Poland, and crypto-Communist Indonesia being spent on those who, under J. Edgar Hoover, have made the FBI a model among investigative agencies. This is the time to stand behind the FBI, not cripple it.

New Tax Rebates

Many In Business, Trades And Professions Will Get Cuts

Many of you in business, trade or the professions will find when you make out your 1962 income tax return that the new investment credit — heart of the Revenue Act of 1962 — is giving you an utterly unanticipated tax cut on this year's earnings. For this credit applies to all your qualified purchases of equipment after 1961, regardless of why you bought the equipment.

You can take the credit as a direct reduction of the tax you owe on your 1962 return. It is, as reported in yesterday's column, in effect a tax rebate.

But while the credit is a windfall to many of you who would have bought the property in any case, a highly important point is that it also can make it considerably easier for you to buy depreciable equipment, autos, etc., in the future.

To illustrate, assume you are a small businessman whose top tax bracket averages 30 per cent. You want to buy a new, modern piece of machinery which you will use in your business for eight years. The cost will be $10,000 and the first year's down payment, $2,500.

Under the new law, you are entitled to a credit of 7 per cent of the cost and this credit plus the depreciation you can take will give you back in tax savings in the first year a major chunk of your $2,500 down payment.

The 7 per cent credit will hand you $700. The 20 per cent first-year depreciation will save you taxes of $558. The 200 per cent declining balance depreciation will add $558.

Your total tax saving in the first year will come to $1,816, almost enough to supply funds to make the down payment.

(1) It is not restricted to new property. You can purchase used equipment and also get a tax rebate. However, while there is no limit on the amount of new equipment which can be purchased and qualify for the credit, the annual ceiling on used property which can qualify is $50,000. Therefore, if you may run over this maximum in any one year, your aim should be to time your buying to keep each year's purchases of used property within the $50,000 annual ceiling.

(2) This is not a tax break which you can elect to take or turn down. If you don't take it, your basis for depreciation will be reduced by the credit anyway. So if you're entitled to the credit, take it.

(3) You don't lose the credit if you buy eligible property, but don't have any earnings on which to pay taxes and therefore, no tax against which to take the credit. Any unused portion of the investment credit may be carried back for three years and carried over for five years. But since no carry-back is permitted to a year ending before 1962, if you have an unusual credit this year, you can only carry it forward for use in future years.

(4) The credit generally is barred to hotels and other lodging houses which cater predominantly to permanent residents, although if the hotel has a restaurant, pharmacy or other commercial facility which is available to the public, the assets purchased for that part of the hotel can get the credit. On the other hand, hotels, lodging houses, motels, etc., which are used predominantly by transients can get the credit for furniture, fixtures, rugs, drapes, TV sets, so forth.

(5) If you have leased rather than bought your new autos, equipment, etc., for business or income - producing purposes, you too may get this new tax credit if you con convince your lessor to give you the unanticipated bonanza which he otherwise could take for himself. The law specifically says that the lessor can pass on the investment credit to you. If he won't, you might consider buying rather than leasing the assets and picking up the tax credit yourself.

This new credit is going to involve a lot more record-keeping on purchases of equipment than most businessmen or professionals have been doing.

Last Will, Testament

The Council of Women Citizens, with headquarters in Chicago, has drawn up a startling "last will and testament."

"We hold in trust the legacy of young Americans," the council said, pointing out that the kind of inheritance our children will receive will depend upon many things, such as:

"Our personal devotion to the principles set forth in the Constitution.

"Our individual spiritual, intellectual and political purposes.

"The kind of men and women we send to congress."

These points were stressed:

The people we elect will hold in their hands the peace of the world and the shape of things to come. The way they vote will determine the kind of government under which future generations of Americans will live.

Select them with care. Choose candidates on the basis of their dedication to the cause of freedom, their high moral standards, love of country, independence of spirit, rather than party loyalty.

Many forces are working for the concentration of power at the federal level. This was not the intention of the men who wrote the constitution. They were especially concerned with limiting, not enlarging, the power of government.

Great concentration of power has always been an evil and dangerous thing because, sooner or later, it attracts power - hungry men who grab control for selfish purposes. Loss of freedom is always the end result, history teaches.

After the usual attestation and followed by the signature of the maker of the will and the witnesses, the will said:

"Being a conscientious citizen, who recognizes the responsibilities that attend being an American, I do hereby assert my intentions and desire to pass on to succeeding generations the same kind of opportunity and personal liberties that were bequeathed to me by preceding generations of Freedom-loving people.

"In good faith, having lived under the greatest freedom mankind has ever known, I can do no less than leave to future Americans these blessings:

"A government of three separate and distinct powers as outlined by the Constitution, with neither the Legislative, Judicial of Executive infringing upon the other.

"The right to hold title to private property, be it a business for profit or a home for enjoyment. To be able to change address or business at will, to save, invest and plan a future without undue government regulations or interference. To be able to keep a fair share of their labor and otherwise enjoy the benefits of our free enterprise competitive economic system that has done for its people in 200 years what no other system has been able to do in all history.

"A government that recognizes the worth and dignity of the individual, where freedom of religion and the right to assemble are protected under the Constitution.

"The right to vote regularly and in secret for the candidates of the people's choice, not those selected by the State. The right to know, through the free flow of information, the actions taken and the policies set by public officials, at all levels of government.

"A government of law, not of men. A government responsible to the will of the people and independent of extended political control by any special group or party.

"The right to speak out, to criticise and dissent, to advocate reforms and ideas without fear of reprisal.

"The opportunity to obtain an education that is intended to meet individual needs, not those of the State; education which will prepare each person for a career of his or her choosing.

"The right to work and dream, to climb as high as ability permits. The right to select a job and to be rewarded in proportion to individual resourcefulness. The right to resign for any reason and at any time without political penalty or punishment. The right to join a labor organization that is free from the control of government, management or selfish interests; or not to join.

"And finally, a Society in which the benefits, both spiritual and material, that flow from Freedom, will continue to be cherished, revered and redefined by present and succeeding generation to the glory of our Creator and good of mankind."

Khrushchev's 'Welcome'

A fluid, red carpet, resembling blood, will be poured out as a "welcome' to Chairman Nikita Khrushchev of the Communist party when he arrives in New York for a meeting of the United Nations. This "welcome" is being prepared by the longshoremen of the United States as a reminder to the Red Russian leader of the blood he has shed.

Victor Riesel, long a prominent commentator on labor unions, has outlined some of the preparation for the "welcome."

Communist Party First Secretary Khrushchev should be intrigued by the knowledge that it is the working class of New York which is preparing the "welcome" —none other than the longshoremen.

The national union in New York is set up to buy huge quantities of red dye to be poured into the waters of New York's harbor as the Communist leader's ship heaves into sight. Nor do the longshoremen believe in subtlety.

The red dye will be "the symbol of the blood the communist troops and militia have spilled in Hungary, Berlin, Poland, Tibet and Cuba," said Ted Gleason, national general organizer of the 75,000-man International Longshoremen's Association.

"We were not really prepared," Gleason observed dryly, "for his arrival on the Baltika in the East River just two years ago. This time we will be.

"We will have small boats hovering around Khrushchev's vessel if he comes in next month. We will have large signs in Russian, reminding him of the cannonading on the streets of Budapest and the mountainsides of Tibet, and of the execution squads in Havana's short-order prisons. We will lash huge photos of Soviet - created death scenes to large buoys floating in the harbor.

"And we won't unload his ship or help it tie up, as it did last time at pier.

"Tell the country, which is not quite aware of what's happening, that we have stopped 25 ships so far. We're not unloading any Soviet cargo, even from non-communist vessels."

At one time the longshoremen were said to be pretty well shot through with communists. Either this is no longer true or Americanism is prevailing over party belief, if Gleason's words represent the general sentiment of the longshoremen.

Views Of Our Readers

On UNICEF

Monroe, La.

To The Editor:

Ben Oliphint has again written an article criticizing your editorials which attempted to present to the readers of the Monroe News Star — Morning World, the true facts concerning UNICEF.

There are certain facts concerning UNICEF which either Ben Oliphint is not aware or prefers to ignore.

UNICEF, which was purportedly established for the purpose of "helping children to be better fed, healthier, have a better opportunity to grow into useful productive adulthood", appropriated $59 million of its funds from 1947 through 1958, for Communist countries. Of this amount, the United State supplied $42 million. As in the case of any "aid" program, the money does not go to the needy ones, but to their governments and is administered by their government.

The following are some of the examples of which this $59 million went:

Country		Amount of Grant	Amount that country contributed to the fund
Communist	Albania	$ 325,000	$-0-
Communist	Bulgaria	5,500,000	-0-
Communist	China	3,500,000	-0-
Communist	Czech	5,6000,000	34,722
Communist	Hungary	2,000,000	-0-
Communist	Poland	19,000,000	80,000
Communist	Romania	7,000,000	-0-

Lawrence Timbers, Past Vice-Chairman of the Department of Anti - Subversive Committee of the American Legion is his "Facts about UNICEF", which was compiled February 24, 1958, said, "We have an organization, governmental in character, and under written by contributions from 81 governments. The U. S. Government contributes more than 80 per cent to its support, and the other 80 nations contribute less than 20 per cent . . . 19 of the nations — and this includes all the Communist and Iron Curtain countries — contribute in non-convertible money . . . and this money can be used only to hire their citizens to work for UNICEF, or to purchase goods from that country, or to return it in aid to that country. UNICEF had a U. S. National Committee to promote its program, and at least nineteen of its sixty - five members are, or have been, affiliated with one or more Communist - front organizations. The World Health Organization, which cooperates with UNICEF by furnishing technicians, had as its head in 1955, Mr. Brock Chisholm, a Canadian. He advocates that Canadian and U. S. families should practice birth control and limit their families to two children. They should adopt children from the backward countries and the darker the skins the better, because he says the sooner we are all mixed into one race the better."

Mr. Hubert Kregeloh, in his article, "Don't Send Me A UNICEF Greeting Card", wrote, "The dissemination of the (UNICEF Greeting) cards serves, of course, a distinct propaganda goal, but the money obtained from them and all public solicitation is relatively insignificant. According to Major Edgar Bundy's analysis of UNICEF's report for 1957, of the $44 million obtained from the United States (as against $7 million for all other nations) only $2.5 million came from sale of the cards and direct solicitation combined. The purpose of the emotional ballyhoo, obviously, is 'not' to raise money 'for needy children'. One of the real purposes was noted by Mr. Timbers: 'the importance of the Halloween campaign is to put churches on public record as favorable to UNICEF, so church leaders can appear before appropriations committees of Congress and in the names of their church organizations urge more millions of dollars in Government contributions to UNICEF'. But even this purpose is secondary. A much more fundamental purpose is almost openly avowed by one of UNICEF's admirers in an article in the National Education Association Journel for May, 1959. After boasting that 2,250,000 school children had been sent out to collect on the past Halloween, he points out that the children were thereby drawn into a lot of 'preliminary' activity in many schools, 'from drawing maps and posters to writing and performing an original television play'. Some schools, indeed, to get the youngsters in the right frame of mind for passing the hat, administered "study units on the interdependency of nations." And at least one progressive school 'followed up' the Halloween stunt with a program lasting 'all year' which triumphantly 'culminated in a minature UN Assembly, with each student representing the country of his choice'. Translated from the dialect of the professional educators, this means that Halloween is the opening wedge for an intensive program of brainwashing . . .".

On page 365, of the December 2, 1961, issue of The National Review, the following interesting article appeared, "In the course of the debate in the United Nations, on the future of Southwest Africa, one speaker commented that this was hardly the time for the United Nations to take over new responsibilities when it has been forced to raid the treasury of some member organizations — UNICEF was one the speaker mentioned — in order to keep going. Looks like the goblins have been at it again. Those dimes and dollars million of warmhearted parents and teachers and American children collected on Halloween for UNICEF to feed hungry tots the world over were used, instead to buy guns with which to shoot the Katangese!"

The amount involved is $10 million according to information supplied by the State Department to the House Appropriations Committee.

Several army chaplains have staunchly maintained that UNICEF funds were not passed on to the needy youth of the Communist nations, but were used by the Communist party in the Communist controlled countries.

Mr. William Burges, the UNICEF representative in Shanghai, turned large stocks of UNICEF supplies over to the Communists. This is the same man, who said, in a speech to the Chinese communists, that the ruling clique of America are responsible for the Korean war.

The first chairman of UNICEF was Ludwig Rajchmann, representing Communist Poland, who used his influence in this position to get aid for the Communist countries. When the Senate Judiciary Committee subpoenaed him to inquire about his connection with Alger Hiss, he fled to Paris to escape U. S. jurisdiction, but still continued as Communist Poland's representative to UNICEF.

I do not believe that anyone condemns every aspect of UNICEF, because undoubtedly some of its members are sincere in their attempts to do good works.

The majority of the funds go to Communist nations, where experience has shown, there is little likelihood that it will reach those for whom it was intended, but, instead is administered by governments, who are enemies of established religions and even humanity itself. Would it not be better for the religious denominations which wish to do so, organize their children for a Halloween drive for funds which would be used to feed needy children by each denomination's own experienced and trustworthy missionaries?

Some have implied that those who oppose UNICEF are not Christians and violate God's Will. There are many biblical references which clearly indicate that this is not the case. I should like to quote only one, (I Timothy 5, 3-10) ". . . but if a widow has children or grandchildren, let them first learn to provide for their own household and make some return to their parents, for this is pleasing to God . . . but if any one does not take care of his own, especially of his household, he has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever."

Negroes Dislike Selves?

CHOUDRANT, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to know what is the matter with the colored race. Do they not believe in themselves and do they not have any confidence in their abilities?

We hear so much of Negroes wanting to leave their own schools or colleges and go to white schools and colleges and not one word of protest do we hear from the teachers and principals of Negro schools or instructors and presidents of Negro colleges. It seems to me they would resent the ways they are being slandered and degraded by their own race. Why do they not protest the reputation that is being given them by the ones who claim, if they are to get an education, it has to be gotten from the whites? Or is it that the integrationists are so bad themselves they are not wanted by their own race.

Also, I wonder if the Negro ministers cannot preach or lead one to know God. Is God not to be found in a colored church? If not, do they, the integrationists, think God would stay in a white man's church if they attended it? To know God is to be happy in His presence and if He is to be found in the colored man's church, and I believe He is, then why are they not happy there instead of taking the devil to the white man's church? If Martin Luther King and all other integrationists knew God they would be content in His presence. Why do we not hear words of protest from Negro laymen and clergy against their attempt to lead people to believe you have to be with the whites to find God and worship Him?

Does the colored race resent being black? If so, they are not nearly so black when they are together. It is when they are mixed with the whites that they shine blacker than ever. Did God not create them? He did, and they should learn to stand up with pride and be happy to work for the betterment of themselves and not depend on the white race to try to make something of them.

Feeding Own First

ANNE

Wisner, La.

To the Editor:

I've been reading all the pros and cons of the UNICEF controversy. As I've read the arguments both for and against, the thing that bothers me is the real issue involved.

Everybody is for feeding hungry children. Any person with any heart at all is for this. But, the world is full of hungry children, and this includes the free world. There are more hungry children in the free nations of the earth than UNICEF will ever hope to feed.

It is my firm conviction that we need to place our emphasis on rolling back the iron curtains and bamboo curtains of the world. Have we really accomplished anything when we help to raise up a child to communist servitude? A child would be far better off in heaven than living under the iron rule of a communist dictator.

It is my personal feeling that I can do more to alleviate the world's ills by giving through the mission channels of my own church.

Anti-FBI Drive

From time to time, a strange coalition of pinkos and muddled liberals, with the Communists lurking in the background, attempt to stir up a lynching. The man they would most like to see hanging from a limb is J. Edgar Hoover, who has run one of the very few untarnished agencies in the Federal government. But it is not only Mr. Hoover's hide they are after. What they wish to do is to destroy the effectiveness of the FBI.

Occasionally, the hysteria brigade impresses a few Americans — even though one of the most passionate civil liberties lawyers, Morris Ernest, has repeatedly come to the defense of the FBI and highly praised Mr. Hoover.

A new "hate Hoover" campaign is now in the making. The spearhead is one Jack Levine, a former FBI agent, who has come up with a bill of particulars which would bring the house down on the Ed Sullivan show. More's the pity, a number of otherwise responsible newspapers have given Mr. Levine's long screed — and the transcript of an interview he gave to an ultraliberal New York radio station — houseroom.

Among Mr. Levine's more "important" charges is that FBI Director Hoover will fire agents if they have a tendency to moist palms because he "considers this to be an indication of weak character." If the FBI did not stand between the Federal government and all-out Communist infiltration, this would be worth a laugh. The FBI, which puts in more free overtime in its dedicated work than any other government agency, doesn't find it very amusing.

Mr. Levine, who solemnly states that the "autocratic" Mr. Hoover even "dictated" to him "the style of socks we were to wear," can be put in his place pretty easily. He served with the Bureau from September 1960 to August 1961 — then resigned. One month later — and this is not reported by those who have aired his remarks — he wrote to the FBI asking to be reinstated and expressing his "high regard" for the Bureau and Mr. Hoover. He was turned down. In October 1961, he applied once more for reinstatement, again singing the praises of the FBI. And again he was turned down. Then he applied for a position with the Justice Department. This failing, he hit the anti-FBI sawdust trail.

In his catalogue of FBI "sins," the disgruntled Mr. Levine repeats a whole litany of charges made by the left-wing press over the years and exhaustively refuted by careful researches. (The Bureau feels that is have enough work to do without spending the taxpayer's money and its own time in preparing rebuttals.)

One of these charges will be universally resented by those who have worked for the FBI or have had any association with it — the subversives always excepted. This is that "many" FBI agents become "disillusioned" but are "afraid" to quit for fear of reprisals. To begin with, there are hosts of men in government and private industry who got their start in the Bureau, resigned when it suited their wishes, and moved on to better paying positions.

During the years that I covered what is known among newspapermen as the "subversive beat," I got to know a good many FBI agents. I watched them at work. There were times when they felt tired, when they felt that the long hours they put in and the meticulous investigations they carried out were not appreciated by the press. They never complained that they were "disillusioned" by the Bureau or by Mr. Hoover.

At the same time, I have known former FBI agents who have been elected or appointed to high office — or who hold important private jobs. They are out of the reach of the Bureau— if Mr. Levine is to be believed. Yet they have invariably spoken with nostalgia of their days in the Bureau. And they have frankly volunteered the fact that they owe much to the training they received during their FBI days. Interestingly enough, they have never voiced what I consider one legitimate complaint — that given the full-time dedication required of FBI agents, the Congress might pay them a little more — say, as much as a plumber or hod-carrier on a defense project makes.

As an individual, I would much rather see the millions we are wasting in Communist Yugoslavia, Communist Poland, and crypto-Communist Indonesia being spent on those who, under J. Edgar Hoover, have made the FBI a model among investigative agencies. This is the time to stand behind the FBI, not cripple it.

New Tax Rebates

Many In Business, Trades And Professions Will Get Cuts

Many of you in business, trade or the professions will find when you make out your 1962 income tax return that the new investment credit — heart of the Revenue Act of 1962 — is giving you an utterly unanticipated tax cut on this year's earnings. For this credit applies to all your qualified purchases of equipment after 1961, regardless of why you bought the equipment.

You can take the credit as a direct reduction of the tax you owe on your 1962 return. It is, as reported in yesterday's column, in effect a tax rebate.

But while the credit is a windfall to many of you who would have bought the property in any case, a highly important point is that it also can make it considerably easier for you to buy depreciable equipment, autos, etc., in the future.

To illustrate, assume you are a small businessman whose top tax bracket averages 30 per cent. You want to buy a new, modern piece of machinery which you will use in your business for eight years. The cost will be $10,000 and the first year's down payment, $2,500.

Under the new law, you are entitled to a credit of 7 per cent of the cost and this credit plus the depreciation you can take will give you back in tax savings in the first year a major chunk of your $2,500 down payment.

The 7 per cent credit will hand you $700. The 20 per cent first-year depreciation will save you taxes of $558. The 200 per cent declining balance depreciation will add $558.

Your total tax saving in the first year will come to $1,816, almost enough to supply funds to make the down payment.

(1) It is not restricted to new property. You can purchase used equipment and also get a tax rebate. However, while there is no limit on the amount of new equipment which can be purchased and qualify for the credit, the annual ceiling on used property which can qualify is $50,000. Therefore, if you may run over this maximum in any one year, your aim should be to time your buying to keep each year's purchases of used property within the $50,000 annual ceiling.

(2) This is not a tax break which you can elect to take or turn down. If you don't take it, your basis for depreciation will be reduced by the credit anyway. So if you're entitled to the credit, take it.

(3) You don't lose the credit if you buy eligible property, but don't have any earnings on which to pay taxes and therefore, no tax against which to take the credit. Any unused portion of the investment credit may be carried back for three years and carried over for five years. But since no carry-back is permitted to a year ending before 1962, if you have an unusual credit this year, you can only carry it forward for use in future years.

(4) The credit generally is barred to hotels and other lodging houses which cater predominantly to permanent residents, although if the hotel has a restaurant, pharmacy or other commercial facility which is available to the public, the assets purchased for that part of the hotel can get the credit. On the other hand, hotels, lodging houses, motels, etc., which are used predominantly by transients can get the credit for furniture, fixtures, rugs, drapes, TV sets, so forth.

(5) If you have leased rather than bought your new autos, equipment, etc., for business or income - producing purposes, you too may get this new tax credit if you con convince your lessor to give you the unanticipated bonanza which he otherwise could take for himself. The law specifically says that the lessor can pass on the investment credit to you. If he won't, you might consider buying rather than leasing the assets and picking up the tax credit yourself.

This new credit is going to involve a lot more record-keeping on purchases of equipment than most businessmen or professionals have been doing.

A Look Behind the Headlines

Aden Is Blooming Into Bustling City

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

ADEN (AP)—Aden, once the neglected stepchild of the British Empire, is blooming into a bustling boom town amid demands for independence.

Its bunkering port—7,000 ships a year—is among the busiest in the world, its population has soared and new buildings overlook graceful old Arab dhows along the waterfront.

Camel carts and goats meander through the traffic. Thousands of tourists flocking ashore from passing ships buy radios and cameras, Indian silks and French perfume from a jumble of tax-free shops.

Aden in ancient times was a prosperous center of the incense trade. Later it was a dwindling fishing village that sheltered pirate vessels. It was colonized by the British 123 years ago as the only good harbor between Egypt and India.

The colony's new-found prosperity comes from a $125-million oil refinery that fuels almost every ship passing through the Suez Canal and from Britain's big military base, whose 7,000 troops pour $30 million a year into the economy.

Aden is headquarters for Britain's 40,000 troops in the Middle East, defending Western interests and Persian Gulf oil. Britain intends to hang onto it, but revolution in Yemen to the north has bolstered Arabs' demands for independence.

As a prelude Britain and five ministers of Aden agreed to merge the colony, 75 miles square into the South Arabian Federation.

A SERIES

The federation is a sprawling series of British-protected principalities with picturesque names like Quishn, Yafa, Haushabi and Dhala. Their turbaned rulers made treaties with the British in the 19th century. Tribal raiding was put down.

British advisers still sit in mud forts through the federation. The emirs, sultans and sheikhs and sharifs have formed a federal council at the new capital of Al Ittihad.

The move to link sophisticated Aden with backward protectorate states stirred a wave of protest. Three persons were killed in teargas riots Sept. 24 as the colony's legislative council—a partly elected and unrepresentative body—approved the merger, slated for next month.

Abdullah Asnag, peppery 29-year-old labor leader who seeks to lead the colony to independence, says: "We are determined to go all the way to oppose it with peaceful resistance and civil disobedience.

"The struggle must end with the British leaving here altogether. We shall be independent. Britain has lost her chance to negotiate for keeping her military base here."

Asnag, an airlines employe who formed his first labor union at 21, heads Aden's 17,000-man Trades Union Congress and its People's Socialist party, by far the colony's strongest political body.

BEGINS FIFTH YEAR

Pope John Still Building New Image Of Papacy

By BENNET M. BOLTON

Angelo Cardinal Roncalli gave his first pontifical blessing four years ago, just after his election as the 261st Pope. Few in the world then dreamed of the changes ahead for the traditional chair of Peter and the Roman Catholic Church itself.

Pope John, a short and stocky man with the robust look of his native northern Italy, plans a quiet observance for Sunday's anniversary, first of three milestones within a month. The anniversary of his coronation is a week away, Nov. 4. His 81st birthday comes Nov. 25.

BRISK DAY

Since that brisk autumn day in 1958 when his fellow cardinals chose him, Pope John has:

Raised the number of cardinals above the traditional 70 and thrice replenished the Sacred College until it reached 87 members;

Issued nine encyclical letters to the world's 500 million Catholics including the monumental "Mater et Magistra (mother and teacher) which refocused his church's social teaching;

Psychologically prepared both Catholics and non-Catholics for a new Vatican spirit of Christian brotherhood that has already started melting an age-old icy barrier on the path to unity;

Thrown off papal confinement within the Vatican's walls by his ardent love of travel, whether by foot and car along Rome's rough cobblestones or by train on a historic journey across Italy;

Called together an Ecumenical Council, first for Catholicism in 92 years, to search out and restore the pure lines of the early church;

Revealed a highly individual approach to the papacy that has wiped out aloofness and caused a leading Protestant churchman to describe Pope John as "the world's No. 1 public relations man."

Pope John's human qualities, perhaps more than anything else, have endeared him to his faithful and attracted a warmth of enthusiasm from the non-Catholic world.

The Bergamo farmer's son displayed his love for simplicity when he appeared at his window the night of Oct. 11, a few hours after opening the Ecumenical Council.

THRONGS

Thronged in St. Peter's square were a torchlight procession and 150,000 persons.

Pope John glared at the moon above, as he must have done many a night when a boy in a farm family of 13 children. Then he spoke what was in his mind:

"Behold, even the moon has hurried out to shine upon us at the end of this glorious day."

Visitors from all nations find Pope John at his best when speaking in free conversation without prepared text or notes.

Much of the pontiff's energy the past four years has been directed toward the council now in progress. In frequent references, Pope John has shown he considers it the most important single event of his pontificate.

War Behind The War In South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—There is a war behind the war in South Viet Nam, and it seems to be going well for the West.

It is a war in which Americans play key roles—roles that cannot yet be filled by trained Vietnamese military men.

Like an iceberg, only part of it shows. The rest lies hidden under secrecy classification stamps and code words like "Jungle Gym," "Dirty Thirty," and "Farmgate." Officials privately call it the "gray area" of joint Vietnamese and American efforts to wipe out the Viet Cong, as the Communist forces are called.

ALL TALENTS

Every conceivable military talent—from aircraft piloting to underwater demolition—comes into play. Manpower includes economists, communications specialists, intelligence operatives, propagandists, doctors and politicians.

It is a war fought in many ways on the same terms as those of the Viet Cong, which has used some of the techniques with deadly effect.

Sometimes it comes under the glare of publicity. A Vietnamese air force fighter plane crashes, and it is learned that the lone occupant was an American. Or it is learned that U.S. Army men have organized a mountain tribe into an irregular but effective combat unit.

This "other war" is tricky to fight, because two difficult conditions must be met. America must not seriously infringe on the national sovereignty of the Republic of Viet Nam. It also must not provide the basis for a serious citation by the International Control Commission.

This commission, made up of delegations from India, Canada, and Poland, was created in 1954 to supervise the terms of the Geneva accord that ended the Indochina war. The commission has no police powers, but both North and South Viet Nam are anxious to avoid riling it too openly.

One of the terms of the Geneva accord was that South Viet Nam should have no more than about 700 foreign military advisors and no foreign fighting units of any kind. There are now more than 10,000 U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam.

Mention of the word "combat" in connection with anything Americans do in South Viet Nam is avoided by officials.

"I wish we could disclose more of what's happening here," an American officer said this week. "I think it would be greatly encouraging to the whole free world."

FORBIDDEN

The commander in chief of the Vietnamese air force, Col. Huynh Huu Hien, said:

"I am forbidden to discuss any military matter with any embassy attache or press correspondent. I am a military man, and I follow orders."

The basic reason for secrecy about air matters is that there is a desperate shortage of qualified Vietnamese pilots. Viet Nam has far more aircraft than men to fly them. Americans are flying to fill the gaps, while training new pilots.

For more than a year, no newsman has been allowed inside Bien Hoa Airport, the biggest military field. One reason is "Farmgate."

This is essentially a composite squadron of T28 fighter planes, flown by any pilot who happens to be available, regardless of nationality. The stubby two-seater carries two makeshift pods under the wings, each housing a .50-caliber machine gun. It also carries some rocket pods, bombs, and napalm tanks. It is slow, fairly easy to fly, and is ideal for the kind of strafing carried out in Viet Nam.

Another organization in the Vietnamese air force is the "Dirty Thirty" — Americans flying Vietnamese air force transport planes. An American crew was killed in such a plane Feb. 11, while on a leaflet-dropping mission.

Another aspect of the air war under wraps is the research program known as "Jungle Gym"—the perfection of new Air Force techniques suited to guerrilla warfare.

Some projects involve testing of highly sophisticated detection devices. Others have to do with deceptively simple problems like dropping napalm canisters into a jungle in such a way that the fiery jelly will not waste itself in the tree tops.

Almost as touchy an area as the Air Force are the U.S. Army's special forces—part of a secret organization known as the Combined Studies Group.

"Combined Studies" is primarily an American outfit. It is under military command, but is linked with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, with which it works closely. Its men often are in the Viet Cong's heartland for weeks at a time. Its men work with Vietnamese agents in dangerously exposed places, giving medical aid to the mountain tribes, arming them and training them to defend themselves. "Combined Studies" aircraft—silver planes with no markings—are seen in the countryside. Often their business is parachuting desperately needed supplies to the rain-soaked, trackless jungle where its men are at work.

The stakes are high. A high American official involved in the job says:

"The strategic core of South Viet Nam is the central highlands making up about two-thirds of the country. He who controls the highlands controls South Viet Nam. Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap (Communist North Viet Nam's defense minister) has said it. And President Diem agrees with him.

"The highlands are inhabited by about one half million mountain tribesmen, whose allegiance is the determining factor. Up to recently, they were under the Viet Cong thumb, and the Communists had a long march on us. They don't any more. The tribesmen are coming down to us, they're accepting weapons, and they're using them to defend themselves."

Grand Duchess Delays U.S. Visit

GRAND DUCHESS Charlotte, 66, is the ruler of one of the smallest countries in the world, the 1,000-square-mile Grand Duchy of Luxembourg. (AP Wirephoto)

By FRED CHEVAL

LUXEMBOURG (AP) — You may see her driving a Volkswagen through the village of Colmar-Berg. Or you may see her being chauffeured in a royal limousine.

She is Grand Duchess Charlotte, ruler of one of the smallest countries in the world, the 1,000-square-mile grand duchy of Luxembourg.

She was to have visited the United States next week, but President Kennedy asked her to postpone the state visit until tensions surrounding the blockade of Cuba have eased.

Luxembourg, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the European Economic Community, has been independent since 1839 but was occupied by the Nazis in World War II.

Charlotte had to flee and spent several years in the United States. She says her trip this time "will be a pilgrimage of gratitude."

The grand duchy suffered dramatically from the Nazi occupation. For about four years, the Germans tried to mold the country and its citizens into a part of Germany. Scores died, thousands of houses were crushed to ruins but the Germans failed utterly. Throughout the occupation, portraits of the grand duchess were cherished and coins with her likeness were made into lapel pins.

RETURNED

When she returned to her liberated country, the premier, Pierre Dupong, spoke a sentence which has become a national motto: "Madame, mir hun iech gaer" (Madame, we love you).

Such is the popularity of the 66-year-old grand duchess that recently her government discreetly prevented her from abdicating in favor of her son, Prince Jean, when she wanted to withdraw from public life. Jean, 41, became lieutenant-grand duke, her delegate in daily affairs of the country.

Luxembourgers never miss a chance of acclaiming the grand duchess. On national feast days, whether it rains or freezes, they gather by the hundreds below the balcony of the grand ducal palace to shout "Vive" as she appears smiling, gently raising her hands in salute, surrounded by some of her 6 children and 23 grandchildren.

There weren't always such happy days around the Luxembourg court. In 1919, Charlotte's reigning sister was more likely to be booed when she appeared in public. She displeased many of her subjects by her pro-German attitude during World War I.

Under the pressure of this opposition, Marie-Adelaide abdicated and withdrew to a convent. She died soon thereafter. Charlotte took over Jan. 15, 1919. Some wanted a republic; others wanted to forego independence and have their country become part of France or Belgium.

Charlotte, with dignity and moderation, overcame these difficulties. If she has only 320,000 Luxembourgers to love her, the one who does not is hard to find.

Her favorite pastime is her garden. She is a rose expert and a rose created in the United States bears her name. She possesses a Vatican award, the "Golden Rose" as a symbol of her interest and her faith.

Junior Executive Faces Steep Hike

Packard calls them the "most manipulated and exploited job holders in the land."

But there's a trend, he says in his new book, towards judging them by results instead of by conformity to artificial standards. There are even signs of a movement away from the traditional authoritarian pyramid of big business towards one in which division chiefs have nearly complete authority.

Packard, who wrote such best selling social studies as "The Status Seekers" and "The Hidden Persuaders," thinks executives need a national professional association like those of doctors, lawyers and engineers.

"An association of executives could suggest to its members," he says, "where reasonable cooperation with the corporation ends and where exploitation begins. It could examine current practices in such controversial matters as company policies in moving executives around the landscape, the ethical issues posed for executives by many companies, the common practice of interviewing executives' wives, the lock-in techniques of setting compensation, the wide - spread practice of subjecting executives to nonconfidential psychological testing, and the usual practice of rating executives by a form which the executives themselves have had no part in shaping."

Of more interest to go-getting young pyramid climbers, no doubt are the road maps drawn by Packard of the best routes to the pyramid and the kind of people he thinks are likely to make the steep ascent most readily.

Since styles change, what sort of an executive is big business seeking just now?

As a "successful package," he is likely to be tall and lean, says Packard, with the look of a white Anglo- Saxon Protestant. He is clean cut, clean shaven, doggedly friendly, neat and inconspicious in dress. He wears long socks, has hair neither too long nor to short, shuns the smoking of pipes, lacks red hair. He makes a fine first impression, exudes self confidence but has a touch of naturalism about him. He wears a hat, belongs to the right clubs and knows how to act in them. His college is likely Ivy League.

This is the more interesting in view of Packard's finding that on the contrary highly successful individual businessmen come in all sizes, shapes, education and breeding.

The wife of the man who can cut the mustard wears the right (not necessarily the best) clothes and says the right things to the right people. These sophisticated, pressurized couples are ready at the drop of a brief case to move to a new city or to slough off old friends lagging on the ladder.

The successful climber may work 60 or 70 hours a week, neglect his love life and find himself in emotional or physical crises, but the rewards are glittering, even including six figure salaries, private planes, Hollywood style offices and high style pensions.

Traits that count in the race are listed by Packard as surging energy and drive, the ability to concentrate a competent (not necessarily brilliant) mind on essential problems, a talent for communication, the ability to take criticism, to handle subordinates evenly, to use tension as a stimulant, to enjoy running big projects and to generate confidence.

In getting to the top, however, an executive is likely to find office politics a fact of life. He not only has to prove he is good, but to show he knows his way around the intricacies of an organization. He pays due respect to lines of command but doesn't let himself get blocked by a lagging superior. He works in the department from which promotions in his company are most likely. He knows how to play the power game with threats and flattery, or if he doesn't he hires a career consultant to teach him.

All in all, Packard's book is one that most people fascinated with big business will want to read, and that the go, go, young executive is likely to have under his pillow at night.

The Police Men And Manhunt

THE COMMISSIONER. By Richard Dougherty. Doubleday. $4.95.

A novel written on two levels, this is a story which takes the reader behind the scenes in the operation of a metropolitan police force; specifically, in New York City.

On one level it is a narrative about a three-day manhunt for a mean killer. A pair of detectives, on a Friday, foolishly let the criminal disarm them and escape. On the following Sunday the same pair spearhead an attack against their quarry in a tenement-district flat.

On the other level it is a story about the Police Commissioner himself, a straight - laced man who can brook no deviation from strict rules, even though he knows that individual policemen are plagued by temptations, pressures and offers of blunt or subtle bribes. He is beset by the problem that his longtime colleague and aide has fallen from grace for a very human reason—to help his son, a rookie member of the force.

What happens in the manhunt has a very definite effect, psychologically, on the Commissioner's problem.

Dougherty, once connected with the administrative side of New York's police department, presents an illuminating picture of such a department's morale problems, bureaucratic entanglements and fundamental esprit de corps.

On the level of the manhunt, his story sometimes lags while he is filling in rather pedantically the background of his characters' thoughts. On the other hand, he is skillful in spinning out several silent soliloquies which reveal the inner lives of the book's major figures.

It is an interesting novel, realistic and graphic.

Nuclear Mishaps Happen

Primarily this is a suspense chiller, about the Russians and Americans blowing each other up.

But it has to be cross-indexed as a Book With a Message. In addition, it has some of the attributes of science fiction.

The key idea in this piece of fiction is that a nuclear war might be set off accidentally. That is an admitted possibility in this era, and the authors have made the most of it, polemically. But there is some question whether they have stayed within the bounds of credibility.

The time is 1967, and several things are assumed to have happened by that date. Among the assumptions are the launching by both the Russians and the Americans of spy satellites so technically perfect that they can pick up a truck or tank at any spot on the earth and relay back the magnified image; and that someone has installed a "hot wire" telephone for emergency use between the American President and Khrushchev.

The Strategic Air Command at Omaha is thrown into an alert by a mechanically crippled airliner, but as the alert ends, one squadron of six nuclear bombers keeps going toward Russia. There is a vague, implausible explanation, involving a double coincidence, to account for the idea that the squadron cannot be recalled.

When A Sub Circled The World's Globe

The commander of the first submarine to circle the globe without surfacing fully tells here the story of the voyage which made naval history. It is a book which must be rated a cut above most such first person narratives by men of the armed forces.

Capt. Beach, for four years a naval aide to then President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and author of two earlier popular books on submarines and undersea warfare, is as at home with the written word as he is in the control room of the U.S.S. Triton, which completed the 83-day, 36,014-mile voyage on May 10, 1960.

He tells the whole story — what went wrong as well as what went right — of the journey on which the Triton followed as closely as possible the route of the world's first circumnavigator, Spain's Ferdinand Magellan. And in so doing, he gives the book its only weakness, an overabundance of detail, on a few occasions, which could be of little interest to landlubber readers.

Aden Is Blooming Into Bustling City

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

ADEN (AP)—Aden, once the neglected stepchild of the British Empire, is blooming into a bustling boom town amid demands for independence.

Its bunkering port—7,000 ships a year—is among the busiest in the world, its population has soared and new buildings overlook graceful old Arab dhows along the waterfront.

Camel carts and goats meander through the traffic. Thousands of tourists flocking ashore from passing ships buy radios and cameras, Indian silks and French perfume from a jumble of tax-free shops.

Aden in ancient times was a prosperous center of the incense trade. Later it was a dwindling fishing village that sheltered pirate vessels. It was colonized by the British 123 years ago as the only good harbor between Egypt and India.

The colony's new-found prosperity comes from a $125-million oil refinery that fuels almost every ship passing through the Suez Canal and from Britain's big military base, whose 7,000 troops pour $30 million a year into the economy.

Aden is headquarters for Britain's 40,000 troops in the Middle East, defending Western interests and Persian Gulf oil. Britain intends to hang onto it, but revolution in Yemen to the north has bolstered Arabs' demands for independence.

As a prelude Britain and five ministers of Aden agreed to merge the colony, 75 miles square into the South Arabian Federation.

A SERIES

The federation is a sprawling series of British-protected principalities with picturesque names like Quishn, Yafa, Haushabi and Dhala. Their turbaned rulers made treaties with the British in the 19th century. Tribal raiding was put down.

British advisers still sit in mud forts through the federation. The emirs, sultans and sheikhs and sharifs have formed a federal council at the new capital of Al Ittihad.

The move to link sophisticated Aden with backward protectorate states stirred a wave of protest. Three persons were killed in teargas riots Sept. 24 as the colony's legislative council—a partly elected and unrepresentative body—approved the merger, slated for next month.

Abdullah Asnag, peppery 29-year-old labor leader who seeks to lead the colony to independence, says: "We are determined to go all the way to oppose it with peaceful resistance and civil disobedience.

"The struggle must end with the British leaving here altogether. We shall be independent. Britain has lost her chance to negotiate for keeping her military base here."

Asnag, an airlines employe who formed his first labor union at 21, heads Aden's 17,000-man Trades Union Congress and its People's Socialist party, by far the colony's strongest political body.

War Behind The War In South Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP)—There is a war behind the war in South Viet Nam, and it seems to be going well for the West.

It is a war in which Americans play key roles—roles that cannot yet be filled by trained Vietnamese military men.

Like an iceberg, only part of it shows. The rest lies hidden under secrecy classification stamps and code words like "Jungle Gym," "Dirty Thirty," and "Farmgate." Officials privately call it the "gray area" of joint Vietnamese and American efforts to wipe out the Viet Cong, as the Communist forces are called.

ALL TALENTS

Every conceivable military talent—from aircraft piloting to underwater demolition—comes into play. Manpower includes economists, communications specialists, intelligence operatives, propagandists, doctors and politicians.

It is a war fought in many ways on the same terms as those of the Viet Cong, which has used some of the techniques with deadly effect.

Sometimes it comes under the glare of publicity. A Vietnamese air force fighter plane crashes, and it is learned that the lone occupant was an American. Or it is learned that U.S. Army men have organized a mountain tribe into an irregular but effective combat unit.

This "other war" is tricky to fight, because two difficult conditions must be met. America must not seriously infringe on the national sovereignty of the Republic of Viet Nam. It also must not provide the basis for a serious citation by the International Control Commission.

One of the terms of the Geneva accord was that South Viet Nam should have no more than about 700 foreign military advisors and no foreign fighting units of any kind. There are now more than 10,000 U.S. servicemen in South Viet Nam.

Mention of the word "combat" in connection with anything Americans do in South Viet Nam is avoided by officials.

BEGINS FIFTH YEAR

By BENNET M. BOLTON

Angelo Cardinal Roncalli gave his first pontifical blessing four years ago, just after his election as the 261st Pope. Few in the world then dreamed of the changes ahead for the traditional chair of Peter and the Roman Catholic Church itself.

Pope John, a short and stocky man with the robust look of his native northern Italy, plans a quiet observance for Sunday's anniversary, first of three milestones within a month. The anniversary of his coronation is a week away, Nov. 4. His 81st birthday comes Nov. 25.

BRISK DAY

Since that brisk autumn day in 1958 when his fellow cardinals chose him, Pope John has:

Raised the number of cardinals above the traditional 70 and thrice replenished the Sacred College until it reached 87 members;

Issued nine encyclical letters to the world's 500 million Catholics including the monumental "Mater et Magistra (mother and teacher) which refocused his church's social teaching;

Psychologically prepared both Catholics and non-Catholics for a new Vatican spirit of Christian brotherhood that has already started melting an age-old icy barrier on the path to unity;

Thrown off papal confinement within the Vatican's walls by his ardent love of travel, whether by foot and car along Rome's rough cobblestones or by train on a historic journey across Italy;

Called together an Ecumenical Council, first for Catholicism in 92 years, to search out and restore the pure lines of the early church;

Revealed a highly individual approach to the papacy that has wiped out aloofness and caused a leading Protestant churchman to describe Pope John as "the world's No. 1 public relations man."

Pope John's human qualities, perhaps more than anything else, have endeared him to his faithful and attracted a warmth of enthusiasm from the non-Catholic world.

The Bergamo farmer's son displayed his love for simplicity when he appeared at his window the night of Oct. 11, a few hours after opening the Ecumenical Council.

THRONGS

Thronged in St. Peter's square were a torchlight procession and 150,000 persons.

Pope John glared at the moon above, as he must have done many a night when a boy in a farm family of 13 children. Then he spoke what was in his mind:

"Behold, even the moon has hurried out to shine upon us at the end of this glorious day."

Visitors from all nations find Pope John at his best when speaking in free conversation without prepared text or notes.

Much of the pontiff's energy the past four years has been directed toward the council now in progress. In frequent references, Pope John has shown he considers it the most important single event of his pontificate.

Nuclear Mishaps Happen

Primarily this is a suspense chiller, about the Russians and Americans blowing each other up.

But it has to be cross-indexed as a Book With a Message. In addition, it has some of the attributes of science fiction.

The key idea in this piece of fiction is that a nuclear war might be set off accidentally. That is an admitted possibility in this era, and the authors have made the most of it, polemically. But there is some question whether they have stayed within the bounds of credibility.

The time is 1967, and several things are assumed to have happened by that date. Among the assumptions are the launching by both the Russians and the Americans of spy satellites so technically perfect that they can pick up a truck or tank at any spot on the earth and relay back the magnified image; and that someone has installed a "hot wire" telephone for emergency use between the American President and Khrushchev.

The Strategic Air Command at Omaha is thrown into an alert by a mechanically crippled airliner, but as the alert ends, one squadron of six nuclear bombers keeps going toward Russia. There is a vague, implausible explanation, involving a double coincidence, to account for the idea that the squadron cannot be recalled.

When A Sub Circled The World's Globe

The commander of the first submarine to circle the globe without surfacing fully tells here the story of the voyage which made naval history. It is a book which must be rated a cut above most such first person narratives by men of the armed forces.

Capt. Beach, for four years a naval aide to then President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and author of two earlier popular books on submarines and undersea warfare, is as at home with the written word as he is in the control room of the U.S.S. Triton, which completed the 83-day, 36,014-mile voyage on May 10, 1960.

He tells the whole story — what went wrong as well as what went right — of the journey on which the Triton followed as closely as possible the route of the world's first circumnavigator, Spain's Ferdinand Magellan. And in so doing, he gives the book its only weakness, an overabundance of detail, on a few occasions, which could be of little interest to landlubber readers.

OIL, GAS DISTRICT

16 Completions Of New Wells In Area Announced

Old Man Winter caught up at least temporarily last week with the Twin Cities but didn't deter drillers in Ouachita and 13 neighboring north Louisiana parishes from another good week's activity.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook Friday listed a total of 16 wells finalled last week throughout the area, compared with but nine a week ago.

Ouachita Parish registered three completions, two of them in the Monroe Gas Field, the third in the Cheniere. Most came through in Tensas Parish, however, which reported five, one a wildcat and four also in the Monroe Field.

LaSalle, Catahoula and Concordia Parishes rounded out the 16, recording four, three and one completions respectively.

Cold weather around midweek evidently hampered operations somewhat, with new locations over the 14 parishes falling from 30 to 14 in a week's time. Ouachita Parish, with five, reported the greatest number of stakings; four of them came in the Monroe Field, the last in the Cheniere.

Four new locations were found in Catahoula Parish with others in Caldwell, Concordia, Tensas and Union.

In wells actively drilling or testing in the district, there were 25. Ouachita Parish contained but one of them, Joe G. Strahan's Howard No. 1, drilling at 1800 feet in the Monroe Field.

Tensas Parish had five rigs active, while others were working in Avoyelles, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Grant, LaSalle, Madison, Rapides and Richland Parishes.

One recompletion was on the books by week's end, according to Cook, that being H. L. Hunt's A. L. Taliaferro No. 1-B, a gas rig at 2844 feet in the Olla Field of LaSalle Parish (Sec. 26-10-2E).

Seventeen sites were abandoned during the week and inactive locations totalled 139; locations numbered 53 and 24 were drilling.

Amite Site Test Is Held On Saturday

JACKSON Miss. (AP) — Larco Drilling Co., Best & Launius tested Saturday their Amite County wildcat, the Whittington No. 1, sec. 4-2n-5e, with the well pumping at a rate of 50 barrels of oil per day.

The potential new pool opener would flow by heads with operators moving in portable pumping unit to continue testing operations.

The venture is producing from a sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at 11,295-303 feet, with reports operators will acidize the well in an effort to increase production. The wildcat test is about two miles south of the East Fork Oil Field.

In Adams County, Hughes & New Oil Co. ran production tests at their wildcat, the Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 29-5n-3w, about a mild west of the Glen Aubin field. Operators will evaluate commercial worth of a Wilcox oil sand logged at 4,868 feet.

Another new deep wildcat test in Clarke County was scheduled to begin. Larco Drilling Co. rigged its Masonite No. 1, sec. 6-10n-8w, about seven miles west of Shubuta. The venture has contract depth of 10,200 feet.

In Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum Co. drilled below 10,900 feet in its wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, near the abandoned and hill oil field. On drull stem test run in open hole at 7,876-197 feet recovery was 750 feet of 26 gravity oil. Contract depth for the test is 13,000 feet.

Stock Mart Mirrors U.S. Crisis Tone

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market last week mirrored the hopes and fears of the nation, making dramatic moves both to the upside and the downside, and ending with a slight loss on average.

Stocks fell as "crisis conferences" were called mysteriously Monday in Washington, took the worst loss in four months as President Kennedy ordered the arms quarantine of Cuba, more than wiped out the loss as Wall Street heard that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had messaged British philosopher Bertrand Russell that he would "not be provoked by unwarranted actions of the United States."

Once more they fell as the financial community became aware of the fact Khrushchev's message was not conciliatory, but the stock movement was much smaller than those that preceded it.

As the U.S. Navy put the arms quarantine into effect, the market was irregularly lower at worst, with traders pulling in their horns to await the next major confrontation of the world powers.

The weekly change in the Dow industrials was trivial compared with its drop of 10.54 Tuesday and its rebound of 18.62 Wednesday—one of the greatest one-day gains of a hectic year. Prior to 1962 it would have been a record-breaker.

With the ticker tape running as much as 59 minutes behind transactions when trading was at its heaviest, weekly volume soared to 25,062,260 shares from 16,682,390 the week before. It was the largest turnover since the week ended June 30, when it was 25,774,760 shares.

Shock waves also struck foreign stock exchanges as the entire world was affected by the crisis. The London Stock Exchange witnessed its biggest tumble since Wall Street's "Black Monday" of last May 28.

When the excitement was at its pitch, the financial community showed all the elements of a serious "war scare." Commodity prices in the United States scored the greatest single day's advance in 11 years. The price of gold bullion soared in London as foreign investors sought refuge in the precious metal from the uncertainties of securities and paper money.

In stocks, the "war babies" enjoyed a great rally—steels, rails, aerospace issues, rocket stocks and electronics—while consumer issues such as utilities, foods, and drugs retreated. But all of this was transitory.

Toward the end of the week, the market simmered down and Friday's volume was the lowest since the semi-holiday of Oct. 12, Columbus Day.

The Cuban crisis also was blamed for the bond market situation as the corporate and U.S. Government bond markets fell in union for the first time in three months.

Corporate volume picked up appreciably, totaling $30,673,000 par value, compared with $20,257,000 the previous week. This was the biggest week since July 9-13 when Exchange volume was $36,920,000.

Olin Mathieson Stock Dividend Set By Directors

NEW YORK (Special) — The board of directors of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock.

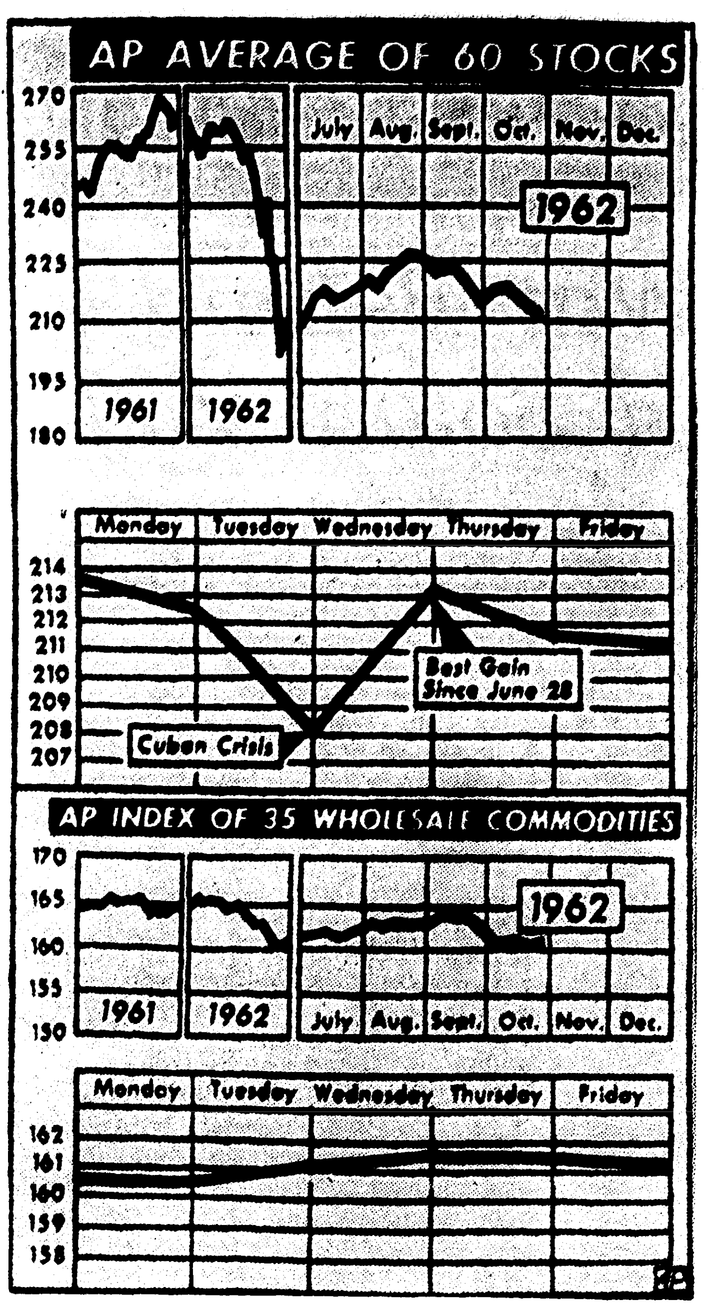
Olin Mathieson sales for the nine months ended Sept. 30 increased 5 per cent while net profits rose 4. 7 per cent from those of the same 1961 period, Stanley de J. Osborne, president, reported in a preliminary statement.

For the first nine months this year, Olin's sales were $551,966,000 compared with $525,435,000 for the same period last year. Net profits were $24,478,000, equal to $1.89 a share, compared with $23,382,000 or $1.79 a share.

Third quarter sales and operating revenues rose to $182,614,000 this year from $181,182,000 in the like 1961 quarter, while net profits were $6,901,000, or 53 cents a share, compared with $7,196,000, or 56 cents a share in, the same three months last year.

Osborne attributed the dip in profits in the third quarter to continuing effects of strikes in the Packaging and Winchester-Western Divisions, which were not settled until July, and to price erosion in aluminum mill products and some products of the Organics Division. Sales and earnings of the Chemicals and Squibb Divisions, on the other hand, continued to increase satisfactorily, he said.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined for the second consecutive week, closing Friday at 211.2, down from 213.6 a week ago. The commodity index advanced slightly to 161.2, up from 160.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

EFFECTS OF CRISIS

Study Is Planned On Oil Imports

By MAX B. SKELTON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Oil imports opponents meet the next three days to study the effect of the Cuban emergency.

Tax problems and federal regulation of natural gas prices will be other major topics for discussion at the annual meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA).

The trade group that was organized during a 1929 oil imports controversy has become the spokesman on policy matters for 7,000 independent oil and gas operators.

International emergencies are nothing new to IPAA's campaign for stricter controls on foreign oil. The Korean and Suez incidents sidetracked curtailment efforts in 1950 and 1956.

Prospects for sharper restrictions on imports were not bright even before President Kennedy ordered the Cuban quarantine.

The 87th Congress rejected efforts by IPAA and other groups to strengthen the mandatory program to control oil imports. A special cabinet level committee President Kennedy asked last December to study the controversy has completed its work but the White House has given no indication of intent to release the report.

The situation offers little hope for immediate relief as IPAA begins its 33rd membership meeting Sunday with an executive session by its imports policy committee.

Preliminary sessions also are set Sunday for committees on natural gas and taxes.

The Cuban emergency and the status of oil imports also figured prominently in the deliberations of the supply and demand committee which began drafting its report Thursday.

Three speakers at Monday's general session probably will discuss the status of imports.

They are Harold Decker, IPAA president from Houston, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Jerome J. O'Brien, director of the Interior Department's office of oil and gas.

Both Kerr and O'Brien are oilmen.

Kerr is board chairman of Kerr-McGee Oil Industries Inc. of Oklahoma and a ranking member of the Senate Finance Committee which handled President Kennedy's new trade expansion act last spring.

Efforts by IPAA and other groups to get House and Senate committees to place stronger imports restrictions in the trade expansion act were unsuccessful. Congress merely retained the defense amendment of the old reciprical trade agreements act.

The defense amendment was tacked onto the trade act in 1955 and authorized the White House to limit imports of any commodity threatening national security. President Eisenhower established the voluntary oil imports control program in 1957.

The Senate strengthened the defense amendment in 1958 and President Eisenhower established the current mandatory controls program in early 1959.

The mandatory program is administered by the interior division headed by O'Brien, a former president of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association and a former member of several IPAA committees.

Three of the oil industry's top Washington spokesmen will participate in a Tuesday panel discussion on oil tax policy.

They are Frank Ikard, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute (API), Joe T. Dickerson, executive vice president of the eight-state Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, and Minor S. Jameson, IPAA executive vice president.

Ikard was a member of the House Ways and Means Committee when he resigned as a Texas congressman last year to represent the API in Washington.

Grain Futures Show Gains In Heavy Trading

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market traded almost entirely on, international tension last week and finished with moderate to broad gains after absorbing some heavy profit selling on the Board of Trade.

Trade volume Tuesday reached its highest peak of many years at nearly 200 million bushels when speculators bid prices of several commodities up their allowable limits for a single day.

Those advances were not held at the finish, however. The gains, along with a brisk runup of the previous day, attracted a burst of profit selling which was renewed Wednesday as speculators construed Soviet reaction to the Cuban blockade as a little more consiliatory than had been expected.

Adding to the speculative demand because of its implications was action by the Department of Agriculture Tuesday in banning sales of feed grains into commercial channels. That order was relaxed considerably the next day, though, and probably contributed largely to the selling pressure.

Before the trend was reversed after a strong opening Wednesday, the advances in nearly all contracts had become the broadest for any comparable period in years. In soybeans, the gains amounted to well over 10 cents in spots. Corn and Rye were up almost as much at their best.

The heavy speculative activity chased virtually all export business out of the market. However, by the end of the week, though, export buyers were among supporters in both the wheat and corn pits.

Domestic processors apparently showed none of the urgency displayed by speculative dealers. One broker said they continued their buying about as usual although a few may have hedged a little by stockpiling.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1½-2⅝ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, December $2.07⅝-¾; corn 4¼-5⅞ higher, December $1.09¾-⅞; oats ¾-1½ higher, December 64⅜-½ cents; rye 3¾-6¾ higher, December $1.22½-¼; soybeans 4-6⅞ higher, November $2.43¾-½.

DIPLOMATS, SEA CAPTAINS

International Situation Now Controls Stock Mart

By DARDEN CHAMBLESS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business judgments suddenly depend less on statistics and economic indicators than they do on diplomats and sea captains.

The naval blockade around Cuba and the international tensions it brought now stand as the prime factors in trying to determine which way business is going.

Talk of inflation or deflation, tax cut or tax hike, boom or bust—all pivoted on the possibility of military encounters.

With the crisis still fresh, businessmen have had little time to act outwardly on it, however. Few even cared to guess as to what it will mean.

Only the stock market, which must try to anticipate important changes, reacted immediately. And the market's see-saw action indicated that even Wall Streeters had trouble agreeing on what's coming.

In this climinate of international complexities, some important business happenings were only partially digested. These included excellent earning reports by auto firms and continued zooming car sales, a dividend cut by Bethlehem Steel and a variety of general business indices that seemed to point on balance to a continued economic plateau.

The Cuban situation seemed to raise several possibilities:

1. A Korea-like, limited conflict somewhere in the world.

2. No U.S. fighting, but unrest and upheavals that could disrupt raw material supplies and world transportation — communication lines in general.

3. Little overt change, but a general heating up of the cold war and a long period of nerves continuing taut.

4. A summit, or other, agreement markedly reducing tension.

The possibility of all-out war is generally ignored if only because few businessmen see any way to base plans on such a catastrophe.

The stock market seemed to bet heavily at one point on some combination of a Korea-type conflict and disruption of international communications.

Such defense issues as rails, aerospace, and steels shot upward while "peace stocks" like retail stores went down sharply. International oils, especially those with Near East links, also suffered at one point.

Other markets, during the high tension Tuesday, reflected a similar mood. Foreign stock exchanges went lower. Commodity exchanges here and abroad vaulted on guesses that prices of food and materials would increase in the future. Gold bullion was in heavy demand from people preferring to hold it rather than paper money or securities.

When tension eased, all these extreme positions began moderating.

Businessmen generally declined guesses what might happen internationally. But they were less hesitant to talk about what would happen in a given circumstance —a Korea-like conflict, for instance.

They seemed agreed that business would and could perk up. There is ample productive capacity and work force to expand output in most fields quickly, they said.

A new inflationary spiral might begin, tax-cut talk and recession talk could quickly give way to plans for tax boosts and government controls.

But what if the whole crisis blows over? What would this mean to the economy?

I Had to Have $12,000
By a Wall Street Journal Subscriber

I never knew kids could eat so much. I never knew boys could wear out shoes so fast. And I needed a bigger house for my growing family.

So I sent $7 for a trial subscription to The Wall Street Journal. I heeded its warnings. I cashed in on the ideas it gave me for increasing my income and cutting expenses. Now I am slowly forging ahead. Instead of going broke on $9,000 a year, I am living well on $12,000 a year.

This experience is typical. The Journal is a wonderful aid to salaried men making $7,500 to $30,000. It is valuable to the owner of a small business. It can be of priceless benefit to young men who want to win advancement.

OIL, GAS DISTRICT

16 Completions Of New Wells In Area Announced

Old Man Winter caught up at least temporarily last week with the Twin Cities but didn't deter drillers in Ouachita and 13 neighboring north Louisiana parishes from another good week's activity.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook Friday listed a total of 16 wells finalled last week throughout the area, compared with but nine a week ago.

Ouachita Parish registered three completions, two of them in the Monroe Gas Field, the third in the Cheniere. Most came through in Tensas Parish, however, which reported five, one a wildcat and four also in the Monroe Field.

LaSalle, Catahoula and Concordia Parishes rounded out the 16, recording four, three and one completions respectively.

Cold weather around midweek evidently hampered operations somewhat, with new locations over the 14 parishes falling from 30 to 14 in a week's time. Ouachita Parish, with five, reported the greatest number of stakings; four of them came in the Monroe Field, the last in the Cheniere.

Four new locations were found in Catahoula Parish, with others in Caldwell, Concordia, Tensas and Union.

In wells actively drilling or testing in the district, there were 25. Ouachita Parish contained but one of them, Joe G. Strahan's Howard No. 1, drilling at 1800 feet in the Monroe Field.

Tensas Parish had five rigs active, while others were working in Avoyelles, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Grant, LaSalle, Madison, Rapides and Richland Parishes.

One recompletion was on the books by week's end, according to Cook, that being H. L. Hunt's A. L. Taliaferro No. 1-B, a gas rig at 2844 feet in the Olla Field of LaSalle Parish (Sec. 26-10-2E).

Seventeen sites were abandoned during the week and inactive locations totalled 139; locations numbered 53 and 24 were drilling.

Amite Site Test Is Held On Saturday

JACKSON Miss. (AP) — Larco Drilling Co., Best & Launius tested Saturday their Amite County wildcat, the Whittington No. 1, sec. 4-2n-5e, with the well pumping at a rate of 50 barrels of oil per day.

The potential new pool opener would flow by heads with operators moving in portable pumping unit to continue testing operations.

The venture is producing from a sand in the lower Tuscaloosa at 11,295-303 feet, with reports operators will acidize the well in an effort to increase production. The wildcat test is about two miles south of the East Fork Oil Field.

In Adams County, Hughes & New Oil Co. ran production tests at their wildcat, the Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 29-5n-3w, about a mild west of the Glen Aubin field. Operators will evaluate commercial worth of a Wilcox oil sand logged at 4,868 feet.

Another new deep wildcat test in Clarke County was scheduled to begin. Larco Drilling Co. rigged its Masonite No. 1, sec. 6-10n-8w, about seven miles west of Shubuta. The venture has contract depth of 10,200 feet.

In Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum Co. drilled below 10,900 feet in its wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, near the abandoned and hill oil field. On drull stem test run in open hole at 7,876-197 feet recovery was 750 feet of 26 gravity oil. Contract depth for the test is 13,000 feet.

Stock Mart Mirrors U.S. Crisis Tone

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market last week mirrored the hopes and fears of the nation, making dramatic moves both to the upside and the downside, and ending with a slight loss on average.

Stocks fell as "crisis conferences" were called mysteriously Monday in Washington, took the worst loss in four months as President Kennedy ordered the arms quarantine of Cuba, more than wiped out the loss as Wall Street heard that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had messaged British philosopher Bertrand Russell that he would "not be provoked by unwarranted actions of the United States."

Once more they fell as the financial community became aware of the fact Khruschev's message was not conciliatory, but the stock movement was much smaller than those that preceded it.

As the U.S. Navy put the arms quarantine into effect, the market was irregularly lower at worst, with traders pulling in their horns to await the next major confrontation of the world powers.

The weekly change in the Dow industrials was trivial compared with its drop of 10.54 Tuesday and its rebound of 18.62 Wednesday—one of the greatest one-day gains of a hectic year. Prior to 1962 it would have been a record-breaker.

With the ticker tape running as much as 59 minutes behind transactions when trading was at its heaviest, weekly volume soared to 25,062,260 shares from 16,682,390 the week before. It was the largest turnover since the week ended June 30, when it was 25,774,760 shares.

Shock waves also struck foreign stock exchanges as the entire world was affected by the crisis. The London Stock Exchange witnessed its biggest tumble since Wall Street's "Black Monday" of last May 28.

When the excitement was at its pitch, the financial community showed all the elements of a serious "war scare." Commodity prices in the United States scored the greatest single day's advance in 11 years. The price of gold bullion soared in London as foreign investors sought refuge in the precious metal from the uncertainties of securities and paper money.

In stocks, the "war babies" enjoyed a great rally—steels, rails, aerospace issues, rocket stocks and electronics—while consumer issues such as utilities, foods, and drugs retreated. But all of this was transitory.

Toward the end of the week, the market simmered down and Friday's volume was the lowest since the semi-holiday of Oct. 12, Columbus Day.

The Cuban crisis also was blamed for the bond market situation as the corporate and U.S. Government bond markets fell in union for the first time in three months.

Corporate volume picked up appreciably, totaling $30,673,000 par value, compared with $20,257,000 the previous week. This was the biggest week since July 9-13 when Exchange volume was $36,920,000.

Olin Mathieson Stock Dividend Set By Directors

NEW YORK (Special) — The board of directors of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock.

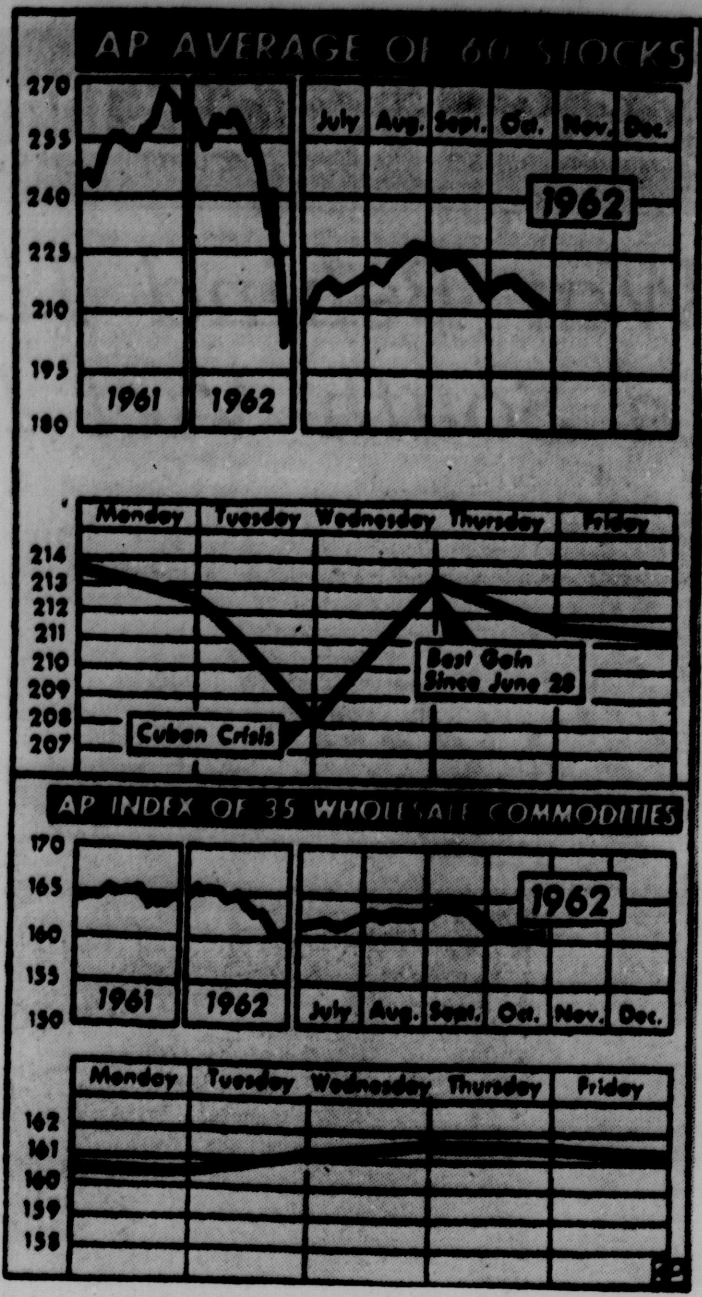
Olin Mathieson sales for the nine months ended Sept. 30 increased 5 per cent while net profits rose 4. 7 per cent from those of the same 1961 period, Stanley de J. Osborne, president, reported in a preliminary statement.

For the first nine months this year, Olin's sales were $551,966,000 compared with $525,435,000 for the same period last year. Net profits were $24,478,000, equal to $1.89 a share, compared with $23,382,000 or $1.79 a share.

Third quarter sales and operating revenues rose to $182,614,000 this year from $181,182,000 in the like 1961 quarter, while net profits were $6,901,000, or 53 cents a share, compared with $7,196,000, or 56 cents a share in, the same three months last year.

Osborne attributed the dip in profits in the third quarter to continuing effects of strikes in the Packaging and Winchester-Western Divisions, which were not settled until July, and to price erosion in aluminum mill products and some products of the Organics Division. Sales and earnings of the Chemicals and Squibb Divisions, on the other hand, continued to increase satisfactorily, he said.



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined for the second consecutive week, closing Friday at 211.2, down from 213.6 a week ago. The commodity index advanced slightly to 161.2, up from 160.6 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

EFFECTS OF CRISIS

Study Is Planned On Oil Imports

By MAX B. SKELTON

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Oil imports opponents meet the next three days to study the effect of the Cuban emergency.

Tax problems and federal regulation of natural gas prices will be other major topics for discussion at the annual meeting of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA).

The trade group that was organized during a 1929 oil imports controversy has become the spokesman on policy matters for 7,000 independent oil and gas operators.

International emergencies are nothing new to IPAA's campaign for stricter controls on foreign oil. The Korean and Suez incidents sidetracked curtailment efforts in 1950 and 1956.

Prospects for sharper restrictions on imports were not bright even before President Kennedy ordered the Cuban quarantine.

The 87th Congress rejected efforts by IPAA and other groups to strengthen the mandatory program to control oil imports. A special cabinet level committee President Kennedy asked last December to study the controversy has completed its work but the White House has given no indication of intent to release the report.

The situation offers little hope for immediate relief as IPAA begins its 33rd membership meeting Sunday with an executive session by its imports policy committee.

Preliminary sessions also are set Sunday for committees on natural gas and taxes.

The Cuban emergency and the status of oil imports also figured prominently in the deliberations of the supply and demand committee which began drafting its report Thursday.

Three speakers at Monday's general session probably will discuss the status of imports.

They are Harold Decker, IPAA president from Houston, Sen. Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla., and Jerome J. O'Brien, director of the Interior Department's office of oil and gas.

Both Kerr and O'Brien are oilmen.

Kerr is board chairman of Kerr-McGee Oil Industries Inc. of Oklahoma and a ranking member of the Senate Finance Committee which handled President Kennedy's new trade expansion act last spring.

Efforts by IPAA and other groups to get House and Senate committees to place stronger imports restrictions in the trade expansion act were unsuccessful. Congress merely retained the defense amendment of the old reciprical trade agreements act.

The defense amendment was tacked onto the trade act in 1955 and authorized the White House to limit imports of any commodity threatening national security. President Eisenhower established the voluntary oil imports control program in 1957.

The Senate strengthened the defense amendment in 1958 and President Eisenhower established the current mandatory controls program in early 1959.

The mandatory program is administered by the interior division headed by O'Brien, a former president of the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association and a former member of several IPAA committees.

Three of the oil industry's top Washington spokesmen will participate in a Tuesday panel discussion on oil tax policy.

They are Frank Ikard, executive vice president of the American Petroleum Institute (API), Joe T. Dickerson, executive vice president of the eight-state Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association, and Minor S. Jameson, IPAA executive vice president.

Ikard was a member of the House Ways and Means Committee when he resigned as a Texas congressman last year to represent the API in Washington.

Grain Futures Show Gains In Heavy Trading

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market traded almost entirely on, international tension last week and finished with moderate to broad gains after absorbing some heavy profit selling on the Board of Trade.

Trade volume Tuesday reached its highest peak of many years at nearly 200 million bushels when speculators bid prices of several commodities up their allowable limits for a single day.

Those advances were not held at the finish, however. The gains, along with a brisk runup of the previous day, attracted a burst of profit selling which was renewed Wednesday as speculators construed Soviet reaction to the Cuban blockade as a little more consiliatory than had been expected.

Adding to the speculative demand because of its implications was action by the Department of Agriculture Tuesday in banning sales of feed grains into commercial channels. That order was relaxed considerably the next day, though, and probably contributed largely to the selling pressure.

Before the trend was reversed after a strong opening Wednesday, the advances in nearly all contracts had become the broadest for any comparable period in years. In soybeans, the gains amounted to well over 10 cents in spots. Corn and Rye were up almost as much at their best.

The heavy speculative activity chased virtually all export business out of the market. However, by the end of the week, though, export buyers were among supporters in both the wheat and corn pits.

Domestic processors apparently showed none of the urgency displayed by speculative dealers. One broker said they continued their buying about as usual although a few may have hedged a little by stockpiling.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1½-2⅝ cents a bushel higher than a week ago, December $2.07¾-⅞; corn 4¼-5⅞ higher, December $1.09¾-⅞; oats ¾-1½ higher, December 64⅝-½ cents; rye 3¾-6¾ higher, December $1.22½-¼; soybeans 4-6⅜ higher, November $2.43¾-½.

DIPLOMATS, SEA CAPTAINS

International Situation Now Controls Stock Mart

By DARDEN CHAMBLESS
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Business judgments suddenly depend less on statistics and economic indicators than they do on diplomats and sea captains.

The naval blockade around Cuba and the international tensions it brought now stand as the prime factors in trying to determine which way business is going.

Talk of inflation or deflation, tax cut or tax hike, boom or bust—all pivoted on the possibility of military encounters.

With the crisis still fresh, businessmen have had little time to act outwardly on it, however. Few even cared to guess as to what it will mean.

Only the stock market, which must try to anticipate important changes, reacted immediately. And the market's see-saw action indicated that even Wall Streeters had trouble agreeing on what's coming.

In this climinate of international complexities, some important business happenings were only partially digested. These included excellent earning reports by auto firms and continued zooming car sales, a dividend cut by Bethlehem Steel and a variety of general business indices that seemed to point on balance to a continued economic plateau.

The Cuban situation seemed to raise several possibilities:

1. A Korea-like, limited conflict somewhere in the world.
2. No U.S. fighting, but unrest and upheavals that could disrupt raw material supplies and world transportation — communication lines in general.
3. Little overt change, but a general heating up of the cold war and a long period of nerves continuing taut.
4. A summit, or other, agreement markedly reducing tension.

The possibility of all-out war is generally ignored if only because few businessmen see any way to base plans on such a catastrophe.

The stock market seemed to bet heavily at one point on some combination of a Korea-type conflict and disruption of international communications.

Such defense issues as rails, aerospace, and steels shot upward while "peace stocks" like retail stores went down sharply. International oils, especially those with Near East links, also suffered at one point.

Other markets, during the high tension Tuesday, reflected a similar mood. Foreign stock exchanges went lower. Commodity exchanges here and abroad vaulted on guesses that prices of food and materials would increase in the future. Gold bullion was in heavy demand from people prefering to hold it rather than paper money or securities.

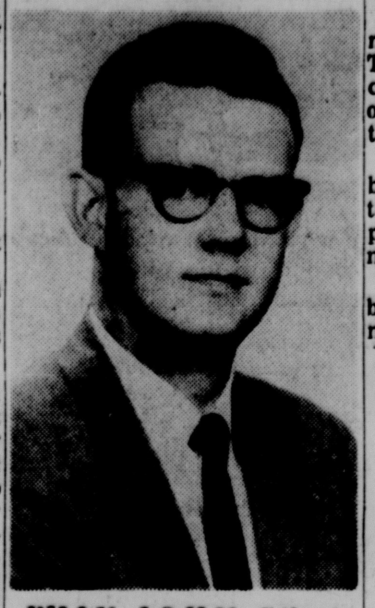
When tension eased, all these extreme positions began moderating.

Businessmen generally declined guesses what might happen internationally. But they were less hesitant to talk about what would happen in a given circumstance—a Korea-like conflict, for instance.

They seemed agreed that business would and could perk up. There is ample productive capacity and work force to expand output in most fields quickly, they said.

A new inflationary spiral might begin, tax-cut talk and recession talk could quickly give way to plans for tax boosts and government controls.

But what if the whole crisis blows over? What would this mean to the economy?



BILLY JOHN Golson, son of Mrs. Gladys W. Golson of West Monroe and the late W. D. Golson, has been promoted to field manager for the International Business Machines Corporation and transferred to Washington, D.C. Prior to his transfer he was field supervisor in the Newport News and Norfolk, Virginia area, and on the Langley Field Air Force Base. A school of purple wooden fish, a disheveled paper Santa, a cracked fishbowl, two handsful of plastic banks that predated everyone's memory and a barometer forecasting rain.

Professor Says Children Get Too Little Love

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—American school children are under too much pressure to get high marks and are getting too little love, says a college professor. As a result, he believes, half of them are potential neurotics, drug addicts, alcoholics and suicide cases.

"We are teaching reading in the nursery school and algebra in the first grade," said Dr. James A. Smith. "What for?"

"We make children conform, conform, conform, until we kill their creativity. We know people cave in under undue pressure. But we continue to put our children under more and more pressure."

U.S. Outlines Interception Blockade Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Saturday defined the interception area for the Cuban blockade as covering waters from northern Florida to the northern tip of South America and from the center of the Gulf of Mexico to the eastern tip of Puerto Rico.

The information was given to Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant by Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson for possible relay to Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, responding to an appeal from Thant, has stated that for a temporary period Soviet vessels will stay off the blockade area in order to avoid any clash with U.S. warships.

President Kennedy has also told Thant the United States would not seek any confrontation if Soviet ships stayed clear of the blockade.

British Oppose Soviet Plan On Turkey Bases

LONDON (AP)—Britain is resolutely opposed to any Soviet proposal for bargaining Turkey against Cuba, an informed official source said Saturday night.

"Any question of doing a deal is irrelevant — the threat is in Cuba itself," he commented.

Government sources said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new message to President Kennedy confirmed the British view that there have been Soviet buildups of missile sites and weapons in Cuba.

Chamber Blames Kennedys In Ole Miss Case

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Junior Chamber of Commerce viewed President John Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy Saturday as causes in the University of Mississippi desegregation crisis, which was termed a "blueprint for tragedy."

The chamber released a brochure which explained in detail findings surrounding the troops-enforced admittance of Negro James H. Meredith which resulted in rioting that saw the death of two persons.

The pamphlet charged the federal action was "precipitated by the unwillingness of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and President John Kennedy to await the completion of judicial processes which they had invoked. . ."

Rioting occurred Sept. 30 when federal marshals, armed with tear gas, forcibly entered Meredith, a 29-year-old Kosciusko Negro, to the previously all-white Ole Miss campus.

As a result, some 30,000 troops were ordered into the Oxford, Miss., area to guard against further disturbances.

The pamphlet said "neither Gov. Ross R. Barnett nor Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson were parties to the James Meredith case the United States district court.

"They were not parties to the appeal in the United States Court of Appeals to the petition" before the Supreme Court.

"When Gov. Barnett and Lt. Gov. Johnson personally denied admission to Meredith at the university, this provided a legal test as to whether the governor and the lieutenant governor were bound by a suit in which they had not been joined as parties.

"Without awaiting a determination of these proceedings, the United States attorney general and the President rushed" troops to Oxford, the pamphlet said.

The chamber charged the action was "solely because of a refusal to await ordinary and proper judicial" procedures in the case.

If permitted to continue, the pamphlet charged, the judicial processes "would have resulted in a final determination of the Meredith case and enforcement by regular judicial processes of whatever that determination might have been."

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans first ordered the admission of Meredith and federal Judge Ben Cameron in Meridian issued stays revoking the New Orleans court decision.

Finally, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked Justice Hugo Black of the U.S. Supreme Court to order the lower court judges to order the Negro admission.

Professor Says Children Get Too Little Love

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—American school children are under too much pressure to get high marks and are getting too little love, says a college professor. As a result, he believes, half of them are potential neurotics, drug addicts, alcoholics and suicide cases.

"We are teaching reading in the nursery school and algebra in the first grade," said Dr. James A. Smith. "What for?"

"We make children conform, conform, conform, until we kill their creativity. We know people cave in under undue pressure. But we continue to put our children under more and more pressure."

U.S. Outlines Interception Blockade Area

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Saturday defined the interception area for the Cuban blockade as covering waters from northern Florida to the northern tip of South America and from the center of the Gulf of Mexico to the eastern tip of Puerto Rico.

The information was given to Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant by Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson for possible relay to Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Khrushchev, responding to an appeal from Thant, has stated that for a temporary period Soviet vessels will stay off the blockade area in order to avoid any clash with U.S. warships.

President Kennedy has also told Thant the United States would not seek any confrontation if Soviet ships stayed clear of the blockade.

British Oppose Soviet Plan On Turkey Bases

LONDON (AP)—Britain is resolutely opposed to any Soviet proposal for bargaining Turkey against Cuba, an informed official source said Saturday night.

"Any question of doing a deal is irrelevant — the threat is in Cuba itself," he commented.

Government sources said Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new message to President Kennedy confirmed the British view that there have been Soviet buildups of missile sites and weapons in Cuba.

Chamber Blames Kennedys In Ole Miss Case

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Mississippi Junior Chamber of Commerce viewed President John Kennedy and Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy Saturday as causes in the University of Mississippi desegregation crisis, which was termed a "blueprint for tragedy."

The chamber released a brochure which explained in detail findings surrounding the troops-enforced admittance of Negro James H. Meredith which resulted in rioting that saw the death of two persons.

The pamphlet charged the federal action was "precipitated by the unwillingness of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and President John Kennedy to await the completion of judicial processes which they had invoked. . ."

Rioting occurred Sept. 30 when federal marshals, armed with tear gas, forcibly entered Meredith, a 29-year-old Kosciusko Negro, to the previously all-white Ole Miss campus.

As a result, some 30,000 troops were ordered into the Oxford, Miss., area to guard against further disturbances.

The pamphlet said "neither Gov. Ross R. Barnett nor Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson were parties to the James Meredith case the United States district court.

"They were not parties to the appeal in the United States Court of Appeals to the petition" before the Supreme Court.

"When Gov. Barnett and Lt. Gov. Johnson personally denied admission to Meredith at the university, this provided a legal test as to whether the governor and the lieutenant-governor were bound by a suit in which they had not been joined as parties.

"Without awaiting a determination of these proceedings, the United States attorney general and the President rushed" troops to Oxford, the pamphlet said.

The chamber charged the action was "solely because of a refusal to await ordinary and proper judicial" procedures in the case.

If permitted to continue, the pamphlet charged, the judicial processes "would have resulted in a final determination of the Meredith case and enforcement by regular judicial processes of whatever that determination might have been."

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans first ordered the admission of Meredith and federal Judge Ben Cameron in Meridian issued stays revoking the New Orleans court decision.

Finally, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People asked Justice Hugo Black of the U.S. Supreme Court to order the lower court judges to order the Negro admission.

Gov. Barnett twice bodily refused admittance to Meredith and Lt. Gov. Johnson also blocked his entrance.

SPEAKER

Luther B. Hall of Farmerville, convention president, will address the first session of the convention on Nov. 13. Other officers — C. C. Martin of Winnfield, vice president, and Robert L. Lee of Alexandria, executive secretary.

Also participation in the program will be Dr. H. Leo Eddleman of New Orleans Seminary; Dr. Lee, Dr. Glenn Bryant of Alexandria; Dr. Robert G. Lee of Memphis; Dr. G. Earl Guinn, Louisiana College president, and Dr. J. Norris Palmer, pastor of the host church.

The caravan to Half Moon Bluff at Franklinton will form Thursday afternoon and those attending the convention will see the reconstructed church where Louisiana Baptists first worshipped Oct. 12, 1812.

The Nov. 15, Thursday night evangelistic rally at Memorial stadium will conclude the 1962 convention.

Catholics Set Celebration Here Today

A Christ Our King celebration will be staged at 3 p.m. today by Catholics of the Monroe Deanery. It will take place at St. Matthew's Cemetery, 11th and Washington streets.

A large platform has been erected in the center of the cemetery upon which has been placed an altar, where the Blessed Sacrament will be placed for an hour of adoration.

CELEBRANT

The celebrant of the solemn benediction with deacon and subdeacon will carry the Blessed Sacrament from St. Matthew's church to the cemetery. A procession will be formed by third and fourth degree Knights of Columbus, Columbian Squires, Boy Scouts and the congregation. Music will be provided by St. Matthew's High School Glee Club.

Special prayers will be recited by the clergy. Father Dave Dabria will deliver the sermon. Msgr. J. C. Marsh will bless the graves as the congregation recites the Rosary.

Father Marsh said, "This year this celebration will take on a special significance as it will be to ask God's blessing upon our beloved country in this hour of danger."

Global Assembly Being Planned

By HILARY GORDON

TORONTO (AP)—With one eye on the deliberations in progress in Rome, prelates of 18 independent national churches comprising worldwide Anglicanism are busy preparing for a global assembly of their own.

An Anglican Congress, to be held here next Aug. 13-23, will bring together 1,000 delegates — Japanese, Malayans, Africans and Indians as well as delegations from the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the United States and Canada.

The assembly takes on additional importance in Christendom's struggle for unity in that a key religious body will be able to assess contributions made by Roman Catholicism's current Ecumenical Council.

'BRIDGE CHURCH'

Anglicanism, with more than 40 million adherents throughout the world, maintains both Catholic and Protestant traditions and some look upon it as a "bridge" church in the Christian unity picture.

"The Church's Mission to the World" will be the main theme of the meeting, the third in the history of the communion. Planning committees have prepared a program calculated to evoke critical analysis of the way Christianity is facing up to conditions in a changing world.

Church leaders, aware that the Christian church is under pressure on all sides by non-Christian theologies and philosophies, believe that a new approach is called for if it is to maintain any kind of relevance to the modern way of life.

Center Drive To Be Launched By Foundation

The Wesley Foundation at Northeast Louisiana State College will initiate its campaign for a new religious center for Methodist students and faculty with a dinner 7 p.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe.

Food will be furnished by circles of the W.S.C.S. in the Twin Cities area. Methodists from over the entire Monroe District who are interested in supporting the project have been invited. The financial goal for the campaign is to raise $100,000.

The chairman of the Building Committee is Mr. E. A. Freeman. Other members include Mrs. J. C. Earnest, Mrs. D. V. Loflin, James M. Nicholson, Herbert Walker, Charles B. Sherrouse, and the Rev. Earl Emmerich. Exofficio members are Rev. Edward R. Haug, superintendent of the Monroe District, and the Rev. George Duerson, director of the Wesley Foundation.

Church Women Set Observance Of Special Day

"Deepen the channels to peace," is the theme adopted for United Church Women's observance Friday of World Community Day.

United Church Women in the Twin Cities will take part in the observance in 10 a.m. Friday services at St. Paul's Methodist Church, it was announced by Mrs. E. N. Jackson, president.

The Rev. John O. Stewart, pastor of the First Christian Church will be guest speaker at the services. Also on the program will be Mrs. C. L. Taylor, leader; choral readings by members of Southside Methodist Church, with music provided by Grace Episcopal Church.

Author of the 1962 services is Mrs. Andrew J. Cordier, wife of the former assistant secretary general of the United Nations.

The United Church Women's organization, is a general department of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., which serves 12 million protestant and orthodox church women in the United States.

Revival Services Set At Claiborne

Revival services will be conducted 7:30 p.m. daily Monday through Friday at Claiborne Methodist Church in West Monroe, it was announced by the Rev. T. A. Brown, pastor.

The schedule of speakers includes:

Church Sends Family Abroad As Evangelists

The White's Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe is sponsoring the mission in France of the Hal Frazier Family of North Carolina, it was announced by Sterl A. Watson, church avangelist.

He said that French churchmen state that about 90 per cent of the residents of France are church members, but less than 10 per cent attend all the religious services. Frazier expects to sail for France from New York, November 2.

His family went by plane earlier so the children could be enrolled in school. The Fraziers have three children.

Name Chosen For Lutheran Church Here

A name has been selected for a new Lutheran Church to be launched in the Monroe - West Monroe area.

Messiah Lutheran Church is the name chosen by a Steering Committee of the congregation which is being organized.

Formation of the church is the result of the work of the Rev. Charles Vorkoper, who came to the Twin Cities last June to carry out this assignment.

STEERING GROUP

The steering committee was selected by Pastor Vorkoper to lead the congregation until it is formally organized. It is composed of G. W. Miller, 804 Florida, Monroe; R. W. McPhearson, 1906 Howell Dr., Monroe; Hugh Williams, 104 Shalimar Dr., West Monroe, and Rev. Vorkoper.

The next meeting of the mission will draw men of the prospective congregation families. It is set for 7 p.m. today at the parsonage, 2307 Sauvelle Dr., Monroe.

Purpose of the meeting will be to give the men an opportunity to become acquainted and to enlist their support before services are started. Date of the first service will be announced this evening.

Superintendent Will Be Guest At Church Here

The First Methodist Church of West Monroe will be visited next Sunday at 10:50 a.m. by the new District Superintendent Edward P. Haug and the former District Superintendent George Harbuck who is now pastor of First Methodist Church in Monroe.

The Rev. Haug comes from the Henning Memorial Church, Sulphur, Louisiana. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and came into the Methodist Church in the union of the three great bodies of Methodism.

He finished his theological training at Iliff Seminary, Denver, Colorado and has served a number of Churches in Louisiana.

BY ANGLICANS

Global Assembly Being Planned

By HILARY GORDON

TORONTO (AP)—With one eye on the deliberations in progress in Rome, prelates of 18 independent national churches comprising worldwide Anglicanism are busy preparing for a global assembly of their own.

An Anglican Congress, to be held here next Aug. 13-23, will bring together 1,000 delegates — Japanese, Malayans, Africans and Indians as well as delegations from the British Isles, Australia, New Zealand, the United States and Canada.

The assembly takes on additional importance in Christendom's struggle for unity in that a key religious body will be able to assess contributions made by Roman Catholicism's current Ecumenical Council.

'BRIDGE CHURCH'

Anglicanism, with more than 40 million adherents throughout the world, maintains both Catholic and Protestant traditions and some look upon it as a "bridge" church in the Christian unity picture.

"The Church's Mission to the World" will be the main theme of the meeting, the third in the history of the communion. Planning committees have prepared a program calculated to evoke critical analysis of the way Christianity is facing up to conditions in a changing world.

Church leaders, aware that the Christian church is under pressure on all sides by non-Christian theologies and philosophies, believe that a new approach is called for if it is to maintain any kind of relevance to the modern way of life.

Center Drive To Be Launched By Foundation

The Wesley Foundation at Northeast Louisiana State College will initiate its campaign for a new religious center for Methodist students and faculty with a dinner 7 p.m. Tuesday at the First Methodist Church in West Monroe.

Food will be furnished by circles of the W.S.C.S. in the Twin Cities area. Methodists from over the entire Monroe District who are interested in supporting the project have been invited. The financial goal for the campaign is to raise $100,000.

The chairman of the Building Committee is Mr. E. A. Freeman. Other members include Mrs. J. C. Earnest, Mrs. D. V. Loflin, James M. Nicholson, Herbert Walker, Charles B. Sherrouse, and the Rev. Earl Emmerich. Exofficio members are Rev. Edward R. Haug, superintendent of the Monroe District, and the Rev. George Duerson, director of the Wesley Foundation.

Church Women Set Observance Of Special Day

"Deepen the channels to peace," is the theme adopted for United Church Women's observance Friday of World Community Day.

United Church Women in the Twin Cities will take part in the observance in 10 a.m. Friday services at St. Paul's Methodist Church, it was announced by Mrs. E. N. Jackson, president.

The Rev. John O. Stewart, pastor of the First Christian Church will be guest speaker at the services. Also on the program will be Mrs. C. L. Taylor, leader; choral readings by members of Southside Methodist Church, with music provided by Grace Episcopal Church.

Author of the 1962 services is Mrs. Andrew J. Cordier, wife of the former assistant secretary general of the United Nations.

The United Church Women's organization, is a general department of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A., which serves 12 million protestant and orthodox church women in the United States.

Revival Services Set At Claiborne

Church Sends Family Abroad As Evangelists

The White's Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe is sponsoring the mission in France of the Hal Frazier Family of North Carolina, it was announced by Sterl A. Watson, church avangelist.

He said that French churchmen state that about 90 per cent of the residents of France are church members, but less than 10 per cent attend all the religious services. Frazier expects to sail for France from New York, November 2.

His family went by plane earlier so the children could be enrolled in school. The Fraziers have three children.

Name Chosen For Lutheran Church Here

A name has been selected for a new Lutheran Church to be launched in the Monroe - West Monroe area.

Messiah Lutheran Church is the name chosen by a Steering Committee of the congregation which is being organized.

Formation of the church is the result of the work of the Rev. Charles Vorkoper, who came to the Twin Cities last June to carry out this assignment.

STEERING GROUP

The steering committee was selected by Pastor Vorkoper to lead the congregation until it is formally organized. It is composed of G. W. Miller, 804 Florida, Monroe; R. W. McPhearson, 1906 Howell Dr., Monroe; Hugh Williams, 104 Shalimar Dr., West Monroe, and Rev. Vorkoper.

The next meeting of the mission will draw men of the prospective congregation families. It is set for 7 p.m. today at the parsonage, 2307 Sauvelle Dr., Monroe.

Purpose of the meeting will be to give the men an opportunity to become acquainted and to enlist their support before services are started. Date of the first service will be announced this evening.

Superintendent Will Be Guest At Church Here

The First Methodist Church of West Monroe will be visited next Sunday at 10:50 a.m. by the new District Superintendent Edward P. Haug and the former District Superintendent George Harbuck who is now pastor of First Methodist Church in Monroe.

The Rev. Haug comes from the Henning Memorial Church, Sulphur, Louisiana. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church and came into the Methodist Church in the union of the three great bodies of Methodism.

He finished his theological training at Iliff Seminary, Denver, Colorado and has served a number of Churches in Louisiana.

LOTHRIDGE LEADS AGAIN

Engineers Overwhelm Winless Tulane, 42-12

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, with triple-threat Billy Lothridge a whiz as usual, crushed Tulane 42-12 Saturday in their finest offensive display in a decade.

Lothridge, delighting a homecoming crowd of 46,370 with his running, passing and kicking, gained 183 yards in less than three periods and then retired to the sidelines to watch his teammates run up the score on the hapless Green Wave, which suffered its sixth straight loss of the season.

It was the highest score posted by a Georgia Tech team since the Yellow Jackets beat Vanderbilt 43-0 in 1953.

Lothridge set up Tech's first two touchdowns and scored the fourth himself on a 12-yard run. He passed for a two-pointer after the first touchdown and kicked extra points after the next two.

However, it was Tech's sophomore halfbacks who furnished some of the biggest individual thrills. Jerry Bussell, who returned a punt 75 yards last week against Auburn, scored on a 93-yard kick-off return at the start of the second half Saturday and Tommy Jackson ripped off 37 yards in the march that led to Lothridge's touchdown.

Tulane, which scored a touchdown early in the second period after a 72-yard march, almost got another after Bussell's run when sophomore halfback Jerry Graves raced the ensuing kick-off back 76 yards before being brought down from behind by tackle Ed Griffin.

Tech scored twice in the first period on sustained marches built mainly around the running and passing of Lothridge. Fullback Larry Lafkowitz and second on a one-yard plunge.

Tulane cut the gap to 15-6 early in the second period on an 8-yard run by Graves. Tech threatened twice in the second period but was unable to pad its lead before intermission.

Tech led 28-6 after three periods following those runs by Bussell and Lothridge and senior quarterback Stan Gann then took over the quarterback slot from Lothridge and personally added the Yellow Jackets' final two touchdowns in the fourth period—the first on a one-yard sneak and the other on a 23-yard pass to sophomore end George Morris.

Late Rice Rally Ties Texas, 14-14

HOUSTON (AP) — Randall Kerbow passed 18 yards to Ronnie Graham to climax a 57-yard fourth period touchdown drive and give the underdog Rice Owls a 14-14 tie Saturday night with the Texas Longhorns, the nation's No. 1 collegiate team.

An overflow crowd of 73,000 saw Rice, with nothing better than a tie with Louisiana State on its four-game season record, surge from behind to record the first tie in the history of the 49 meetings between the traditional Southwest Conference rivals.

The Owls, matching the mighty Texas defense at every turn, jumped to a 7-0 first period lead on a 49-yard scamper by Paul Piper, a 200-pound sophomore, but Texas roared back for a 14-7 advantage as Tommy Ford scored one touchdown and set up another with a 55-yard punt return.

Kerbow put the 57-yard drive into motion by hitting John Sylvester with a 12-yarder to the Texas 38. Two plays netted only two yards and McReynolds took over and promptly hit Sylvester with a 15-yarder at the Owl 21.

Graham powered to the 18. McReynolds' second down pass was slapped down, but Kerbow re-entered the game, found Graham in the deep corner of the end zone for the touchdown, and then kicked the tie-clinching extra point.

Ford's three-yard touchdown plunge in the second period climaxed a 72-yard Texas drive. His 55-yard punt return in the third period carried to the Rice 9, from where Jerry Cook crashed over the middle to score on the first play.

The tie snapped a five-game victory streak that had carried Texas past Oregon, Texas Tech, Tulane, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

It was the first time in less than a year for a Southwest Conference rival to jolt the Longhorns as they held the No. 1 ranking. Texas Christian took a 6-0 victory last November after Texas had won eight straight.

Razorbacks Romp To Easy 49-7 Win

By DARRELL MACK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas scored at least two times in each of the first three quarters Saturday night to take an easy 49-7 victory over hapless Hardin-Simmons, loser of 28 of its last 29 games.

The highly rated Razorbacks, 5-1 for the season, rolled up 324 yards against the Cowboys, who penetrated the Arkansas 20 only once, when they scored in the third quarter.

Seven players scored for Arkansas and Tom McKnelly converted seven times.

The Razorbacks scored twice in the first seven minutes, added three touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the third period. Arkansas' first two units did not play in the second half.

Quarterback Billy Moore, Southwest Conference scoring leader, tallied the first touchdown on a two-yard dive to climax a 51-yard drive the first time Arkansas had the ball. Moore now has 48 points this season.

Hardin-Simmons scored its only touchdown against third and fourth team players after tackle Emery Martindale covered an Arkansas fumble on the Razorback 30. Halfback Patt Batten went the final yard six plays later.

Two Field Goals Aid GSC Win

SHREVEPORT (Special) — University of Southwestern Louisiana "hot-footed" its way past Northeast Louisiana State Saturday night in State Fair Stadium, hanging up an 18-10 Gulf States Conference victory over a newly-found arch rival.

by penalty. Oddly the lanky senior who doesn't play unless there is necessity of a kick of one form or another, missed on both of his extra - point tries following Bulldog touchdowns.

Another man who had his foot in the door for USL was quarterback Lindsey Landry of Abbeville. The swift and tricky signal - caller dashed for 77 - yards on 16 carries to pace all runners. He fired two completions for 16 more yards to lead the total offensive show.

Landry picked up the second USL touchdown while Lafayette's Bert Resweber got the first Canine marker on a two-yard burst in the second quarter.

Landry's score came on a two-yard jump also.

Pete Vincent, Northeast's signal caller, got all of Northeast's points on a 29 - yard field goal and a one - yard probe in the second quarter which he followed with an extra - point, the only one of the night.

USL is now 3-3-1 for the season and 2-1 in the GSC. Northeast dropped its fifth against one win for the season and is winless in four conference games.

Vincent was the second best ground gainer for Northeast with 65 - yards in 13 carries. Monroe product Robert Payne, who prepped at Neville, led the way for the Tribe. He banged away for 72 - yards on 14 runs. Robert's older brother, fullback Devone had 15 on four tries.

Resweber with 59 in a dozen runs was next for USL.

Vincent hit on two of eight attempts through the air for 23-yards, while Ronnie Myrick had 42 - yards on four hits in seven twirls.

Poimboeuf kicked for an average of 42 - yards in the punting department to regain his punting lead in the GSC. John Kelly of Northeast held the lead for one week, but had a poor 28 - yard average in the Saturday's duel.

Saturday to the disappointment of 32,000 homecoming fans.

Defensive back Brigham Woodward had given the Bulldogs life in the third period when it appeared that quarterback Jerry Woolum's 10-yard scoring pass to Ken Bocard might stand up.

Woolum, the Kentucky pitching ace who has been hampered by injuries much of the season, had a field day in the second quarter when he tossed his payoff pitch. But the Bulldogs began applying the pressure on him in the third period and Woolum started hurrying his throws.

In such an instance, with red jersies converging on him, he heaved a frantic toss which Woodward picked off at the Kentucky 31 and scampered home untouched.

Tech Wins, 33-20 Over Tennessee

RUSTON (Special) — Freshman Billy Laird came of age here tonight as he engineered Louisiana Tech's second offensive unit to four touchdowns in a wild 33-20 intersectional victory over Tennessee Tech.

The ex-Woodlawn of Shreveport ace who is supposed to be an understudy to Mickey Slaughter completed 9 of 11 passes for a whopping 183 yards and two touchdowns. One of his favorite targets was ex-Woodlawn teammate Wayne Davis, another freshman, who caught four passes for 36-yards.

Tech's Bulldogs had to come from behind for the win, having trailed the Tennessee Eagles 14-12 at intermissions. Laird threw to end David Lee for 18-yards and one TD and pitched to sophomore halfback Jack Odom for 43-yards and another one.

Tennessee's Golden Eagles, who dropped their sixth game in seven starts, displayed the swiftest backfield men seen here in many moons. They turned out a whopping 244 - yards on the ground and added 56 through the air.

The home squad could get only 111 on the ground, but collected 224 through the air. Slaughter completed three of four passes for 41-yards and spent much of the night on the sidelines cheering the young Laird on.

Swifties Jack Corbin and Jim Broyles paced the Eagle running attack. Corbin gained 68-yards on 10 carries and Broyles had 65 on 12 trips with the ball.

The first half was a wild offensive show with Tennessee Tech taking the lead for the second time on a TD with 2:31 left in the half. It also saw a 63-yard Slaughter to Corky Corkern TD strike wiped out by a penalty and also a 30-yard Golden Eagle field goal by Dale Long eliminated the same way.

Louisiana Tech's second offensive unit got both the Bulldog touchdowns with Laird in the engineering spot. Four fumbles, three of which were lost, and an interception cost the Ruston crew in the first half.

The Canines got on the scoreboard first in the inital period when a high pass from center prevented a Tennessee Tech punt and the Bulldogs took over on the Eagle 15. A four-yard Laird to Wayne Davis aerial got the ball to the six and Mickey Strother took a pitchout for the final five-yards. Jack Hopkins kick was wide.

Tennessee came right back and ripped the Bulldog defense to shreds, moving 86-yards in only eight plays. Speedy halfback Jim Broyles got off two 20-yard runs and a Jim Ragland pass to Sam Warwick was good for 15. Broyles scooted 20-yards for the touchdown. Long's kick was good and the Eagles led 7-6.

Laird moved his Bulldog green unit 93-yards for the second Cannine TD, most of it by the air route. He hit Gerald McDowell for five, Davis for eight, then hooked up with David Lee on a long 51-yarder to the Tennessee 30. The same combination clicked on an 18-yarder for the TD. A pass was attempted for the two-pointer, but was no good.

Jim Shaffer returned the ensuing kickoff from the 20 to the 27 and the Eagles were off and running again. In the drive Shaffer slashed for 11, Jackie Corbin got loose for 32 and Roy Sinkowich came off the bench to spurt for 18-yards and then lugged it over from the one. Long again converted for Tennessee Tech for a 14-12 halftime lead.

The Louisiana eleven came out after the half and got two quick Wayne Nolan got 37-yards on a pitchout and Slaughter hooked up with Corky Corkin on a 39-yard aerial for the score. The same combination worked for the two-pointer. This was the only drive of the night for the first unit.

Laird and Co. took it in the next time the Bulldogs got the ball, swiftly marching 83-yards.

First pass interference was ruled on a 30-yard pass than carried to the Canine 47. McDowell then ran for seven, Slaughter got two and McDowell added one more. Laird then clicked with Odom who retreated a little until David Lee threw a key block that sprang him loose for the 43-yards and a score. A pass attempt for the two-pointer failed but the Bulldogs led 26-14.

The Eagles took the kickoff and got right back into the game. Ragland passed to Terry Evens for nine and 16 yards. Carl Biedlers 29-yard scamper moved to the Canine's 10. Broyles got four more and then Ragland passed the final five yards to Sinkovich for the score. The Eagles went for the two-pointer but were unsuccessful.

The Bulldog green unit, or second unit, wrapped it up for the home team in the final minutes moving 51-yards in eight plays for the TD. Larid connected with "ole buddy" Davis for eight and 16-yard passes. Strother gained 10, McDowell seven and Strother moved it four more for a first down and goal. In two carries McDowell bucked it over from the one. Jack Hopkins' kick was good.

Syracuse Stops Crusaders, 24-6

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—An opportunist Syracuse football team capitalized on Mike Koski's touchdown runback of an intercepted pass, a fumble recovery and a nine yard punt for a 30-20 victory over Holy Cross Saturday.

Rallying from a 24-6 halftime deficit, the home team closed to 24-20 and was not licked until the powerful Orange held on downs at their 7 early in the fourth quarter. Beautiful deception and hard running enabled Jim Gaskins to race 16 yards untouched fortte clinching score just 18 seconds before the end of the third period.

Field And Amedee Star In Loop Win

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University, on the pinpoint passing of quarterbacks Jimmy Field and Lynn Amedee and key dashes by Jerry Stovall, Bo Campbell and Steve Ward, roared through Florida's three teams with ease Saturday night for a 23-0 victory before 68,000 homecoming fans.

Florida, the last team to defeat the Tigers in LSU Stadium back in 1960, was never in the ball game. The Gators were bottled up most of the night with their deepest penetration coming in the first period and that to the LSU 24 yard line. In the second half, they had the ball for only five series of plays as the Tigers played tight ball control.

The Tigers set the scoring place midway of the first period when Amedee booted a 21 yard field goal. In the second quarter, Campbell dashed five yards for the first Tiger touchdown, then in the third Stovall caught a 16 yarder from Field for the talley, then crashed his way for another in the fourth from eight yards out.

Amedee booted two of three extra points.

The Tigers, never looking better on offense, picked up a total of 349 yards, 175 of them by passing, while holding Florida to 161, 90 through the air.

It was LSU's best passing show, with Field completing six of seven for 106 yards and Amedee four of seven for 69.

Both made fantastic throws, and Stovall, Ray Wilkins, end Gene Sykes and Billy Truax caught them, often from among two defenders.

In all Stovall grabbed three for 68 yards, Truax one for 37, Sykes two for 24 and Wilkins 2 for 23.

Florida came to town fresh from two consecutive victories and many figured it would be a rough game for the Tigers. As it turned out, it was their easiest so far this season.

On the initial drive after they got the ball, the Tigers moved with ease from their own 24 where they had held Florida's opening series. Stovall went 11, then Field hit him with a 25 yarder, moving the ball to the Gator 40. Two plays later, Field hit the fleet West Monroe Halfback with a 28 yarder, moving to the Florida 10.

Florida, aided by a tremendous punt return, they drove to the LSU 39, but couldn't penetrate beyond in the face of the swarming LSU defense.

LSU appeared in trouble early in the second period, when Danny Neumann of Tallulah, back to punt on his 35, fumbled a low pass from center and had to run it out. Florida took over the Tiger 32, but after three downs were thrown back to the 36 and punted.

Then with the Go Team in command, the Tigers swept down field, with fullback Charles Cranford, Wilkins and Campbell, rambling through the Florida line. from the Florida 17, Amedee hit Wilkins with a 12 yarder, moving the ball to the five, from where Campbell roared over on the next play.

LSU got another chance in the second for a score, but couldn't capitalize on it when halfback Hagood Clarke fumbled and Dennis Gaubatz pounced on it for LSU at the Gator 30. Two plays later, halfback Bob Hoover intercepted a Fields pass, the only interception for Florida during the game, at the 17 and returned to the Florida 42. From there Florida drove to the LSU 31 as the half ended.

The Tigers made football look easy on the opening drive after the half. Taking the ball on their own 32, Danny LeBlanc picked up 12 in two tries, then Ward went for 19. From the Florida 35, Field hit Sykes with a 16 yarder. The lanky end grabbed it high from between two Florida defenders. Then Field hit end Jack Gates with another pinpoint pass, moving to the Florida eight. But in two plays, Florida pushed the Tigers back to the 16. Then the elusive Field, faded back to pass again, was almost pulled down, then spotted Stovall alone in the end zone behind a FLorida defender and tossed to him for the score.

Later in the third period, Florida players protested a call by the officials. It came when Amedee hit Truax with a long 37 - yard toss on the Florida 20. Truax and two FLorida defenders went up together and it appeared for a moment that the Florida players got the ball, but Truax came up with it and the officials ruled in his favor.

Defensive specialist Buddy Hamic intercepted another Tom Bratton pass to give LSU another golden opportunity. As the third period ended, the Tigers were on the Florida 15. Then they drove to the four. On the next play, Stovall, who was hit hard, fumbled and end Russ Brown recovered for Florida on its own two.

However the Tigers were not to be denied and on the next series of plays, the Go Team, which had a sprinkling of the Whites in the lineup, drove to the Florida 8. From there Stovall went over to score after almost being stopped twice.

That was the ball game, although Florida tried to score as time ran out.

Actually the Tigers punted only twice. Stovall booted one for 41 yards and Neumann once for 35.

Fullback Jim O'Donnell was Forida's best ground gainer for the night, picking up 40 yards in eight attempts. Quarterback Tom Shannon, a Southpaw, completed 12 out of 22 for 90 yards.

Florida Coach Ray Graves said LSU was the best team he had seen all season and said that was the consensus of his players.

"They are a great football team," he said. "They hit you with authority and their pursuit is tremendous."

Coach Charles McClendon said he was "Real pleased with the way we moved the ball. Our passing was more effective than its ever been. It was the finest exhibition of blocking we have had.

"I believe that all the motion we used gave Florida problems and proved to be one of our biggest assets. Before the game, we knew that Florida was larger than we were and we had to throw. Our boys were really up for this one against what I considered the hottest team in the conference.

"This was the first time we have ever faced a team that had three unit system and we didn't know what to expect. I thought the second effort by our quarterbacks tonight was great. They were trapped many times but managed to get passes away."

Ironically, the score Saturday night was identical to the victory the Tigers gained over Florida last season.

Engineers Overwhelm Winless Tulane, 42-12

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — Georgia Tech's Yellow Jackets, with triple-threat Billy Lothridge a whiz as usual, crushed Tulane 42-12 Saturday in their finest offensive display in a decade.

Lothridge, delighting a homecoming crowd of 46,370 with his running, passing and kicking, gained 183 yards in less than three periods and then retired to the sidelines to watch his teammates run up the score on the hapless Green Wave, which suffered its sixth straight loss of the season.

It was the highest score posted by a Georgia Tech team since the Yellow Jackets beat Vanderbilt 43-0 in 1953.

Lothridge set up Tech's first two touchdowns and scored the fourth himself on a 12-yard run. He passed for a two-pointer after the first touchdown and kicked extra points after the next two.

However, it was Tech's sophomore halfbacks who furnished some of the biggest individual thrills. Jerry Bussell, who returned a punt 75 yards last week against Auburn, scored on a 93-yard kick-off return at the start of the second half Saturday and Tommy Jackson ripped off 37 yards in the march that led to Lothridge's touchdown.

Tulane, which scored a touchdown early in the second period after a 72-yard march, almost got another after Bussell's run when sophomore halfback Jerry Graves raced the ensuing kick-off back 76 yards before being brought down from behind by tackle Ed Griffin.

Tech scored twice in the first period on sustained marches built mainly around the running and passing of Lothridge. Fullback Larry Lafkowitz and second on a one-yard plunge.

Tulane cut the gap to 15-6 early in the second period on an 8-yard run by Graves. Tech threatened twice in the second period but was unable to pad its lead before intermission.

Tech led 28-6 after three periods following those runs by Bussell and Lothridge and senior quarterback Stan Gann then took over the quarterback slot from Lothridge and personally added the Yellow Jackets' final two touchdowns in the fourth period—the first on a one-yard sneak and the other on a 23-yard pass to sophomore end George Morris.

Late Rice Rally Ties Texas, 14-14

HOUSTON (AP) — Randall Kerbow passed 18 yards to Ronnie Graham to climax a 57-yard fourth period touchdown drive and give the underdog Rice Owls a 14-14 tie Saturday night with the Texas Longhorns, the nation's No. 1 collegiate team.

An overflow crowd of 73,000 saw Rice, with nothing better than a tie with Louisiana State on its four-game season record, surge from behind to record the first tie in the history of the 49 meetings between the traditional Southwest Conference rivals.

The Owls, matching the mighty Texas defense at every turn, jumped to a 7-0 first period lead on a 49-yard scamper by Paul Piper, a 200-pound sophomore, but Texas roared back for a 14-7 advantage as Tommy Ford scored one touchdown and set up another with a 55-yard punt return.

Kerbow put the 57-yard drive into motion by hitting John Sylvester with a 12-yarder to the Texas 38. Two plays netted only two yards and McReynolds took over and promptly hit Sylvester with a 15-yarder at the Owl 21.

Graham powered to the 18. McReynolds' second down pass was slapped down, but Kerbow re-entered the game, found Graham in the deep corner of the end zone for the touchdown, and then kicked the tie-clinching extra point.

Ford's three-yard touchdown plunge in the second period climaxed a 72-yard Texas drive. His 55-yard punt return in the third period carried to the Rice 9, from where Jerry Cook crashed over the middle to score on the first play.

The tie snapped a five-game victory streak that had carried Texas past Oregon, Texas Tech, Tulane, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

It was the first time in less than a year for a Southwest Conference rival to jolt the Longhorns as they held the No. 1 ranking. Texas Christian took a 6-0 victory last November after Texas had won eight straight.

Razorbacks Romp To Easy 49-7 Win

By DARRELL MACK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas scored at least two times in each of the first three quarters Saturday night to take an easy 49-7 victory over hapless Hardin-Simmons, loser of 28 of its last 29 games.

The highly rated Razorbacks, 5-1 for the season, rolled up 324 yards against the Cowboys, who penetrated the Arkansas 20 only once, when they scored in the third quarter.

Seven players scored for Arkansas and Tom McKnelly converted seven times.

The Razorbacks scored twice in the first seven minutes, added three touchdowns in the second quarter and two more in the third period. Arkansas' first two units did not play in the second half.

Quarterback Billy Moore, Southwest Conference scoring leader, tallied the first touchdown on a two-yard dive to climax a 51-yard drive the first time Arkansas had the ball. Moore now has 48 points this season.

Hardin-Simmons scored its only touchdown against third and fourth team players after tackle Emery Martindale covered an Arkansas fumble on the Razorback 30. Halfback Patt Batten went the final yard six plays later.

Two Field Goals Aid GSC Win

SHREVEPORT (Special) — University of Southwestern Louisiana "hotfooted" its way past Northeast Louisiana State Saturday night in State Fair Stadium, hanging up an 18-10 Gulf States Conference victory over a newly-found arch rival.

L. J. Poimboeuf, a sensational kicking specialist from Franklin, led the way, kicking field goals 43 and 26 - yards and having a booming 55 - yarder nullified by penalty. Oddly the lanky senior who doesn't play unless there is necessity of a kick of one form or another, missed on both of his extra - point tries following Bulldog touchdowns.

Another man who had his foot in the door for USL was quarterback Lindsey Landry of Abbeville. The swift and tricky signal - caller dashed for 77 - yards on 16 carries to pace all runners. He fired two completions for 16 more yards to lead the total offensive show.

Landry picked up the second USL touchdown while Lafayette's Bert Resweber got the first Canine marker on a two-yard burst in the second quarter.

Landry's score came on a two-yard jump also.

Pete Vincent, Northeast's signal caller, got all of Northeast's points on a 29 - yard field goal and a one - yard probe in the second quarter which he followed with an extra - point, the only one of the night.

USL is now 3-3-1 for the season and 2-1 in the GSC. Northeast dropped its fifth against one win for the season and is winless in four conference games.

Vincent was the second best ground gainer for Northeast with 65 - yards in 13 carries. Monroe product Robert Payne, who prepped at Neville, led the way for the Tribe. He banged away for 72 - yards on 14 runs. Robert's older brother, fullback Devone had 15 on four tries.

Resweber with 59 in a dozen runs was next for USL.

Vincent hit on two of eight attempts through the air for 23-yards, while Ronnie Myrick had 42 - yards on four hits in seven twirls.

Poimboeuf kicked for an average of 42 - yards in the punting department to regain his punting lead in the GSC. John Kelly of Northeast held the lead for one week, but had a poor 28 - yard average in the Saturday's duel.

Wildcats Tie Georgia In Homecoming

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—A fumble frustrated a last-second try for a field goal and Georgia had to settle for a 7-7 tie with Kentucky Saturday to the disappointment of 32,000 homecoming fans.

Defensive back Brigham Woodward had given the Bulldogs life in the third period when it appeared that quarterback Jerry Woolum's 10-yard scoring pass to Ken Bocard might stand up.

Woolum, the Kentucky pitching ace who has been hampered by injuries much of the season, had a field day in the second quarter when he tossed his payoff pitch. But the Bulldogs began applying the pressure on him in the third period and Woolum started hurrying his throws.

In such an instance, with red jerseys converging on him, he heaved a frantic toss which Woodward picked off at the Kentucky 31 and scampered home untouched.

GEORGIA TECH quarterback Billy Lothridge (18) carires the ball for four yards in the second quarter of Saturday's Southeastern Conference game with Tulane in Atlanta, Ga. An unidentified Greenie makes the tackle as guard Glen Holcombe (62) charges in to assist.

Tech Wins, 33-20 Over Tennessee

RUSTON (Special) — Freshman Billy Laird came of age here tonight as he engineered Louisiana Tech's second offensive unit to four touchdowns in a wild 33-20 intersectional victory over Tennessee Tech.

The ex-Woodlawn of Shreveport ace who is supposed to be an understudy to Mickey Slaughter completed 9 of 11 passes for a whopping 183 yards and two touchdowns. One of his favorite targets was ex-Woodlawn teammate Wayne Davis, another freshman, who caught four passes for 36-yards.

Tech's Bulldogs had to come from behind for the win, having trailed the Tennessee Eagles 14-12 at intermissions. Laird threw to end David Lee for 18-yards and one TD and pitched to sophomore halfback Jack Odom for 43-yards and another one.

Tennessee's Golden Eagles, who dropped their sixth game in seven starts, displayed the swiftest backfield men seen here in many moons. They turned out a whopping 244 - yards on the ground and added 56 through the air.

The home squad could get only 111 on the ground, but collected 224 through the air. Slaughter completed three of four passes for 41-yards and spent much of the night on the sidelines cheering the young Laird on.

Swifties Jack Corbin and Jim Broyles paced the Eagle running attack. Corbin gained 68-yards on 10 carries and Broyles had 65 on 12 trips with the ball.

The first half was a wild offensive show with Tennessee Tech taking the lead for the second time on a TD with 2:31 left in the half. It also saw a 63-yard Slaughter to Corky Corkern TD strike wiped out by a penalty and also a 30-yard Golden Eagle field goal by Dale Long eliminated the same way.

Louisiana Tech's second offensive unit got both the Bulldog touchdowns with Laird in the engineering spot. Four fumbles, three of which were lost, and an interception cost the Ruston crew in the first half.

The Canines got on the scoreboard first in the inital period when a high pass from center prevented a Tennessee Tech punt and the Bulldogs took over on the Eagle 15. A four-yard Laird to Wayne Davis aerial got the ball to the six and Mickey Strother took a pitchout for the final five-yards. Jack Hopkins kick was wide.

Tennessee came right back and ripped the Bulldog defense to shreds, moving 86-yards in only eight plays. Speedy halfback Jim Broyles got off two 20-yard runs and a Jim Ragland pass to Sam Warwick was good for 15. Broyles scooted 20-yards for the touchdown. Long's kick was good and the Eagles led 7-6.

Laird moved his Bulldog green unit 93-yards for the second Cannine TD, most of it by the air route. He hit Gerald McDowell for five, Davis for eight, then hooked up with David Lee on a long 51-yarder to the Tennessee 30. The same combination clicked on an 18-yarder for the TD. A pass was attempted for the two-pointer, but was no good.

Jim Shaffer returned the ensuing kickoff from the 20 to the 27 and the Eagles were off and running again. In the drive Shaffer slashed for 11, Jackie Corbin got loose for 32 and Roy Sinkowich came off the bench to spurt for 18-yards and then lugged it over from the one. Long again converted for Tennessee Tech for a 14-12 halftime lead.

The Louisiana eleven came out after the half and got two quick Wayne Nolan got 37-yards on a pitchout and Slaughter hooked up with Corky Corkin on a 39-yard aerial for the score. The same combination worked for the two-pointer. This was the only drive of the night for the first unit.

Laird and Co. took it in the next time the Bulldogs got the ball, swiftly marching 83-yards.

First pass interference was ruled on a 30-yard pass than carried to the Canine 47. McDowell then ran for seven, Slaughter got two and McDowell added one more. Laird then clicked with Odom who retreated a little until David Lee threw a key block that sprang him loose for the 43-yards and a score. A pass attempt for the two-pointer failed but the Bulldogs led 26-14.

The Eagles took the kickoff and got right back into the game. Ragland passed to Terry Evens for nine and 16 yards. Carl Biedlers 29-yard scamper moved to the Canine's 10. Broyles got four more and then Ragland passed the final five yards to Sinkovich for the score. The Eagles went for the two-pointer but were unsuccessful.

The Bulldog green unit, or second unit, wrapped it up for the home team in the final minutes moving 51-yards in eight plays for the TD. Larid connected with "ole buddy" Davis for eight and 16-yard passes. Strother gained 10, McDowell seven and Strother moved it four more for a first down and goal. In two carries McDowell bucked it over from the one. Jack Hopkins' kick was good.

Syracuse Stops Crusaders, 24-6

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP)—An opportunist Syracuse football team capitalized on Mike Koski's touchdown runback of an intercepted pass, a fumble recovery and a nine yard punt for a 30-20 victory over Holy Cross Saturday.

Rallying from a 24-6 halftime deficit, the home team closed to 24-20 and was not licked until the powerful Orange held on downs at their 7 early in the fourth quarter. Beautiful deception and hard running enabled Jim Gaskins to race 16 yards untouched fortte clinching score just 18 seconds before the end of the third period.

Field And Amedee Star In Loop Win

By JACK GATES
Executive Editor

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University, on the pinpoint passing of quarterbacks Jimmy Field and Lynn Amedee and key dashes by Jerry Stovall, Bo Campbell and Steve Ward, roared through Florida's three teams with ease Saturday night for a 23-0 victory before 68,000 homecoming fans.

Florida, the last team to defeat the Tigers in LSU Stadium back in 1960, was never in the ball game. The Gators were bottled up most of the night with their deepest penetration coming in the first period and that to the LSU 24 yard line. In the second half, they had the ball for only five series of plays as the Tigers played tight ball control.

The Tigers set the scoring place midway of the first period when Amedee booted a 21 yard field goal. In the second quarter, Campbell dashed five yards for the first Tiger touchdown, then in the third Stovall caught a 16 yarder from Field for the talley, then crashed his way for another in the fourth from eight yards out.

Amedee booted two of three extra points.

The Tigers, never looking better on offense, picked up a total of 349 yards, 175 of them by passing, while holding Florida to 161, 90 through the air.

It was LSU's best passing show, with Field completing six of seven for 106 yards and Amedee four of seven for 69.

Both made fantastic throws, and Stovall, Ray Wilkins, end Gene Sykes and Billy Truax caught them, often from among two defenders.

In all Stovall grabbed three for 68 yards, Truax one for 37, Sykes two for 24 and Wilkins 2 for 23.

Florida came to town fresh from two consecutive victories and many figured it would be a rough game for the Tigers. As it turned out, it was their easiest so far this season.

On the initial drive after they got the ball, the Tigers moved with ease from their own 24 where they had held Florida's opening series. Stovall went 11, then Field hit him with a 26 yarder, moving the ball to the Gator 40. Two plays later, Field hit the fleet West Monroe Halfback with a 28 yarder, moving to the Florida 10.

Florida, aided by a tremendous punt return, they drove to the LSU 39, but couldn't penetrate beyond in the face of the swarming LSU defense.

LSU appeared in trouble early in the second period, when Danny Neumann of Tallulah, back to punt on his 35, fumbled a low pass from center and had to run it out. Florida took over the Tiger 32, but after three downs were thrown back to the 36 and punted.

Then with the Go Team in command, the Tigers swept down field, with fullback Charles Cranford, Wilkins and Campbell, rambling through the Florida line. from the Florida 17, Amedee hit Wilkins with a 12 yarder, moving the ball to the five, from where Campbell roared over on the next play.

LSU got another chance in the second for a score, but couldn't capitalize on it when halfback Hagood Clarke fumbled and Dennis Gaubats pounced on it for LSU at the Gator 30. Two plays later, halfback Bob Hoover intercepted a Fields pass, the only interception for Florida during the game, at the 17 and returned to the Florida 42. From there Florida drove to the LSU 31 as the half ended.

The Tigers made football look easy on the opening drive after the half. Taking the ball on their own 32, Danny LeBlanc picked up 12 in two tries, then Ward went for 19. From the Florida 35, Field hit Sykes with a 16 yarder. The lanky end grabbed it high from between two Florida defenders. Then Field hit end Jack Gates with another pinpoint pass, moving to the Florida eight. But in two plays, Florida pushed the Tigers back to the 16. Then the elusive Field, faded back to pass again, was almost pulled down, then spotted Stovall alone in the end zone behind a FLorida defender and tossed to him for the score.

Later in the third period, Florida players protested a call by the officials. It came when Amedee hit Truax with a long 37 - yard toss on the Florida 20. Truax and two FLorida defenders went up together and it appeared for a moment that the Florida players got the ball, but Truax came up with it and the officials ruled in his favor.

Defensive specialist Buddy Hamic intercepted another Tom Bratton pass to give LSU another golden opportunity. As the third period ended, the Tigers were on the Florida 15. Then they drove to the four. On the next play, Stovall, who was hit hard, fumbled and end Russ Brown recovered for Florida on its own two.

However the Tigers were not to be denied and on the next series of plays, the Go Team, which had a sprinkling of the Whites in the lineup, drove to the Florida 8. From there Stovall went over to score after almost being stopped twice.

That was the ball game, although Florida tried to score as time ran out.

Actually the Tigers punted only twice. Stovall booted one for 41 yards and Neumann once for 35.

Fullback Jim O'Donnell was Forida's best ground gainer for the night, picking up 40 yards in eight attempts. Quarterback Tom Shannon, a Southpaw, completed 12 out of 22 for 90 yards.

Florida Coach Ray Graves said LSU was the best team he had seen all season and said that was the consensus of his players.

"They are a great football team," he said. "They hit you with authority and their pursuit is tremendous."

Coach Charles McClendon said he was "Real pleased with the way we moved the ball. Our passing was more effective than its ever been. It was the finest exhibition of blocking we have had.

"I believe that all the motion we used gave Florida problems and proved to be one of our biggest assets. Before the game, we knew that Florida was larger than we were and we had to throw. Our boys were really up for this one against what I considered the hottest team in the conference.

"This was the first time we have ever faced a team that had three unit system and we didn't know what to expect. I thought the second effort by our quarterbacks tonight was great. They were trapped many times but managed to get passes away."

Ironically, the score Saturday night was identical to the victory the Tigers gained over Florida last season.

Unbeaten Alabama Takes Tulsa, 35-6

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Unbeaten Alabama knocked the wind out of the Tulsa Golden Hurricanes with a 21-point first half Saturday and cruised easily to a 35-6 victory.

The third-ranked Crimson Tide, sharpening its offense for the November stretch drive, substituted liberally throughout the contest but the Alabama defensive grip on the hapless visitors held tight until the closing minutes of the game.

Only the booming punts of the Hurricanes' Stuart McBirnie and the defensive play of guard John Rougeot and linebacker Curt Wheeless kept the score from going higher.

Cotton Clark, the Southeastern Conference's leading scorer, added two touchdowns on runs of two and 91 yards to run his season total to 62 points.

Quarterbacks Joe Namath and Jack Hurlbut scored on runs of one yard each and Gary Martin added the fifth touchdown on an eight-yard run. Tim Davis kicked three extra points and Hurlbut passed to Martin for two points.

Tulsa scored its only touchdown with little more than two minutes left, thanks to a pass interference penalty which put the ball on the Alabama two. Jerry Swanson ran it over from the one but McBirnie's attempted conversion was blocked.

Alabama's Clark turned in the running gem of the day when he took a McBirnie punt on his own nine yard line and twisted and fought his way down the sidelines for a 91-yard touchdown.

A Clark to Hurlbut to Butch Wilson lateral play with the second half kickoff went for 87 yards to the Tulsa 13 but four rushing plays failed to net a score that time.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A 73-yard scoring pass and a 73-yard touchdown run, both within 90 seconds of playing time—rocketed fourth-ranked Southern California to a 28-16 victory over winless Illinois Saturday.

The Illinois, absorbing their 15th straight loss, moved in front 8-7 midway in the second period. It was the first time since their 14-10 defeat at USC in the 1961 finale they had been ahead in a game.

With 45 seconds to go before halftime, Pistol Pete Beathard hit towering end Hal Bedsole on a 73-yard touchdown play, USC's second aerial jackpot of the day. Bill Nelsen passed to Bedsole for two extra points and the Trojans moved ahead 15-8.

Oregon In 21-21 Tie With Washington Club

By JACK HEWINS

SEATTLE (AP)—The Webfoots of Oregon, seemingly whipped, struck in the final quarter Saturday for a touchdown and two-point conversion that earned them a 21-21 tie with favored Washington, eighth-ranked team in the nation.

The Webfoots dominated the play from there to the finish, a wild two minutes that ended with the bleacher crowd swaming into the end zone as a final Oregon pass was knocked down at the Washington goal.

SEATTLE (AP)—Statistics of the Oregon-Washington football game:

Oregon had scored first but Washington tied the count at 7-7 in the second quarter and went in front in the third. The Webfoots came from behind again in the third period to score a touchdown but missed the conversion kick that would have given them a 14-14 tie.

An overflow crowd of 55,000 thought the game belonged to Washington when a fourth-quarter touchdown made it 21-13.

Washington's Huskies had backed Oregon to its own goal and Ron Sniwdow's punt from the end zone was partly deflected by Bob Monroe. The ball went only to the Oregon 25.

The Webfoots were through in all minds but Oregon's. They moved from their own 20 to the Washington 15 but lost the ball on downs. They forced Washington to punt and punched to the seven, only to lose the ball on a fumble. Again they forced a punt, and Rick Redman's hurried kick went only to the Washington 35.

Mel Renfro, Oregon's All-America halfback candidate, ran for 17 and then Larry Hill got a big hole at left guard and scooted 18 to tally. Sophomore Bob Berry tossed to Dick Imwalle for the conversion that tied the score.

Renfro dived two yards to climax an Oregon march in the first period.

Washington came back with a 81-yard attack to tie it up at 7-7 as the second quarter opened. The Huskies went in front 14-7 with a grinding 62-yard drive early in the third period. Oregon came right back with its own touchdown thrust, Renfro passing to Greg Willener on a 14-yard touchdown play. Buck Corey's kick was barely wide of the goal and the Webfoots still trailed going into the final period.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP)— Michigan State's Spartans sent rugged George Saimes across the Indiana goal line three times and Dewey Lincoln once Saturday and beat the Hoosiers 26-8.

The Spartans, ranked No. 10 in The Associated Press poll, had the class to compensate for five lost-ball fumbles. The bobbles came after they had scored twice in the first five minutes on Lincoln's 25-yard dash and a Saimes plunge set up by Little Sherman Lewis' 29-yard run.

Penn State In Thrilling Two Point Victory

Kochman, a 200-pound halfback, paced one scoring drive and tallied a touchdown. Liske, who missed only one of his first 15 passes, threw one of 10 yards to Al Gursky for the third Penn State six pointer.

Still, it was the 37-yard field goal by Ron Coates in the second period that proved decisive as Craig Morton threw three touchdown passes for the Bears.

Morton suffered a knee injury on the first day of fall practice and underwent an operation. He appeared in the second quarter Saturday for his first varsity competition. The 19-year-old completed 20 of 28 passes for 274 yards. Two were intercepted.

Morton also rushed for 11 yards and a total offense of 285, two more than the school mark set by Jerry Drew against Oregon State in 1954.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Football-proud Tennessee, floundering in the cellar of the Southeastern Conference, put on a dazzling scoring display in the second half Saturday for a 48-14 come-from behind victory over little Chattanooga.

Forced to settle for a humiliating 14-14 half-time score, an aroused Vol offense caught fire in the second half and the Vols scored more points Saturday than they have all season.

It was Tennessee's first victory of the year, played in a half-empty stadium.

The outclassed Moccasins pulled ahead briefly in the second period on the throwing arm of Ron Eisaman. Eisaman hit back Ron Whaley on a 24-yard touchdown pass and set up the second score which Whaley carried over from the one.

Tennessee tied the game shortly before half-time with a 10-yard flat pass from tailback Mallon Faircloth to wingback Wayne Waff. The Vols had managed to sneak end John Paty across from the 12 on a slick end-round during the first period.

In the final two periods Tennessee put on its big push, scoring three times in the third quarter and adding two more in the last period.

The Vols, throwing the entire bench at the Mocs, left the passing game to Chattanooga and held mostly to the ground for the first time this season.

Rebels Race Over Commodores, 35-0

The Rebels crunched to a touchdown on a 60-yard drive in 9 plays the first time they laid hands on the ball. A lot of starch was out of the Vandy line before the second quarter.

The Commodores, who haven't even scored on Ole Miss since 1954, tried a "shotgun" offense for part of the struggle to give quarterback Hank Lesesne more targets for his passes. Nothing worked.

Mississippi's renowned fullback punch kept the Commodores reeling on the ground, with Buck Randall starring in contributing one touchdown and setting up another.

The Rebels number 2 quarterback, Jim Weatherly, also enjoyed himself, hitting end Woody Dabbs with a 10-yard touchdown pass an getting one himself on a 2-yard plunge.

Vanderbilt's most solid threat, sparked by quarterback Jon Cleveland's passing, died on the Ole Miss 5 in the fourth quarter. At that point the first string Rebel line trotted back in and put a quick end to such an unseemly display.

Nebraska Sails Over Colorado In Big 8 Game

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Stalled by penalties and miscues in the first half, unbeaten Nebraska clicked off 23 points in the third period and sailed on for a 31-6 Big Eight football victory over downtrodden Colorado Saturday.

Nebraska end Jim Huge, who had dropped a pass in the end zone in the final second of the first half, redeemed himself in the early minutes of the third period by recovering Colorado halfback Bill Symons' fumble on Colorado's 28. On the first play from scrimmage halfback Rudy Johnson shot through the left side for a touchdown and John Failman's placekick put Nebraska ahead to stay 7-6.

Cornhusker quarterback Dennis Claridge slipped through Colorado's left side on a keeper for a 31-yard touchdown gallop that took the starch out of Colorado in the third quarter. An 11-yard scoring pass from Claridge to Bill Comstock produced the third Nebraska TD in the quarter.

In the final minute halfback Gene Young scored Nebraska's fourth touchdown on a 2-yard plunge, capping a 50-yard march.

Unbeaten Alabama Takes Tulsa, 35-6

November stretch drive, substitued liberally throughout the contest but the Alabama defensive grip on the hapless visitors held tight until the closing minutes of the game.

Only the booming punts of the Hurricanes' Stuart McBirnie and the defensive play of guard John Rougeot and linebacker Curt Wheeless kept the score from going higher.

Cotton Clark, the Southeastern Conference's leading scorer, added two touchdowns on runs of two and 91 yards to run his season total to 62 points.

Quarterbacks Joe Namath and Jack Hurlbut scored on runs of one yard each and Gary Martin added the fifth touchdown on an eight-yard run. Tim Davis kicked three extra points and Hurlbut passed to Martin for two points.

Tulsa scored its only touchdown with little more than two minutes left, thanks to a pass interference penalty which put the ball on the Alabama two. Jerry Swanson ran it over from the one but McBirnie's attempted conversion was blocked.

Alabama's Clark turned in the running gem of the day when he took a McBirnie punt on his own nine yard line and twisted and fought his way down the sidelines for a 91-yard touchdown.

A Clark to Hurlbut to Butch Wilson lateral play with the second half kickoff went for 87 yards to the Tulsa 13 but four rushing plays failed to net a score that time.

Oregon In 21-21 Tie With Washington Club

By JACK HEWINS

SEATTLE (AP)—The Webfoots of Oregon, seemingly whipped, struck in the final quarter Saturday for a touchdown and two-point conversion that earned them a 21-21 tie with favored Washington, eighth-ranked team in the nation.

The Webfoots dominated the play from there to the finish, a wild two minutes that ended with the bleacher crowd swaming into the end zone as a final Oregon pass was knocked down at the Washington goal.

Oregon had scored first but Washington tied the count at 7-7 in the second quarter and went in front in the third. The Webfoots came from behind again in the third period to score a touchdown but missed the conversion kick that would have given them a 14-14 tie.

An overflow crowd of 55,000 thought the game belonged to Washington when a fourth-quarter touchdown made it 21-13.

Washington's Huskies had backed Oregon to its own goal and Ron Sniwdow's punt from the end zone was partly deflected by Bob Monroe. The ball went only to the Oregon 25.

The Webfoots were through in all minds but Oregon's. They moved from their own 20 to the Washington 15 but lost the ball on downs. They forced Washington to punt and punched to the seven, only to lose the ball on a fumble. Again they forced a punt, and Rick Redman's hurried kick went only to the Washington 35.

Mel Renfro, Oregon's All-America halfback candidate, ran for 17 and then Larry Hill got a big hole at left guard and scooted 18 to tally. Sophomore Bob Berry tossed to Dick Imwalle for the conversion that tied the score.

Renfro dived two yards to climax an Oregon march in the first period.

Washington came back with a 81-yard attack to tie it up at 7-7 as the second quarter opened. The Huskies went in front 14-7 with a grinding 62-yard drive early in the third period. Oregon came right back with its own touchdown thrust, Renfro passing to Greg Willener on a 14-yard touchdown play. Buck Corey's kick was barely wide of the goal and the Webfoots still trailed going into the final period.

aroused Vol offense caught fire in the second half and the Vols scored more points Saturday than they have all season.

It was Tennessee's first victory of the year, played in a half-empty stadium.

The outclassed Moccasins pulled ahead briefly in the second period on the throwing arm of Ron Eisaman. Eisaman hit back Ron Whaley on a 24-yard touchdown pass and set up the second score which Whaley carried over from the one.

Tennessee tied the game shortly before half-time with a 10-yard flat pass from tailback Mallon Faircloth to wingback Wayne Waff. The Vols had managed to sneak end John Paty across from the 12 on a slick end-round during the first period.

In the final two periods Tennessee put on its big push, scoring three times in the third quarter and adding two more in the last period.

The Vols, throwing the entire bench at the Mocs, left the passing game to Chattanooga and held mostly to the ground for the first time this season.

Southern Cal Trips Illinois On 28-16 Win

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—A 73-yard scoring pass and a 73-yard touchdown run, both within 90 seconds of playing time—rocketed fourth-ranked Southern California to a 28-16 victory over winless Illinois Saturday.

The Illinois, absorbing their 15th straight loss, moved in front 8-7 midway in the second period. It was the first time since their 14-10 defeat at USC in the 1961 finale they had been ahead in a game.

With 45 seconds to go before halftime, Pistol Pete Beathard hit towering end Hal Bedsole on a 73-yard touchdown play, USC's second aerial jackpot of the day. Bill Nelsen passed to Bedsole for two extra points and the Trojans moved ahead 15-8.

In the opening 45 seconds of the third quarter, Willie Brown popped off tackle into the clear and streaked 73 yards to score. A conversion pass failed.

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—John Hannigan's second field goal, set up by a pass interference break, with 23 seconds to play pulled out a 13-11 football victory over Maryland over South Carolina Saturday.

Pass interference by Billy Gambrell, star halfback for South Carolina, moved Maryland to the 10-yard line and Hannigan booted the winning three points from the 12.

Hannigan kicked a 31-yard field goal in the first quarter for a career record of nine, most ever by a Maryland player and he has four games to go.

Boston Celtics Stay Unbeaten With 118-98 Win

It was the first loss for Syracuse in four starts while Boston remained undefeated in three games.

Boston's vaunted bench gradually wore down the Nats in a rough and ragged contest. The Celtics scoring was well divided with Tom Sanders, Sam Jones, Tom Heinsohn and Bill Russell—leaders at 17 points each. Also a major factor was Russell's 35 rebounds.

The lead changed hands 14 time and Boston led only 44-42 when the Celtics outscored the Nats 12-3 for an intermission lead of 56-45.

Kochman, a 200-pound halfback, paced one scoring drive and tallied a touchdown. Liske, who missed only one of his first 15 passes, threw one of 10 yards to Al Gursky for the third Penn State six pointer.

Still, it was the 37-yard field goal by Ron Coates in the second period that proved decisive as Craig Morton threw three touchdown passes for the Bears.

Morton suffered a knee injury on the first day of fall practice and underwent an operation. He appeared in the second quarter Saturday for his first varsity competition. The 19-year-old completed 20 of 28 passes for 274 yards. Two were intercepted.

Morton also rushed for 11 yards and a total offense of 285, two more than the school mark set by Jerry Drew against Oregon State in 1954.

Rebels Race Over Commodores, 35-0

The Rebels crunched to a touchdown on a 60-yard drive in 9 plays the first time they laid hands on the ball. A lot of starch was out of the Vandy line before the second quarter.

The Commodores, who haven't even scored on Ole Miss since 1954, tried a "shotgun" offense for part of the struggle to give quarterback Hank Lesesne more targets for his passes. Nothing worked.

Mississippi's renowned fullback punch kept the Commodores reeling on the ground, with Buck Randall starring in contributing one touchdown and setting up another.

The Rebels number 2 quarterback, Jim Weatherly, also enjoyed himself, hitting end Woody Dabbs with a 10-yard touchdown pass an getting one himself on a 2-yard plunge.

Vanderbilt's most solid threat, sparked by quarterback Jon Cleveland's passing, died on the Ole Miss 5 in the fourth quarter. At that point the first string Rebel line trotted back in and put a quick end to such an unseemly display.

West Virginia made a spirited comeback in the third period, scoring on a three-yard plunge by Glenn Holton and an electrifying 92-yard pass play from Jerry Yost to Tom Yeater. Yeater caught the pass on the West Virginia 40 and outran the State safety to score.

Vern Burke, one of the nation's top receivers, caught eight passes from Baker, including two for touchdowns. The second covered 47 yards and came just six seconds from the end of the first half.

Nebraska Sails Over Colorado In Big 8 Game

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Stalled by penalties and miscues in the first half, unbeaten Nebraska clicked off 23 points in the third period and sailed on for a 31-6 Big Eight football victory over downtrodden Colorado Saturday.

Nebraska end Jim Huge, who had dropped a pass in the end zone in the final second of the first half, redeemed himself in the early minutes of the third period by recovering Colorado halfback Bill Symons' fumble on Colorado's 28. On the first play from scrimmage halfback Rudy Johnson shot through the left side for a touchdown and John Failman's placekick put Nebraska ahead to stay 7-6.

Cornhusker quarterback Dennis Claridge slipped through Colorado's left side on a keeper for a 31-yard touchdown gallop that took the starch out of Colorado in the third quarter. An 11-yard scoring pass from Claridge to Bill Comstock produced the third Nebraska TD in the quarter.

In the final minute halfback Gene Young scored Nebraska's fourth touchdown on a 2-yard plunge, capping a 50-yard march.

Doe Seasons Dropped

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission has dropped its plans to open "any deer" seasons on the state's game management areas at the request of several Police Juries.

This includes in Northeast Louisiana the Jackson-Bienville Game Management Area, the Union Game Management Area and that portion of the Chicago Mills GMA in Franklin, Madison and East Carroll parishes.

It means that hunters will not be permitted to shoot doe deer in these areas. However, the regular buck seasons will be carried out as previously planned.

In short, the only parish in this area where doe deer can be shot will be Tensas, which is holding an "any deer" season the last 16 days of the regular season at the request of the Tensas Police Jury.

The commission, in rescinding a previous motion at its last meeting October 23rd, issue this statement in part:

"The two-fold purpose of the any - deer seasons previously set was to provide high public recreational opportunities in the form of a good deer harvest and to keep the deer herds in balance with range conditions on the areas."

Action to drop plans for the "any deer" seasons was made necessary, the commission pointed out, by the request of some parish Police Juries.

Under existing Louisiana laws, power is granted the Police Juries to veto hunting regulations relating to the taking of antlerless deer that may be established by the commission.

In its news release, the commission expressed the belief that the change in the deer hunting regulations would reduce the harvest of deer in the management areas by about 50 per cent, "thus depriving deer hunters of biologically sound recreational hunting opportunity and reducing the yield of deer from the areas from a normal sustained harvest of about 1400 deer to half that number."

And the commission concluded with this vital statement:

"It has become increasingly clear that management of the state's deer population and fixing of uniform seasons that will aid in bringing about the full potential of deer-hunting opportunity, increasing the capacity of the deer range to carry additional deer and improving the quality of deer, should be left to the commission and its field personnel."

There is a great deal of food for thought in this paragraph.

Louisiana's game program should be supervised by its trained biologists, whose recommendations are not always met with the public's approval.

But at the same time we believe in home-rule — just as the Tensas Police Jury exercised homerule by requesting the commission to hold an "any deer" season in Tensas.

These are conflicting theories, especially when the beliefs of the biologists clash with the beliefs of the local governing bodies, most of whom are not qualified to govern a wildlife program, which is a technical field.

On the same token the commission itself should heed the recommendations of its biologists—which the commission has not always done.

Register Duck Blinds

Regardless of the outlook for the coming duck season, duck blinds must be registered again this year at Wham Brake near Monroe.

International Paper Co. announced this week that a company representative will be at the control gates of the reservoir on these dates: November 2, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.; November 3, 8 a.m. to 2 p.m.; and November 4, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A company spokesman said that blinds not registered and properly maintained by November 26th will be destroyed. For more information, contact Lindy Houston, Bastrop, telephone 2500 days and 1013 nights.

Meeting On Pollution

All persons interested in the pollution problem of the Ouachita River are invited to a discussion sponsored by the Ouachita Wildlife Unit 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Virginia Hotel.

Kenneth Biglane, executive director of the Louisiana Stream Control Commission, of Baton Rouge will be one of two featured speakers. Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of Monroe also will speak, his topic covering the proposed construction of a sewer treatment plant here.

Locally, the wildlife club has carried the ball for the construction of a plant, realizing long ago that the Ouachita should be cleaned up for recreational purposes as well as for industry.

Biglane, of course, will present the technical aspects of pollution in the Ouachita.

(Incidentially, the Ouachita River is the topic of an excellent story in the November edition of "Sports Afield" by Grits Gresham of Natchitoches.)

A major item on the program for the Tuesday night wildlife meeting is the proposed adoption of new by-laws.

It's the next to last wildlife meeting of the year. It should be a good one. Next month, the club will elect new officers for 1963.

Rockefeller Improvements

Rockefeller Wildlife Refuge, the sprawling 82,000-acre game refuge in Cameron and Vermillion parishes, is still being improved by the state commission.

Director L. D. Young says work has just been completed on the installation of three additional water control structures and 10 miles of levees on the refuge.

This work is important in that the commission controls salt water pollution from the Gulf by the construction of levees, which enables feed for waterfowl to grow on the refuge.

Over one-half of the refuge acreage has been developed thus far in a similiar fashion. Prior to the commission's improvement program duck populations averaged 75,000 to 100,000 on the refuge.

Now the refuge is home each winter for about 600,000 ducks and 35,000 geese. It's the biggest thing Louisiana has in the waterfowl picture.

Little Man's Corner

The weather turned cold and the little men weren't making as much news as they did the past two weeks.

But the brightest story came from Eros where 11 - year - old Dwanna Phillips, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Dee Phillips of Eros, killed two squirrels. She is a sixth grader at Eros.

And a seventh - grader at Eros, Robert Green, went squirrel hunting. Robert failed to bag a bushytail, but instead killed three rattle snakes and two moccasins.

In general, squirrel hunting reports are good all over the district. Some hunters report that they are failing to get squirrels, but the hunting is still good.

Odis Fontenot of West Monroe stepped about 50 yards off the White's Ferry Road and killed four within an hour.

On the fishing side, Bill Strickland and his brother Al caught the limit of bass on Lake Concordia. They said the bass were striking around the stumps on the southern end of the lake. Other fishermen report that they are catching fish on Golly Whompers at Old River in the Vidalia area.

S. J. Tate caught the limit of bass in Concordia also.

From Lake Providence, Claude Rinnicker and a friend caught the limit of white perch in the River Chute. Mrs. Morris Coleman, got a string of nine fish in Hollybrook. She caught a 3-pound bass, three bass, a catfish and four white perch.

From South Arkansas, around Crossett, the squirrel outlook is good, especially in the river bottoms. The deer outlook is excellent and the quail picture is good also.

Tom Myers Hurls 'Cats Over Irish

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Undefeated Northwestern's brilliant Tom Myers-to-Paul Flatley passing combination, clicking twice for touchdowns, swept the nationally third-ranked Wildcats to a record 35-6 triumph over shaky Notre Dame Saturday.

Myers, the nation's No. 3 major college passer, completed 11 of 18 tosses for 168 yards before reserves took over for Northwestern midway in the third period.

Flatley, the nation's third best pass receiver, made several circus catches as he snared six Myers tosses for 102 yards, including touchdown grabs of 23 and 7 yards.

A Dyche Stadium record crowd of 55,752 saw Northwestern, now a hot Big Ten title favorite, strike quickly for three first-half touchdowns on Notre Dame errors to wrap up their fifth straight victory.

Northwestern's other touchdowns were scored by a pair of lads with real Irish names, Steve Murphy, who plunged for two, and Dick McCauley, who darted six yards for the last Wildcat score.

A Notre Dame fumble on the game's first running play was recovered by Wildcat Larry Benz on the Irish 29. Eight plays later, Murphy dove two yards for a touchdown.

In the game-deciding second period, right after a Wildcat interception, Myers whipped a 23-yard scoring pass to Flatley. Then—following a blocked Irish punt on Notre Dame's 20 — the Wildcats capped a five-play scoring drive on Murphy's plunge from the two-foot line.

That gave Northwestern a 21-0 halftime lead and Myers settled the issue in the third period by first whipping a 40-yard pass to Flatley on Notre Dame's 35 and then hitting his favorite receiver again with a 7-yard scoring shot in the end zone.

The celebrated Army defensive specialist, "the Chinese Bandits," with help from the two-way regulars" throttled the GW attack, limiting the Coloniels to 36 yards rushing and 45 yards passing.

Mira Passes Miami To Win Over Falcons

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI) — George Mira's razor-sharp passes, carrying out the crucial yardage in all three touchdown marches, swept the Miami Hurricanes past the Air Force Academy 21-3, at the wind-blown Falcon Stadium Saturday.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Statistics of the Miami-Air Force game:

The Miami quarterback set up all three touchdowns. He ran for one and passed for another.

The only time the crowd of 32,787 got a chance to cheer was for a 55-yard field goal that put the Air Force ahead, 3-0, midway in the second period. Fullback John Gavin booted the field goal, which was a team record, with the aid of a 20-mile per hour wind.

After that, however, the big Miami line and the deft passing of Mira proved too much for the under-manned Falcons.

Miami scored a touchdown late in the second period to lead, 7-3, at halftime, and then added the two clinchers in the third period.

The big play was a six-yard pass to end Bob Werl for the touchdown on fourth down. It was Mira's eighth touchdown pass of the season. Mira, entering the game as the collegiate total passing yardage leader with 906 yards and second in completion percentage with 66 of 133, connected on 10 of 26 today for 144 yards.

Maroons Shocked By Memphis State, 28-7

By VAN SAVELL

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Memphis State scored its first victory against Southeastern Conference competition Saturday, defeating Mississippi State 28-7 with a bruising ground attack.

Quarterback Russell Vollmer returned the second-half kickoff 73 yards and scored three plays later from the one to put Memphis State ahead 14-7. However, it was the tremendous running of 200-pound fullback Dave Casinelli that carried the brunt of the Memphis State attack.

Casinelli picked up 154 yards in 32 carries.

The victory was Memphis State's fifth, four in a row after a 20-7 loss to Mississippi. It was Mississippi State's second loss, after three successive road victories.

Mississippi State scored less than three minutes after the game started on a 16-yard run by halfback Ode Burrell, with Sammy Dantone converting. The score was set up on a 42-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Charlie Furlow to end Johnny Baker.

Mississippi State moved into Memphis State territory only two other times.

Memphis State's first touchdown came late in the second period with halfback Charles Killett plunging over from the two. Casinelli picked up 21 yards in the 59-yard drive. Vollmer kicked the first of four successful conversions.

Casinelli scored in the third period on a 5-yard run up the middle after Memphis State guard John Bramlett intercepted a Mississippi State pass and ran it 35 yards to the Maroon 15. Casinelli carried to the five before he scored.

Vollmer scored again with less than a minute remaining on a 4-yard dash up the middle, after a short Mississippi State punt carried only to the 35. Casinelli and halfback Frank Ingram moved the ball to the four, with the aid of a 15-yard penalty.

Two other times Memphis State threatened, but a field goal attempt in the second period by Mississippi State and Gene Gibbs, and another field goal attempt waps wide.

Memphis State held the Maroons to 47 yards rushing and only 54 yards passing. A hard-charging Memphis State line held Furlow, the Maroons' ace passer to one completion in four attempts for 42 yards.

Jubilant Memphis State fans raced to the east goal posts at Scott Field and attempted to tear it down, but were met by several hundred Mississippi State students.

A 15-minute brawl erupted, which was halted momentarily several times by university police.

Only when more than 10 Mississippi highway patrolmen went into the crowd did the fighting stop. There appeared to be no injuries and no arrests.

The Miami quarterback set up all three touchdowns. He ran for one and passed for another.

The only time the crowd of 32,787 got a chance to cheer was for a 55-yard field goal that put the Air Force ahead, 3-0, midway in the second period. Fullback John Gavin booted the field goal, which was a team record, with the aid of a 20-mile per hour wind.

After that, however, the big Miami line and the deft passing of Mira proved too much for the under-manned Falcons.

Miami scored a touchdown late in the second period to lead, 7-3, at halftime, and then added the two clinchers in the third period.

The big play was a six-yard pass to end Bob Werl for the touchdown on fourth down. It was Mira's eighth touchdown pass of the season. Mira, entering the game as the collegiate total passing yardage leader with 906 yards and second in completion percentage with 66 of 133, connected on 10 of 26 today for 144 yards.

STATE COLLEGE, Miss. (AP) — Memphis State scored its first victory against Southeastern Conference competition Saturday, defeating Mississippi State 28-7 with a bruising ground attack.

Quarterback Russell Vollmer returned the second-half kickoff 73 yards and scored three plays later from the one to put Memphis State ahead 14-7. However, it was the tremendous running of 200-pound fullback Dave Casinelli that carried the brunt of the Memphis State attack.

Casinelli picked up 154 yards in 32 carries.

The victory was Memphis State's fifth, four in a row after a 20-7 loss to Mississippi. It was Mississippi State's second loss, after three successive road victories.

Mississippi State scored less than three minutes after the game started on a 16-yard run by halfback Ode Burrell, with Sammy Dantone converting. The score was set up on a 42-yard pass-and-run play from quarterback Charlie Furlow to end Johnny Baker.

Mississippi State moved into Memphis State territory only two other times.

Memphis State's first touchdown came late in the second period with halfback Charles Killett plunging over from the two. Casinelli picked up 21 yards in the 59-yard drive. Vollmer kicked the first of four successful conversions.

Casinelli scored in the third period on a 5-yard run up the middle after Memphis State guard John Bramlett intercepted a Mississippi State pass and ran it 39 yards to the Maroon 15. Casinelli carried to the five before he scored.

Vollmer scored again with less than a minute remaining on a 4-yard dash up the middle, after a short Mississippi State punt carried only to the 35. Casinelli and halfback Frank Ingram moved the ball to the four, with the aid of a 15-yard penalty.

Two other times Memphis State threatened, but a field goal attempt in the second period by Mississippi State end Gene Gibbs, and another field goal attempt waps wide.

Memphis State held the Maroons to 47 yards rushing and only 54 yards passing. A hard-charging Memphis State line held Furlow, the Maroons' ace passer to one completion in four attempts for 42 yards.

Jubilant Memphis State fans raced to the east goal posts at Scott Field and attempted to tear it down, but were met by several hundred Mississippi State students.

A 15-minute brawl erupted, which was halted momentarily several times by university police.

Buckeyes Get Victory Over Wisconsin, 14-7

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's twice-beaten Bucks battled their way back into the Big Ten title race Saturday knocking Wisconsin's Badgers out of the undefeated class by a 14-7 score before a crowd of 82,540 in a regionally televised game.

The loss dropped Wisconsin to a 4-1 record, moved Ohio up to 3-2 and maintained the Buckeye record of never having lost to the Badgers here since 1918.

It was a rugged struggle all the way, with surprise maneuvers paying off until Ohio ground out the victory with a fourth-quarter 57-yard 8-play drive to clinch it.

Ohio scored in the first period on quarterback Joe Sparma's 21-yard pass to Paul Warfield, ending a 48-yard drive in 8 plays.

Wisconsin tied it in the second session when quarterback Ron Vanderkelen passed 47 yards to sophomore halfback Ron Smith on a "no huddle" play. The surprise play came just after Jim Schenk had intercepted a Sparma pass and fullback Merritt Norvell had plunged for four yards.

The Badgers came out of the running play into their offensive positions while Ohio was still calling defensive signals in a semi-huddle. Smith cut for the right sideline and Vanderkelen found him with the pass about the 40-yard line.

A personal foul played a big part in Ohio's winning touchdown drive. Dave Francis had carried three straight times for about 15 yards, and as the big fullback banged into the center of the line he was the victim of an apparent slugging.

The foul moved the ball to the Badger 29, from where fullbacks Dave Katterhenrich and Bob Butts alternated to reach the one in five plays. From there quarterback John Mummey sneaked for the winning counter.

WILL AMERICA BE

OUT OF LUCK?

Industry and hard work brought America luck and leadership in business and trade, in science and living standards and in moral influence. How long can this last?

The future will tell. Leadership calls for leaders, and America will fall behind unless its colleges develop enough men and women with the special training today's problems demand.

But our colleges are in a squeeze. Some face shortages and in 10 years applicants will double. We need more and better laboratories, new facilities and, above all, many qualified teachers.

WILL AMERICA BE

OUT OF LUCK?

Industry and hard work brought America luck and leadership in business and trade, in science and living standards and in moral influence. How long can this last?

The future will tell. Leadership calls for leaders, and America will fall behind unless its colleges develop enough men and women with the special training today's problems demand.

But our colleges are in a squeeze. Some face shortages and in 10 years applicants will double. We need more and better laboratories, new facilities and, above all, many qualified teachers.

By, for, and about WOMEN

Monroe Morning World
October 28, 1962

An Autumn bride is Mrs. William Warren Lassiter, who before her marriage Friday, October 19 was Miss Judy Aulds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shepard Aulds of West Monroe. Mr. Lassiter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albin Perry Lassiter Sr., of Monroe. The Rev. Owen Kersh performed the double ring ceremony at 4 p.m. in the pastor's study of the First Baptist Church of El Dorado.

Grinning jack 'o lanterns will greet many young witches and goblins when they make their annual trick or treat rounds on Halloween, Wednesday night, October 31. To the delight of her daughters, Kathy, left and Karen, Mrs. Joe Ledoux has carved a jack o' lantern from a huge pumpkin which will be on display for callers at the Ledoux home, 19 Kathy Lane.

Signs of Autumn

No matter what the calendar says, Fall clothes just aren't any fun until the thermometer agrees. The weather this week has been such as has encouraged Milady to bring forth the new wools she's been fidgeting to wear.

Last Friday night Bayou DeSiard country club was scene of the Bigtimers Dance club's Fall Formal. This is an annual affair foreshadowing the coming party season, and we always see a number of winter dancing dresses. We saw Cody Rosamund in chiffon, pale green bodice, and floating skirt vertically striped in varying shades of green . . . Mois Penn in blue and silver brocade . . . and VELMA WILLEY in royal blue lace . . . Basic black received a new look in JEAN DICKENHORST's dress with bodice of cut black velvet appliqued on net and black chiffon skirt . . . a number of floor - length gowns, always a lady's most becoming attire, were seen at Bigtimers. Particularly outstanding were CHRIS COLLINS in a black crepe sheath with black lace overblouse . . . and CHARLENE SIMONTON, who chose white faille with an all-over print of roses in natural shades.

Shades of beige - to - brown promise to be popular this year, as witness HELEN CANNON's brown chiffon, halter-topped and full - skirted . . . and REGINA HAMMONDS' champagne beige chiffon . . . Dyed - to - match lace was appliqued on the bodice of JUDY WORTHEN's peau de soie, the color of rich cream . . . DARLENE CROSSLAND chose pale beige chiffon, satin hemmed . . . and BARBARA EASTERLING was wearing brown chiffon with brown lace overblouse.

Fall hats were center of interest at Thursday night's meeting of Tupawek chapter, American Business Women's association, at Penn Hotel. Speaker of the evening was LENA WALLACE, who teaches hat making. A number of Lena's designs were shown by models MARLENE BROWNING, RUBY ANDREWS and WILMA RAINWATER. In her talk, Lena stated that soft hats are good this year, with the flexible, packable hat getting fashion's stamp of approval. The speaker was wearing a black velvet chapeau, caught with rhinestone clasp, which could be draped in a number of different ways.

One appealing little hat was a cloche completely covered with red velveteen petals, each tipped with a pearl. A honey bee held the veiling . . . A turban hat and scarf to match were fashioned from a Fall plaid in shades of American beauty red, fuchia, and green . . . Bands of rose velvet trimmed a star turban of sculptured green and rose velvet . . . Lena used red Austrian fur with black velvet binding to style a tall toque . . . Deep green autumn veiling swathed a tall crown cloche.

Several hats, planned with holiday parties in mind, were styled of rich fabrics. A side bow of green velvet trimmed a gold brocade thimble - shaped chapeau . . . Another thimble was made of draped blue satin, cuffed with two folds of the material . . . Petals of pale aqua organza completely covered a cloche swirled with white veiling . . . Custom made white satin roses nestled in the crown of a deep pillbox of white maribou . . . Closing the show, BENNIE ANDREWS read a poem which we have selected for our poem of the week. (See below.)

DORIS KELLER, who recently moved into a new home at 218 Country Club Drive, was welcomed with a party given by ALICE BRANCH last Wednesday. All the ladies "on the island" were invited for this occasion. Doris wore a black silk shirtwaist with a corsage of white split carnations. Alice chose black silk with satin trim.

Red roses arranged in cut glass bowls filled the living room of the Branch home. In the dining room were yellow chrysanthemums, used with magnolia foliage, with an antique chocolate set on the buffet.

A white cutwork cloth overlaid the dining table, which was centered with a pyramid of autumn fruit, yellow and lime Fuji mums. At each side were yellow tapers in silver holders. Those pouring during the afternoon were DOT ROREX, BERNICE WOODS, FRANCES ALBRIGHT, BETTY MOORE, YVONNE ANDERSON, BETTY FARR, MARGARET COX, DES ATKINSON and BESS BURNS.

Party sandwiches, apricot balls, salted nuts, and other confections were served. Those who assisted were DOROTHY ANDREWS, LIB MILLER, BETTY JAGODITSH, and MARIE ANTIS. More than one hundred guests called during the appointed hours.

Visitors here this week in the home of PEGGY and JIM GREENBAUM are his father and mother, DR. and MRS. HAROLD GREENBAUM of Cleveland, Ohio; and uncle and aunt, MR. and MRS. SAM DINKELSPEIL of Louisville, Kentucky. Last Saturday night Peggy and Jim honored their guests with a party at home. Fall foliage and yellow chrysanthemums were used in floral arrangements on patio and in the dining room. A real Louisiana seafood dinner, highlighted by boiled shrimp, oysters, and crabmeat, was served to twenty-two guests.

Home again after a delightful "lady trip" to Dallas are JEAN GIFFEN, LUCILLE CARROLL, MARY ALICE HUSTED, MAE MICKEL, and JIBBY FOX. In "Big D", they met JOANN SEISS, former Monroyan now living in Houston. The group went over Sunday, and returned Wednesday after a round of big city shopping and eating out.

An overnight guest in town this week was JEAN TURNER of Jackson, Mississippi, who visited her sister, BETTY MABRAY, and family. Jean stopped over en route to El Dorado, Arkansas, and a visit with her mother there. Betty took advantage of the opportunity to call a few friends to meet Jean Thursday morning and visit over coffee. The honoree wore an eye - catching ensemble consisting of a red shirtwaist dress worn with a white sweater embroidered with strawberries. Her earrings were strawberries, too. Fall fruit and flowers in a silver bowl centered the table where Betty served coffee with crispy oven-fried crackers wrapped with bacon; cucumber sandwiches; and tiny sweets.

Leaving this week for a West Coast vacation were the LEON SUGARS, JERRY SUGARS, and FRED KINGS. They plan to be away about three weeks, with stops in Las Vegas, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pebble Beach.

A patio party last Thursday afternoon was the compliment of VIRGINIA HARGROVE and ROSEMARY BRISBIN to popular newcomer JEANNETTE AYCOCK. Specimen red dahlias decorated the living room of the Brisbin residence for the affair. Guests served themselves in the dining room before proceeding out onto the patio to sit and visit on a perfect fall afternoon. The goodies included chicken salad sandwiches, cheese - date - nut sandwiches, chocolate and butterscotch squares and almond sugar cookies. About twenty - five attended.

O World, I cannot hold thee close enough!
Thy winds, thy wide grey skies!
Thy mists, that roll and rise.
Thy woods, this Autumn day,
That ache and sag
And all but cry with color!
That gaunt crag, to crush
To lift the lean of the black bluff!
World, world, I cannot get thee close enough.
Long have I known a glory in it all,
But never knew I this.
But never knew I this — Here such a passion is, as stretcheth me apart . . .
Lord, I do fear.
Let fall no burning leaf.
Prithee, let no bird call.

Opulent Fabrics Glorify Simple Silhouettes

As always when silhouettes are simple, rich fabrics come into their own this season.

Shapely and figure skimming styles give particular importance to supple, lightweight wools crepes, matelasses and a variety of knits — natural man - made or blends.

Textured surfaces for wools and blends stand out in high relief. There are softly luxurious mohairs, boucles, nubs, bold but airy tweeds. Fur blends and white frosting in many woolen weaves add to the eye appeal.

In a more classic mood are meltons, cheviots and other men's wear finishes. Twills and ottomans mediate between the very textured and very satiny weaves.

Traditional favorites often have a new look. For instance, now there is textured cashmere — either a twill - like blend of cashmere and wool or a tweedlike all - cashmere. Still other cashmeres put on a new face in colorful plaids.

Sumptuous is the word for evening fabrics. Brocades, satins, silks shimmer on the afterdark scene, dressed up even more with beads, sequins and, especially metallics. Sheers such as crinkled chiffon join the trend to texture.

Velvets and velveteens take a fresh approach to fall in new prints, pale as well as vivid colors, stripes and sculptured patterns, iridescents.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Miss Greta Rosalind Waller, 1309 McGuire to James L. Jones Jr., 2306 Hawthorne, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald L. Norman of Haile. The bride-elect's father was the late Ben Ollie Waller of Eros. Parents of Mr. Jones are Mr. and Mrs. James L. Jones Sr., 3413 Gordon Avenue, Monroe.

Textured surfaces for wools and blends stand out in high relief. There are softly luxurious mohairs, boucles, nubs, bold but airy tweeds. Fur blends and white frosting in many woolen weaves add to the eye appeal.

In a more classic mood are meltons, cheviots and other men's wear finishes. Twills and ottomans mediate between the very textured and very satiny weaves.

Traditional favorites often have a new look. For instance, now there is textured cashmere — either a twill - like blend of cashmere and wool or a tweedlike all - cashmere. Still other cashmeres put on a new face in colorful plaids.

Sumptuous is the word for evening fabrics. Brocades, satins, silks shimmer on the afterdark scene, dressed up even more with beads, sequins and, especially metallics. Sheers such as crinkled chiffon join the trend to texture.

Velvets and velveteens take a fresh approach to fall in new prints, pale as well as vivid colors, stripes and sculptured patterns, iridescents.

5,000 Contests Available For Crown Aspirants

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Most every little American girl dreams of wearing a crown someday.

Thanks to the beauty-go-round—contests involving expenses of more than $1 million a year—hopefuls so disposed can try for one of an estimated 5,000 crowns when they reach young ladyhood.

At the top, there's the Miss American contest—and the estimated $85,000 in earnings and prizes earned in the year following coronation.

The Miss America pageant headquarters in Atlantic City spends $350,000 a year. Leonora Slaughter, executive director, says the non-profit pageant corporation has a paid staff of eight.

At the other extreme, there's the Miss Smiling Ankles contest. The national shoe institute gives the winner the title plus a chance to earn up to about $1,000 in $50 an hour photographic assignments during her reign. The pictures are keyed to shoe promotions.

In between are the college queen contests paying off in whistles and psyhic income; the Miss Sweet Potato competition, paying off in some fame. Ditto the Miss Lumber contest—and the hundreds of miss you-name-the product contest.

Most every product, it seems, must have a queen once it gets to the big time—or at least a queen to promote it.

In the stampede to cash in on the little girl's dream, the promoters have been outdone only by the French—who are ahead by a nose, you might say.

What best characterizes the commercial aspects of the king-sized contests are two turntables in the lobby of Atlantic City's convention hall during Miss America pageant time.

Each has a statue of Miss America, robed in velvet and crowned with jewels. The turntables turn and so does the image of young American womanhood—and washers, dryers, television sets, phonographs, refrigerators and other products Miss America promotes during her reign.

Miss Slaughter said the pageant gets most of its operating money by selling television rights to the Miss America show.

Phil Bottfield, executive director, said the contest budget isn't as large as the Miss America budget—$350,000. But it, too, has a paid staff of eight year 'round. The paid helpers number 20 at contest time.

The Miss Universe contest, mishaps and controversies in its history, now seems to have reached calm waters, Bottfield said.

The books aren't open, of course. Bottfield said this is because the organization operates as a profit-making corporation.

A soap company has 10 per cent interest. Other commercial sponsors have interest in the corporation.

What's certain: It's impossible for any big-time contest to operate without commercial sponsorship.

Most of the contests involving big budgets manage to break even just slightly — when they don't operate in the red, according to Bottfield.

"This isn't a money-making proposition," he said.

"Anyone who says it is just doesn't know the facts."

What the contests make, however, is some confusion in the minds of plain folks who can't tell one queen from another without a scorecard once you get past the big ones—Miss America, Miss Universe, Miss Rheingold.

The latter seems the most Democratic. The brewery's queen is selected by popular election and the turnout is second only to the national presidential elections.

Last year more than 20 million votes were cast in the Miss Rheingold election. The young lady with this title makes appearances in Puerto Rico and Europe, in addition to going about the United States.

In Europe, she is acclaimed as an outstanding example of American charm and femininity. The brewery's queen wins a contract worth $50,000.

Miss Universe last year earned about $30,000, including a gift of a $3,500 mink coat.

After the big three, the confusion starts—there's a Miss Teenage America contest, a Miss American Teenager, a Miss International Beauty Congress set up in long Beach, Calif., when the Miss Universe contest moved to Miami.

Also: The America's Junior Miss Pageant in Mobile, Ala.; the Mrs. America contest; the Miss Young America limited to girls four to eight years of age; the Grandma America — and so it goes?

Those wanting to get an early start on contesting can enter the Diaper Derby sponsored by a New Jersey amusement park. The judges score only on crawling.

Plastic Shoes Making Bid For Comeback

Plastic shoes, worn during World War II only because leather was not available, are making another bid for a comeback.

After two decades of experimentation, the synthetic materials now have more in their favor than a leather shortage. At present the synthetic is used in making shoes for boys aged 6 to 10.

Double Ring Vows Unite Area Couple

Miss Grace Elizabeth Durham, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Durham of Natchez, Miss., became the bride of Sheldon Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kirby Maxweil of Delhi, on Friday, October 12. Dr. Robert L. Hughes performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m. in the Immanuel Baptist Church at Natchez.

Baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums alternated with candelabra, entwined with fern and holding lighted white tapers formed a background for the ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Sidney Joseph, organist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Young Hammack. She wore a waltz length gown of white satin fashioned on princess lines with elbow length sleeves and scoop neckline. The midriff was overlaid with a wide insert of Chantilly lace forming a large flat bow in back. Her shoulder length veil of white nylon tulle was attached to a white satin headband, embellished with lace florets, edged with pearls. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls. She wore short white gloves and carried a cascade of white feathered chrysanthemums with pearlized velvet fern entwined with ivy.

Miss Roselinda Durham, who served as her sister's maid of honor, wore a dress of pale pink chiffon over matching taffeta, designed with sweetheart neckline and cap sleeves. Her headdress was a shoulder length veil held in place by a large flat bow, encrusted with seed pearls and completing her costume were pink satin shoes and short pink gloves. She carried a cascade of rose pink asters with pink satin ribbon entwined with ivy.

Alcus Maxwell attended his brother as best man and ushers were Alfred Maxwell, brother of the bridegroom and Sidney Joseph.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Durham chose a wool knit suit of coral trimmed in gray, with which she wore black accessories and corsage of white feathered chrysanthemums. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Maxwell, wore a dress of gray imported printed silk with black accessories and corsage of white mums.

Following a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Vidalia, where Mr. Maxwell is employed. The bride is a graduate of Natchez high school and is employed in Natchez. Mr. Maxwell graduated from Central high school in Delhi, and business school in Monroe.

'More Hat' Is Autumn Look

What's ahead for fall? The answer seems to be, hats as varied and individual as other autumn fashions, and hats that complement new silhouettes in dresses, coats and suits.

Millinery shapes for the season include the draped turban, the wrapped - up look, the side-slanted profile, the full-blown crown with rolling brim, the tailored suiter, the forward-tilting toque.

Several designers have fashioned hats to go with the clothes they create, pointing up the fact that fall styles, simple and shapely, seem to call for the finishing touch of a hat.

Over-all trend is toward more hat, more height, but on the theory that opposites attract, milliners have included a plentiful array of little hats — head-hugging profile caps, perky tams moving to back or side, advanced styles with visors or under-chin ties.

Height for hats is achieved variously — in towering turbans with a Far-Eastern look, big, rounded crowns and high-wrapped dome shapes, for example.

Along with the toque and the turban, there are many brimmed hats, too. The breton appears importantly, while hats with curving, mobile brims compliment the easy look of shifts and skimmers. Some smaller shapes are cuffed with fur, since, like all of fashion, hats give the nod to fur this fall.

There's the all-fur hat, a luxurious topping in mink, leopard and a whole animal-world of furs. For elegance-on-a-budget, synthetics cleverly copy many favorite furs. Still other hats wear fur as a trim.

"Wrapped-up" look is seen not only in turbans but in smaller draped styles that have their own attached scarves to cover the head and circle the neckline, ending in a tie.

With the abundance of draped shapes, supple fabrics become important. Both silks and wools are used, in prints and solids. Lush and plush, pretty and polished fabrics — beaver, velours, soleil — appear in brimmed and profile hats.

Beige to brown is a notable color range, but there are colorful hats a-plenty.

Dog Collars Complement High Hairdos

In Paris evening hairdos are soaring high, built up with pin-on towers of hair pieces. Necklaces climb with them, and the dog collar of Edwardian days is back.

The new dog collars, however, are far from the rigid five-strand designs of the originals. Flexibility is the motif, as in a wreath necklace of gold and rhinestones with a cascade of glitter at the center.

'More Hat' Is Autumn Look

What's ahead for fall? The answer seems to be, hats as varied and individual as other autumn fashions, and hats that complement new silhouettes in dresses, coats and suits.

Millinery shapes for the season include the draped turban, the wrapped - up look, the side-slanted profile, the full-blown crown with rolling brim, the tailored suiter, the forward-tilting toque.

Several designers have fashioned hats to go with the clothes they create, pointing up the fact that fall styles, simple and shapely, seem to call for the finishing touch of a hat.

Over-all trend is toward more hat, more height, but on the theory that opposites attract, milliners have included a plentiful array of little hats — head-hugging profile caps, perky tams moving to back or side, advanced styles with visors or under-chin ties.

Height for hats is achieved variously — in towering turbans with a Far-Eastern look, big, rounded crowns and high-wrapped dome shapes, for example.

Along with the toque and the turban, there are many brimmed hats, too. The breton appears importantly, while hats with curving, mobile brims compliment the easy look of shifts and skimmers. Some smaller shapes are cuffed with fur, since, like all of fashion, hats give the nod to fur this fall.

There's the all-fur hat, a luxurious topping in mink, leopard and a whole animal-world of furs. For elegance-on-a-budget, synthetics cleverly copy many favorite furs. Still other hats wear fur as a trim.

"Wrapped-up" look is seen not only in turbans but in smaller draped styles that have their own attached scarves to cover the head and circle the neckline, ending in a tie.

With the abundance of draped shapes, supple fabrics become important. Both silks and wools are used, in prints and solids. Lush and plush, pretty and polished fabrics — beaver, velours, soleil — appear in brimmed and profile hats.

Beige to brown is a notable color range, but there are colorful hats a-plenty.

Dog Collars Complement High Hairdos

In Paris evening hairdos are soaring high, built up with pin-on towers of hair pieces. Necklaces climb with them, and the dog collar of Edwardian days is back.

The new dog collars, however, are far from the rigid five-strand designs of the originals. Flexibility is the motif, as in a wreath necklace of gold and rhinestones with a cascade of glitter at the center.

Musical Coterie Performs

Mrs. F. V. Allison was hostess for the October 19 meeting of the Musical Coterie.

After a brief business meeting conducted by the president, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. H. H. Land continued the year's study of "Music in the Romantic Era," by Alfred Einstein.

In her annotations Mrs. Land discussed the great contrasts of style of the romantic composers which ranged from folk songs to the virtuosity of several performer - composers such as violinist, Paganini and the pianist, Liszt. Later a new field of music, "musicology," was born.

The simplicity, beauty and love of nature of Schubert was demonstrated by two of his songs, 'Der Lindenbaum" and "Heidenroslein" sung by Mrs. Elmer Marshall and Mrs. Estelle Sanders, respectively.

"In Stiller Nacht" sung by Miss Gertrude Sandrock, portrayed the deep emotion of Brahms while virtuosity in the service of poetic expression, abounded in the two works of Schumann, "Soaring" played by Mrs. Everett Zeagler and "Adagio and Allegro," a short work for cello, played by Mrs. Kedwick Martin.

Members present for the program and social hour were Mrs. F. V. Allison, Mrs. LeRoy Anspach, Miss Jonnie. Bankhead, Miss Emy - Lou Biedenharn, Mrs. James G. Campfire Colors Predominant In Fall Cottons

Cotton prints are always an important part of the school girl's wardrobe. This year, floral stripes top the list. The stripes are wider - an inch or more - with alternating floral designs.

Colors reflect the campfire, with considerable emphasis on warm sand tones brightened by the clearest, brightest reds, greens and blues in the dye pot. A popular combination is earth-and - coral, accented by a touch of black or sage green; another is a wet - sand tone with zinnia-bright red.

Musical Coterie Performs

Mrs. F. V. Allison was hostess for the October 19 meeting of the Musical Coterie.

After a brief business meeting conducted by the president, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. H. H. Land continued the year's study of "Music in the Romantic Era," by Alfred Einstein.

In her annotations Mrs. Land discussed the great contrasts of style of the romantic composers which ranged from folk songs to the virtuosity of several performer - composers such as violinist, Paganini and the pianist, Liszt. Later a new field of music, "musicology," was born.

The simplicity, beauty and love of nature of Schubert was demonstrated by two of his songs, 'Der Lindenbaum" and "Heidenroslein" sung by Mrs. Elmer Marshall and Mrs. Estelle Sanders, respectively.

"In Stiller Nacht" sung by Miss Gertrude Sandrock, portrayed the deep emotion of Brahms while virtuosity in the service of poetic expression, abounded in the two works of Schumann, "Soaring" played by Mrs. Everett Zeagler and "Adagio and Allegro," a short work for cello, played by Mrs. Kedwick Martin.

Members present for the program and social hour were Mrs. F. V. Allison, Mrs. LeRoy Anspach, Miss Jonnie Bankhead, Miss Emy - Lou Biedenharn, Mrs. James G. Caldwell, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie Jr., Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. Edward Hayward Jr., Mrs. Tex Kilpatrick, Mrs. H. H. Land, Mrs. Elmer Marshall, Mrs. Kedwick Martin, Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Estelle Sanders, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, Mrs. Jerry Thomas, Mrs. Briscoe Trousdale Jr., Mrs. Henry Whitfield and Mrs. Everett Zeagler.

On Friday, November 2 the Coterie will meet in the home of Miss Jonnie Bankhead at 3:30 p.m.

Campfire Colors Predominant In Fall Cottons

Hard Surface Recommended For Counters

Kitchen countertops take almost as much abuse in the home as do the floors. The constant shuffle of dishes, hot pans, knives and foods causes plenty of wear and tear, and scratches and scorches soon mar the surfacing.

A good solution is to surface the countertops with ceramic tile, which is both heatproof and scratchproof. The tough, baked clay body of the tile has such durability that it will last the life of the home with little upkeep

CURIOSITY KILLED THE PIG

TYRONE, Okla. (AP)—Thanks to a nosy pig, one and maybe two farmers are alive today.

Don Bevan and Bov Howell feed their livestock near each other every morning and while the animals eat they chat and usually lean on a metal auger which distributes pig feed.

As they talked recently a pig touched the auger and dropped dead. The machine had developed an electrical short.

MR. AND MRS. CLYDE W. ZEIGLER

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BEAMAN SAXON JR.

Miss Hammonds Weds Airman In West Monroe

An arch entwined with greenery flanked by branched candelabra holding lighted candles and a central basket of gladioli formed a background in Ridge Avenue Baptist Church for the October wedding of Miss Judith Ann Hammonds of West Monroe and Airman First Class Clyde W. Zeigler of Barksdale Air Force Base.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hammonds, 1105 Short St., West Monroe, and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Zeigler of Woodbury, New Jersey.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. A. T. Mitchell. Mrs. Fred Staples, organist, played appropriate nuptial music and accompanied Miss Judy Strozier, cousin of the bride, who sang.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of pale pink satin, with overlaid bodice of lace. Long sleeves tapered to points over her hands and the lace motif was repeated on the full length skirt and encircled the hem. She carried a cononial bouquet of pink and white roses.

Mrs. Marcia Ann Irving Lachney served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Angela Dotson and Miss Inez Grantham. They wore frocks of deeper pink acetate over taffeta, with matching pink shoes. Their headdresses were hats of pink net topped with bows and they carried colonial bouquets of pink blossoms.

Miss Diane Griffin, flower girl, was dressed identically to the other attendants with pink floral headband and carried a white satin and lace basket filled with pink petals.

James E. Cooper attended the bridegroom as best man and ushers were Louie M. Irving Jr., Lon D. Ball Jr. and Eanes Burns Jr.

Mrs. Hammonds, mother of the bride, wore a blue suit, white hat and gloves and gray shoes and bag. Her corsage was of pink carnations. The bridegrooms's mother, Mrs. Zeigler, wore a blue lace dress with matching hat and black accessories.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church annex.

The bride's table, covered with a lace cloth was centered with pink carnations in a gold container, flanked by pink candles. Pink carnations and greenery encircled the bowl of pink punch was encircled with pink carnations and greenery.

For a wedding trip to Woodbury, N. J. the bride changed into a gold suit with black accessories and a purple orchid corsage. They will be at home in Shreveport.

Color Appears Undercover

Undercover news is made with colors for new foundations.

Predominant are the brown tones, from chocolate to deep gold and blond; the blues, from medium to sapphire and bright aqua; the reds, with emphasis on corals and soft, vibrant pinks.

To these are added a number of autumn prints, paisleys and floral motifs.

Hard Surface Recommended For Counters

Kitchen countertops take almost as much abuse in the home as do the floors. The constant shuffle of dishes, hot pans, knives and foods causes plenty of wear and tear, and scratches and scorches soon mar the surfacing.

A good solution is to surface the countertops with ceramic tile, which is both heatproof and scratchproof. The tough, baked clay body of the tile has such durability that it will last the life of the home with little upkeep

Fall Hat Show Highlights Beta Sigma Phi Program

A fashion show of hats and coordinated jewelry for fall highlighted the program for Beta Pi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi when it met Thursday night in the home of Miss Gyl Rowell, 2603 S. Grand.

During the business session conducted by Mrs. Alvis Gossett, president, the name of Shirley Jenkins, 1315 Spencer, was announced as a transferee from Topeka, Kansas.

Mrs. E. H. Bailey, program chairman for the evening, introduced Mrs. Ruby Soureal and Mrs. Kitty Edmonds, from the millinery department at Sears, who staged the fashion showing, assisted by Mrs. Mary Jane Scallan.

Mrs. Soureal modeled the hats with narration given by Mrs. Edmonds. Furs and fur velours predominated in the hats shown with toques and cloche styles as favored shapes. The fur millinery included sable, mink and white rabbit.

At the close of the evening the hostess served refreshments, in keeping with the Halloween season. An arrangement of colorful autumn leaves with replicas of a Halloween pumpkin and ghost graced one end of the table, opposite the punch bowl.

Those attending were Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Gossett, Mrs. Myrtle Groves, Mrs. Bill J. Hammock, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Bobby Joe McBroom, Mrs. Norman Smith and Miss Rowell. The next meeting will be Thursday, November 1 in the home of Mrs. Hammock, 2310 Sauvelle, at 8 p.m.

CURIOSITY KILLED THE PIG

Don Bevan and Bov Howell feed their livestock near each other every morning and while the animals eat they chat and usually lean on a metal auger which distributes pig feed.

As they talked recently a pig touched the auger and dropped dead. The machine had developed an electrical short.

Eye Shadow Should Match Fall Chapeau

The newest thing this Fall is matching your eye shadow to the color of your hat. This is flattery in its most glamorous form, because hats focus attention on your face and eyes.

If you have a blue hat, for instance, a slight shading of the same blue on your eyelids makes your eyes seem larger and brighter. If your hat has a flirtatious brim you can use more eye make-up than usual to counteract the slight shadow of the brim.

Since the hat is a frame for your face, make sure your make-up base and lipstick are complemented by it; if you've bought a charming gold roller to go with your fall suit, get the most flattery our of its rich color by pointing it up with an orange-toned lipstick and golden-toned base and powder.

Remember the shape of your face and your height when you buy a new hat. Its silhouette should balance your figure properly and add symmetry to the shape of your face, for instance, height for a round face, width for a long face, back - dipped brim for a narrow chin.

SCHOOL POSTPONED

The Vidalia Garden Club has announced that the Flower Show school Number I, previously planned for this month, has been postponed. Plans for the future school will be announced.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"If my dress is not long - waisted enough in the back and I have to add to the bodice back, how can I make the side seams come out even?"

Mrs. A.B.

Dear Mrs. A.B.:

If you need extra length in back and not in front, the underarm darts in the bodice front should be changed. Make them about half the width (depending on the amount of length you are adding to the back). Change the dart so that the side seams will come out even.

HELP

The leaflet I referred to a few weeks ago about clever Christmas ideas was to have been made up from the suggestions YOU SENT TO ME. It's getting pretty late now, but if we hurry, we might still have time. We need any new ideas for unusual Xmas gifts, for little tots, teenagers, and big folks, that we can make in time for this year. If you drop everything to send them to me today, I'll drop everything to make up a leaflet and then I'll let you know when you can send for it.

PLEATS PROBLEM

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"The last dress I made for my daughter had large unpressed pleates in the skirt. After I had the pleats basted in place, I noticed that they were turning the opposite way from the picture on the pattern. I still don't know what I did wrong. Does it really matter which way they lie?"

Mrs. B.P.T.

Dear Mrs. B.P.T.:

I think the clue to your error was in the method of marking the unpressed pleats. I imagine you marked them on the wrong side of the fabric with chalk or a tracing wheel.

Since unpressed pleats must be folded into position from the RIGHT side of the fabric, you must tailor-tack your pattern marks because you can't use colored chalk on the right side of the fabric.

After the pleat marks have been tailor-tacked, keep your paper pattern right above your garment and you can see the direction each pleat is to be folded.

It often makes a great difference in the appearance of a garment and should be made the way the pattern was designed.

HOOK FASTENER

"If you have a slide fastener that won't stay closed, sew a small hook on the waistband directly above the metal tab on the fastener. The slot in the tab may now be caught on the hook so it won't slip open."

For this suggestion which will so easily soothe many frayed nerves, Mrs. Betty Bacik, Detroit, Mich., is being sent the weekly Tailor Trix pressing board award.

COAT UPDATED

Mrs. L. B. says: Alterations I made on an old, but expensive black coat turned out beautifully. The pockets, cuffs, and buttonholes were worn, so I covered those spots with a pretty black braid, also shortened the coat to the new length. Results: an up-to-date coat with very little effort and expense.

"Dear Eunice:

"If I can't get buttonhole-twist to match my skirts, can I use anything else for the hand-picking and putting the slide fastener in by hand?"

Mrs. H. E.

WAX THREAD

Dear Mrs. H.E.:

Yes, you can get a matching embroidery floss or use a double mercerized thread. If you are using two strands of thread, be sure you un-twist the thread with each stitch to avoid tangling and knotting. Running your thread through beeswax willl strengthen the thread and keep it from fraying and knotting.

YOUR SEWING GLOSSARY: Carton seams: These are seams used in coats and dress skirts made up of several gored sections. The seams are pressed together like trouser pleats. Don't over-fit the skirt or you will lose the effect.

Encyclopedia Okays Fashion

The idea that fashion is mere frivolity has been scotched by no less an authority than the Encylcopedia Americana. The 1962 editions contains a six - page illustrated article on fashion development.

"Fashion always reflects social conditions," says the reference work and then gets down to business with such fascinating tidbits as the fact that fashion once was for naughty ladies only.

Before the troupadours invented romantic love at the end of the eleventh century, respectable married woman stayed home, seldom dressed up lest they be accused of trying to attract men.

By the end of the fourteenth century, ladies of the French royal court were changing fashions so often that moralists tut - tutted, and laws were passed to regulate dress.

But fashion was confined to a small upper class until the Renaissance brought on a rising city middle class. The sumptary laws increased, trying to confine certain fabrics to the upper classes, and to ban such things as exaggerated shoes, all to no avail.

America's Top Designers Create New Look In Wool

The fashion forecast for fall — American woolens and worsteds functional, but more fashionable than ever in a startling new "American Look." Smart sophisticated with easy, fluid lines that make the most of the feminine figure, this new fall - winter 1962 trend is completely contemporary, frankly feminine and exceptionally elegant.

This extraordinary collection of cold - climate clothes was designed by America's top designers to meet many moods and satisfy the many faces of fashion.

Represented are Woolens and Worsteds of America's Designer Award Winners . . . Charles James, recipient of the "Golden Citation;" Pauline Trigere; David Kidd for Arthur Jablow; Lloyd Schecter; Mighty Mac; Stella Sloat and Oxford Boyswear and Girlswear, in addition to such designers as Vera Maxwell, Tina Leser, Martier Raymond, Dan Millstein, Dorian, Harmay and PRL All - Weather Coats.

How obviously fabric determines fashion was handsomely illustrated by two striking suits from the new house of Lloyd Schecter. The return of the "real" suit was undoubtedly brought about by the new smooth suit - weight chinchilla clothes that are a tailor's dream. Typical is Schecter's suit trimly tailored in camel colored American wool with well - defined shoulders and a lightly shaped double - breasted longer jacket. In sharp contrast is his brief, square - jacketed, slim - skirted three piece suit of bold black-and - white check, bright with a red lining and revers; matched by a high - necked wool jersey blouse.

The bold excitement of a huge, shaggy plaid suit is its seven-eighths coat which sweeps into swinging flares in shades of muted browns and enormous cuffs and collar of honey beige lynx. Stark black and white drama, is Dan Millstein's coat of "fluffed" white mohair with shiny black Hudson Seal cuffs and collar to emphasize its high - rising waist and sloping princess shape. These are just a few of the highlights that emphasize the high spirited new "American Look" cued by these dashing American woolens.

The fashion excitement this fall - winter of 1962 is definitely in the fabric - texture - color significance of the new American woolens for every member of the family. Clan plaids rate high in schoolwear news. A medal-worthy costume for a school-bound miss is a two piece outfit by Oxford Girlswear in an American woolen by Carleton. Very grown - up is the brass - buttoned, double - breasted jacket which stops straightly at hip top, over a box - pleated skirt.

Tweeds stage a big comeback in new weaves as well as classics. Mohair is fluffed, clustered, combed and brushed. The boldness of plaids and checks in giant or smaller patterns come in all manner of blends, some thick, others shaggy - faced and muted. Chinchilla is pared to suit-weight pliability.

The color story has great richness and depth. Well represented in this American woolen show were the new neutrals — off whites, beige, palm almond green, camel and grey. Brown, the largest single color family, ranged from deepest coffee to spice tones. Red stood out in flame, paprika and a very new rusty wine.

Leather Accents Luxury Look

Leather accessories are the new way to the luxury look of fashion. Whether real or simulated, leather is the new material for stoles, hoods, weskits, and capelets.

The most elegant of leather stoles is in pale jade suede, lined with gold satin, fringed at the edges. It muffles high, turns a two - piece overblouse costume into a couture creation.

Monks - hoods come in suede with wool jersey linings, extend into a scarf to wrap about the neck. The hood extends well in front of the face for real winter protection.

Weskits with knit turtle - neck fill-ins can be had in suede, capeskin and simulated leather. Capelets give a swagger air to plain classic suits. Leather cowboy scarves complete the casual open-air look of skirt and sweater costumes.

Topping them all is the leather hat, in berets, toques and cloches.

Represented are Woolens and Worsteds of America's Designer Award Winners . . . Charles James, recipient of the "Golden Citation;" Pauline Trigere; David Kidd for Arthur Jablow; Lloyd Schecter; Mighty Mac; Stella Sloat and Oxford Boyswear and Girlswear, in addition to such designers as Vera Maxwell, Tina Leser, Martier Raymond, Dan Millstein, Dorian, Harmay and PRL All - Weather Coats.

How obviously fabric determines fashion was handsomely illustrated by two striking suits from the new house of Lloyd Schecter. The return of the "real" suit was undoubtedly brought about by the new smooth suit - weight chinchilla clothes that are a tailor's dream. Typical is Schecter's suit trimly tailored in camel colored American wool with well - defined shoulders and a lightly shaped double - breasted longer jacket. In sharp contrast is his brief, square - jacketed, slim - skirted three piece suit of bold black-and - white check, bright with a red lining and revers; matched by a high - necked wool jersey blouse.

The bold excitement of a huge, shaggy plaid suit is its seven-eighths coat which sweeps into swinging flares in shades of muted browns and enormous cuffs and collar of honey beige lynx. Stark black and white drama, is Dan Millstein's coat of "fluffed" white mohair with shiny black Hudson Seal cuffs and collar to emphasize its high - rising waist and sloping princess shape. These are just a few of the highlights that emphasize the high spirited new "American Look" cued by these dashing American woolens.

The fashion excitement this fall - winter of 1962 is definitely in the fabric - texture - color significance of the new American woolens for every member of the family. Clan plaids rate high in schoolwear news. A medal-worthy costume for a school-bound miss is a two piece outfit by Oxford Girlswear in an American woolen by Carleton. Very grown - up is the brass - buttoned, double - breasted jacket which stops straightly at hip top, over a box - pleated skirt.

Tweeds stage a big comeback in new weaves as well as classics. Mohair is fluffed, clustered, combed and brushed. The boldness of plaids and checks in giant or smaller patterns come in all manner of blends, some thick, others shaggy - faced and muted. Chinchilla is pared to suit-weight pliability.

The color story has great richness and depth. Well represented in this American woolen show were the new neutrals — off whites, beige, palm almond green, camel and grey. Brown, the largest single color family, ranged from deepest coffee to spice tones. Red stood out in flame, paprika and a very new rusty wine.

Leather Accents Luxury Look

Leather accessories are the new way to the luxury look of fashion. Whether real or simulated, leather is the new material for stoles, hoods, weskits, and capelets.

The most elegant of leather stoles is in pale jade suede, lined with gold satin, fringed at the edges. It muffles high, turns a two - piece overblouse costume into a couture creation.

Monks - hoods come in suede with wool jersey linings, extend into a scarf to wrap about the neck. The hood extends well in front of the face for real winter protection.

Weskits with knit turtle - neck fill-ins can be had in suede, capeskin and simulated leather. Capelets give a swagger air to plain classic suits. Leather cowboy scarves complete the casual open-air look of skirt and sweater costumes.

Topping them all is the leather hat, in berets, toques and cloches.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Gate Club Featured

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

The Garden Gate Garden Club of Winnsboro displayed a lot of talent and beauty in their arrangements for the T. V. and Garden Center show last Wednesday.

Their president, Mrs. Si Willing, gave greetings from the club and opened the program by saying that the show was a "must" with their members.

This, of course, was quite a compliment paid the Garden Center and T.V. station. We always like to hear that the girls enjoy putting on this program — and, I do believe that they all do when called on.

The displays prove that. Everytime a show comes to the Center we almost declare it is the prettiest one yet. The nice thing about this last show was that each arranger used entirely different materials and colors in her design. It just shows us what is available now to use for our arrangements. The arrangers for this show seemed to be the officers of the club — good working officers.

LINE MASS

The club's treasurer, Mrs. Cale Martin, created a line - mass design — the Hogarth curve. For her "line of beauty" she used barberry foliage. The container was a light lavender colored pitcher which had tall graceful lines.

Deep orchid dahlias (three of them) were placed within this line —the larger one in the center creating a good focal point. For filler she used light orchid colored bachelor buttons throughout the barberry line.

One dahlia was placed to the back of the design for depth. To create good balance a round black base was paced under the arrangement. This was an exquisite blend of colors and line in an arrangement that would be most suitable for the mantle by the large mirror on the console table to one side of the mirror.

ANOTHER DESIGN

Mrs. Vernon Baldwin, the club's secretary, made the next design a massed assymetrical triangle. The overall line was created by the branches of eucalyptus in a black compote container. Brilliant red zennias filled in this line as the main flower. Several were massed together in the front to create a good focal point. For background and depth she used aspidestra leaves to the back of the design. It was a very colorful combination in a long lasting design.

Mrs. Delton McCarty, parliamentarian for the club, made a modern design using yucca stalks for her vertical line in a soft green challis - type container.

This was placed on a round, black base to afford good balance. The focal area was created on each side of one large rosette of rose - red celosia which had been accented on each side by fig leaves which softened the bold roundness of the celosia form. This would be excellent on the hall table to greet guests into the home.

One of the club's past presidents Mrs. A. C. Kellebrew, made an oriental type arrangement using canna stalks with the buds and furled canna leaves to form the triangle design in a low, white, compote bowl. Three fushia colored dahlias were placed within the line, one larger one used in the lower center to form good focal balance. In the manner of the Japanese she covered her needle point holder with small white pebbles. This arrangement was modern in feeling and would be suitable for most of our modern homes.

DRIFTWOOD

The last design, one of outstanding distinction, was made by one of the club's newer members, Mrs. James Nugent. This was a dried arrangement featuring driftwood. The dark brown textured wood was used as a background on a dark brown irregular-shaped base. The line was made of dried corn tassells and dried wheat.

For filler she used interesting milkweed pods, woodroses, and chestnut burrs. The center of interest, or focal area was an eye catcher — three orange persimmons — the only fresh material in the design. A small feathered pheasant was used as an accessory to the right on the base. This would be just ideal for the Halloween party on the patio, or, made in advance for the Thanksgiving buffet.

Wednesday's guest will be Mrs. Marcus Mapp, a very talented flower arranger who will display Halloween arrangements and ideas. This will be an ideal program to fit the date — Halloween. So, be watching this bewitching program. A treat is in store for you.

EXTENSION NEWS

Plant Tulip Bulbs Now

By AUDREY IL DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want some tulips in the landscape, you had better get busy. The bulbs should be planted during November or early December.

For good results, bulbs must be stored before planting. Cold storage of 45 to 60 days at 35 degrees to 40 degrees has produced best results in experimental tests, according to Neil Odenwald, assistant extension service horticulture specialist. Neil also recommends planting depth of three to four inches for Louisiana conditions, especially in heavy or clay soils.

In very light soil with good drainage, deeper planting, about five or six inches may be satisfactory.

Prune diseased wood from roses, but not until February. Prepare new beds during November and December for planting in January and February. Beds should be well drained and high in organic matter and well fertilized.

Many interesting items can be found in the garden, the woods and along ditch banks. For fall bareness theme arrangements, collect seed pods of okra, mimosa and water plants. Other beautiful materials easily obtained are pine cones, dock, corn shucks, and tassels, autumn leaves and colorful fruits of the gourd and pumpkin family.

During the winter months to bring real life to the landscape, encourage the presence of birds. The song of birds and their movement through the bare limbs of trees creates interest in what might otherwise seem a still, uninteresting environment.

H. D. SCHEDULE

November 1, 9:30 a.m. Better Homemaker's meeting with Mrs. J. D. Logan; Nov. 2, 2 p.m., Woodlawn, with Mrs. C. A. Hollingsworth; Nov. 6, 9:30 a.m. Progressive, Mrs. L. A. L. Tippen and 1 p.m. Drew.

DINING AREA

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are remodeling or building a new home you need to know how much space you will need around furniture and equipment. Mrs. Bertha Bryson, our housing specialist, recommends that you plan at least 44 inches between the edge of your table and the wall to have enough room for a person to walk past when someone is seated at the table. You need 32 inches between the table edge and the wall to move a chair back to get up.

A dining area for eight people should be 10 feet, 8 inches by 13 feet, 6 inches, if you want serving space all around the table. If you are only going to serve from one side and one edge of the table, you can reduce the needed space to 12 feet, 10 inches, by 10 feet.

SOMETHING NEW

There's a new ironing board cover on the market which is said to be scorch free. The cover is made of teflor, which has been used in the non-stick cookware. "Teflon" is of the most heat resistant of all plastic materials.

The chicken feather recently won acclaim by the military. A research program conducted by the quartermaster corps has been successful in chemically modifying chicken feathers, making them ideal for pillow stuffing. The pillows are launderable, odor free, and maintain their fluffiness after prolonged use.

Many department stores are now featuring the Tan O Quil pillows which combine high quality with low cost.

A THOUGHT

UNITED OVER A HOT STOVE

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Brothers Bert and Robert Liscum lost track of each other after they attended their mother's funeral nine years ago in Charlottesville, Va.

Bert was in the Army, and Robert in the Air Force.

They now have been reunited. Bert has switched to the Air Force and both are cooks assigned to Davis - Monthan Air Force Base.

RE-ENACTED FLIGHT

BOMBAY, India (AP)—J. R. D. Tata, multimillionaire industrialist who is also chairman of the government-owned Air India International, flew solo from Karachi to Bombay—622 miles—in a tiny plane Monday. He was reenacting a similar flight by him 30 years ago when he piloted another plane carrying India's first scheduled airmail

Curtain Call

With Little Theatre membership running 20 per cent ahead of last year, "The Solid Gold Cadillac" established a new attendance record for a non - musical. Last minute additions to cast and crew were Janice Hattaway as the little old lady in the final scene, Julius Tafallo as the solid gold chauffeur, Marilynn Frantom on props and Paul Wank on lights.

A group from the El Dorado Little Theatre attended the Saturday night showing. Their production of "Guys and Dolls" on November 8, 9, and 10 ought to attract more than a few from Monroe. Anyone interested in making up a party for this event can get in touch with Richard Clark at FA 3-1235 or Bob Evans at FA 5-3200.

FOUND

Our lost and found department reports that someone left a pair of bifocals with white frames at the theatre; we also have sunglasses, earrings, handkerchiefs, odd gloves and a gray plastic raincoat which the owners can claim by calling at Strauss Playhouse.

At nearly every performance we had "no shows" for choice seats which remained empty while others had to take "standing room" chairs in back. Most people like our present practice of numbered seats, but this aspect is a disadvantage that can only be overcome if members will have the thoughtfulness to notify us when they cannot attend a performance for which they have a reservation. With even a little prior notice, we can often switch the seats to others. So please don't be a "no show" at future plays.

After last week's try-outs for Gigi, Richard is still looking for people to complete the cast and crew. Candidates are urged to come to Strauss Playhouse any week night at 7:30.

MAILING

Members will soon receive a mailing which will be of great interest to all who enjoy classic and foreign films. The eight pictures in the forthcoming Cinema 63 series, subject to possible substitution, are "Henry V," "Wild Strawberries," "Rififi," "The Cruel Sea," "I Know Where I'm Going," "Our Man In Havana," "Mr. Hulot's Holiday," and the Marlene Dietrich version of "The Blue Angel."

Cinema 63 will alternate between Tuesday and Saturday nights. One need not belong to Little Theatre to subscribe to the film series. Subscription is $5 for all eight shows, with the privilege of bringing guests to individual films at $1 each. Inquiries should be directed to Cinema 63 chairman Mrs. R. C. White Jr. at FA 2-2137 or to Box 868.

S. C. Strausser is responsible for the handsome Little Theatre sign at the corner of Lamy Lane and Louisville. Our obliging friends at Latham and Graham painted it for us. A detachable billboard enables us to announce current and coming attractions.

PLEASANT CONTACTS

The quest for old programs has brought pleasant contacts with many who were active workers in earlier years. Missing playbills have been supplied by Helen Fernandez Allen, Joy Marshall, Sylvester Breard, John Mullin, Yvonne and Kent Anderson, Frank Breese, Mrs. W. W. Kellogg and Mrs. Owen McCleary. Mrs. McCleary's welcome contribution was "The Dover Road," our 12th major production, in which Mrs. Kellogg, Owen McCleary and Frank Breese all appeared.

We now have all but 11 of our programs in hand, so today we make a special appeal for "Ice Bound," and "Town About Man." The former was the second full-length play attempted, dating back to September 23, 1932. It would be a real stroke of fortune to come across this program. "Town About Man" has special significance as our one and only attempt at the world premiere of an original play of full length. Although we have to confess that it never got beyond its 1944 showing in Monroe, it makes a serious gap in our archives.

In 1933, however, we presented an original one - act play, "House Shoes and Party Slippers," written by our own Blanche Oliver.

Theater Series Presented As Store Service

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest department store service is a theater appreciation series aimed at high school students.

STORM HITS SIBERIA

MOSCOW (UPI)—Radio Moscow said that a heavy storm tore through the Siberian city of Khabarovsk Saturday, uprooting trees and blowing down cables and telephone poles.

The radio reported that ice 12 inches thick formed on trees and snapped telephone lines.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR

Something new in 35mm slide projection will soon be available for camera fans . . . sound ON the 35mm slide mount itself!

The result will be a 35mm slide show in which each slide is accompanied by its own commentary sound effect—the actual voice of the subject or appropriate sound or music. The sound may be recorded at the time the picture is taken or it can be added later. Each sound slide may also be changed at any time and recorded, just like a tape recorder, if the first results are not satisfactory.

HOOKUP

You are probably wondering, just as I did, what kind of hookup could be between a 35mm slide projector and a tape recorder.

The answer is: it's a complete consolidation, a two - in - one machine called the Revere Sound - Slide Projector. It differs externally from other 35mm projectors mainly in its super-size slide mounts and slide trays and the extra knobs (four sound) on its control panel.

Internally it has added a unique tape recording mechanism and sound system. Unique because the magnetic recording head moves in a circular path either to record or to play back sound.

The trick is accomplished on the large slide mounts, each measuring 3¼ inches square with a 1⅜ - inch - square window in its center. Normal 35mm transparencies slip into these windows for projecting. One side of the large slide mount is coated with a film of magnetic oxide, the same material which coats recording tape.

To put sound on a slide mount, it is put into position in the projector with the sound system turned on and a microphone plugged in. When the "Record" button is pushed, the sound head moves in its circular path on the mount and leaves a 20 - second sound recording there.

Just as on a tape recorder, this sound can be played back immediately or it can be erased and rerecorded.

METHOD

When an event is being photographed, the projector can be used at the same time to record on - the - scene sound on an empty slide mount. Later, after the film is processed, the 35mm transparency is inserted in the center window and the complete sound - on - slide combination is ready to see and hear.

This might be practical for home celebrations such as Junior's birthday party, family parties, the Thanksgiving Day dinner of Christmas activities. Most of the pictures, however, would have the commentary or sound added later after the transparencies are processed, projected and edited into a story telling sequence.

The Sound - Slide projector is equipped with a five - inch, f-3.5 anastigmat projection lens. Slide trays which hold 40 slide mounts each can be operated automatically or manually. The projector price (around $250) will include one slide tray and 10 magnetic slide mounts ready for recording. Additional magnetic slide mounts will cost 25 cents each.

Camera fans who convert to this new sound - slide system face a problem of how to show some of their old transparencies which may date back for yers. It would be expensive and a chore to record sound on all of them.

Revere's answer to this problem: less expensive (about 15 cents each) plain mounts without the magnetic oxide coating will be available.

This modern, clean - lined likeness, as well as the ornate 3 - cent Washington stamp issued in 1851, is based on the bust sculptured in 1785 by French artist Jean Houdon. Washington's friends said the bust was the the best likeness of the first President, although Gilbert Stuart's painting is better known.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Flowering Tree, Shrub

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In order to cut down on maintenance, gardeners everywhere have resorted to more and more flowering trees and shrubs and less space planted to smaller flowers which require detailed attention.

The number of newer flowering shrubs and trees which have been offerred to us in the past five or ten years is amazing as your columnist realized when he set about putting together the slides for a lecture on this subject at Georgia's Callaway Gardens.

Search through your nursery catalogues and the advertisements in gardening magazines, and you will find some treasures which you may never have heard of or seen.

MAPLES

One thing about which we can be happy is that the charming and delicate little Japanese maples in fiery reds, yellows, greens and combinations of all these colors have returned to the nurseries. These miniature trees were popular back in the beginning of this century, and now they have returned to fit themselves neatly into smaller landscapes.

New crabapples have been literally flowing into the catalogues. They fit perfectly into the picture with the fine Japanese cherries and color our landscapes just as the native redbud is fading. We are now able to buy more and more of the fine oriental magnolias, too. Especially suitable in this group of trees are the smaller shrub like varieties derived from the start magnolia. Waterlily was the first of these, but there more coming to us this year.

EARLY SNOWBALL

Those who liked Viburnum carlesii will like its child, V. Carlcephalum a great big early snowball in effect. It blooms with the last of the flowering quinces which, have been developed until we now have upright growing quinces for hedges, bush forms of all sizes down to really slow-growing almost miniature quinces.

The habit which quinces have of opening a few flowers all through the winter endears them to us. They are easy to train against a wall or trellis and very effective this way. In hedge form, quinces are very effective because of their prickles and twigginess.

Here in the South, a beautiful new phontinia has been developed and named for the nursery family Fraser. The new leaves and twigs on this phontinia are red like those of Photinia glabra. In the colder parts of the South P. glabra loses its leaves in winter. The new Fraser does not, but is evergreen like its parent, the big-leaved plant we grow all over the South (P. serrulata).

Two early blooming shrubs we can now buy are abeliophyllum, an early almost white forsythia in effect, and loropetalum, a white witch hazel in effect. No witch hazel ever flowered as profusely as loropetalum, however, for this is one of the longest flowering of all our shrubs.

It begins in late winter and is still going strong when middle spring arrives. In winter, it blooms, off and on, through its evergreen small foliage.

Two teams in the American League hit more home runs than Detroit last season in series with the Tigers. The Yankees hit 17 homers to the Tigers' 14 and the Angeles hit 18 to the Tigers' 17.

The displays prove that. Everytime a show comes to the Center we almost declare it is the prettiest one yet. The nice thing about this last show was that each arranger used entirely different materials and colors in her design. It just shows us what is available now to use for our arrangements. The arrangers for this show seemed to be the officers of the club — good working officers.

LINE MASS

The club's treasurer, Mrs. Cale Martin, created a line - mass design — the Hogarth curve. For her "line of beauty" she used barberry foliage. The container was a light lavender colored pitcher which had tall graceful lines.

Deep orchid dahlias (three of them) were placed within this line —the larger one in the center creating a good focal point. For filler she used light orchid colored bachelor buttons throughout the barberry line.

One dahlia was placed to the back of the design for depth. To create good balance a round black base was placed under the arrangement. This was an exquisite blend of colors and line in an arrangement that would be most suitable for the mantle by the large mirror on the console table to one side of the mirror.

ANOTHER DESIGN

Mrs. Vernon Baldwin, the club's secretary, made the next design a massed assymetrical triangle. The overall line was created by the branches of eucalyptus in a black compote container. Brilliant red zennias filled in this line as the main flower. Several were massed together in the front to create a good focal point. For background and depth she used aspidestra leaves to the back of the design. It was a very colorful combination in a long lasting design.

Mrs. Delton McCarty, parliamentarian for the club, made a modern design using yucca stalks for her vertical line in a soft green challis - type container.

This was placed on a round, black base to afford good balance. The focal area was created on each side of one large rosette of rose - red celosia which had been accented on each side by fig leaves which softened the bold roundness of the celosia form. This would be excellent on the hall table to greet guests into the home.

One of the club's past presidents Mrs. A. C. Kellebrew, made an oriental type arrangement using canna stalks for her line and furled canna leaves to form the triangle design in a low, white, compote bowl. Three fushia colored dahlias were placed within the line, one larger one used in the lower center to form good focal balance. In the manner of the Japanese she covered her needle point holder with small white pebbles. This arrangement was modern in feeling and would be suitable for most of our modern homes.

DRIFTWOOD

The last design, one of outstanding distinction, was made by one of the club's newer members, Mrs. James Nugent. This was a dried arrangement featuring driftwood. The dark brown textured wood was used as a background on a dark brown irregular-shaped base. The line was made of dried corn tassells and dried wheat.

For filler she used interesting milkweed pods, woodroses, and chestnut burrs. The center of interest, or focal area was an eye catcher — three orange persimmons — the only fresh material in the design. A small feathered pheasant was used as an accessory to the right on the base. This would be just ideal for the Halloween party on the patio, or, made in advance for the Thanksgiving buffet.

Wednesday's guest will be Mrs. Marcus Mapp, a very talented flower arranger who will display Halloween arrangements and ideas. This will be an ideal program to fit the date — Halloween. So, be watching this bewitching program. A treat is in store for you.

Plant Tulip Bulbs Now

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

If you, Mrs. Gardener, want some tulips in the landscape, you had better get busy. The bulbs should be planted during November or early December.

For good results, bulbs must be stored before planting. Cold storage of 45 to 60 days at 35 degrees to 40 degrees has produced best results in experimental tests, according to Neil Odenwald, assistant extension service horticulture specialist. Neil also recommends planting depth of three to four inches for Louisiana conditions, especially in heavy or clay soils.

In very light soil with good drainage, deeper planting, about five or six inches may be satisfactory.

Prune diseased wood from roses, but not until February. Prepare new beds during November and December for planting in January and February. Beds should be well drained and high in organic matter and well fertilized.

Many interesting items can be found in the garden, the woods and along ditch banks. For fall bareness theme arrangements, collect seed pods of okra, mimosa and water plants. Other beautiful materials easily obtained are pine cones, dock, corn shucks, and tassels, autumn leaves and colorful fruits of the gourd and pumpkin family.

During the winter months to bring real life to the landscape, encourage the presence of birds. The song of birds and their movement through the bare limbs of trees creates interest in what might otherwise seem a still, uninteresting environment.

H. D. SCHEDULE

November 1, 9:30 a.m. Better Homemaker's meeting with Mrs. J. D. Logan; Nov. 2, 2 p.m., Woodlawn, with Mrs. C. A. Hollingsworth; Nov. 6, 9:30 a.m. Progressive, Mrs. L. A. L. Tippen and 1 p.m. Drew.

DINING AREA

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are remodeling or building a new home you need to know how much space you will need around furniture and equipment. Mrs. Bertha Bryson, our housing specialist, recommends that you plan at least 44 inches between the edge of your table and the wall to have enough room for a person to walk past when someone is seated at the table. You need 32 inches between the table edge and the wall to move a chair back to get up.

A dining area for eight people should be 10 feet, 8 inches by 13 feet, 6 inches, if you want serving space all around the table. If you are only going to serve from one side and one edge of the table, you can reduce the needed space to 12 feet, 10 inches, by 10 feet.

SOMETHING NEW

There's a new ironing board cover on the market which is said to be scorch free. The cover is made of teflon, which has been used in the non-stick cookware. "Teflon" is the most heat resistant of all plastic materials.

The chicken feather recently won acclaim by the military. A research program conducted by the quartermaster corps has been successful in chemically modifying chicken feathers, making them ideal for pillow stuffing. The pillows are launderable, odor free, and maintain their fluffiness after prolonged use.

Many department stores are now featuring the Tan O Quil pillows which contain high quality feathers with low cost.

A THOUGHT

UNITED OVER A HOT STOVE

Bert was in the Army, and Robert in the Air Force.

They now have been reunited. Bert has switched to the Air Force and both are cooks assigned to Davis - Monthan Air Force Base.

RE-ENACTED FLIGHT

BOMBAY, India (AP)—J. R. D. Tata, multimillionaire industrialist who is also chairman of the government-owned Air India International, flew solo from Karachi to Bombay—622 miles—in a tiny plane Monday. He is reenacting a similar flight by him 30 years ago when he piloted another plane carrying India's first scheduled airmail.

Curtain Call

With Little Theatre membership running 20 per cent ahead of last year, "The Solid Gold Cadillac" established a new attendance record for a non - musical. Last minute additions to cast and crew were Janice Hattaway as the little old lady in the final scene, Julius Tafallo as the solid gold chauffeur, Marilynn Frantom on props and Paul Wank on lights.

A group from the El Dorado Little Theatre attended the Saturday night showing. Their production of "Guys and Dolls" on November 8, 9, and 10 ought to attract more than a few from Monroe. Anyone interested in making up a party for this event can get in touch with Richard Clark at FA 3-1235 or Bob Evans at FA 5-3200.

FOUND

Our lost and found department reports that someone left a pair of bifocals with white frames at the theatre; we also have sunglasses, earrings, handkerchiefs, odd gloves and a gray plastic raincoat which the owners can claim by calling at Strauss Playhouse.

At nearly every performance we had "no shows" for choice seats which remained empty while others had to take "standing room" chairs in back. Most people like our present practice of numbered seats, but this aspect is a disadvantage that can only be overcome if members will have the thoughtfulness to notify us when they cannot attend a performance for which they have a reservation. With even a little prior notice, we can often switch the seats to others. So please don't be a "no show" at future plays.

After last week's try-outs for Gigi, Richard is still looking for people to complete the cast and crew. Candidates are urged to come to Strauss Playhouse any week night at 7:30.

MAILING

Members will soon receive a mailing which will be of great interest to all who enjoy classic and foreign films. The films for presentation in the forthcoming Cinema 63 series, subject to possible substitution, are "Henry V," "Wild Strawberries," "Rififi," "The Cruel Sea," "I Know Where I'm Going," "Our Man In Havana," "Mr. Hulot's Holiday," and the Marlene Dietrich version of "The Blue Angel."

Cinema 63 will alternate between Tuesday and Saturday nights. One need not belong to Little Theatre to subscribe to the film series. Subscription is $5 for all eight shows, with the privilege of bringing guests to individual films at $1 each. Inquiries should be directed to Cinema 63 chairman Mrs. R. C. White Jr. at FA 2-2137 or to Box 868.

S. C. Strausser is responsible for the handsome Little Theatre sign at the corner of Lamy Lane and Louisville. Our obliging friends at Latham and Graham painted it for us. A detachable billboard enables us to announce current and coming attractions.

PLEASANT CONTACTS

The quest for old programs has brought pleasant contacts with many who were active workers in earlier years. Missing playbills have been supplied by Helen Fernandez Allen, Joy Marshall, Sylvester Breard, John Mullin, Yvonne and Kent Anderson, Frank Breese, Mrs. W. W. Kellogg and Mrs. Owen McCleary. Mrs. McCleary's welcome contribution was "The Dover Road," our 12th major production, in which Mrs. Kellogg, Owen McCleary and Frank Breese all appeared.

We now have all but 11 of our programs in hand, so today we make a special appeal for "Ice Bound," and "Town About Man." The former was the second full-length play attempted, dating back to September 23, 1932. It would be a real stroke of fortune to come across this program. "Town About Man" has special significance as our one and only attempt at the world premiere of an original play of full length. Although we have to confess that it never got beyond its 1944 showing in Monroe, it makes a serious gap in our archives.

In 1933, however, we presented an original one - act play, "House Shoes and Party Slippers," written by our own Blanche Oliver.

Theater Series Presented As Store Service

NEW YORK (AP) — The latest department store service is theater appreciation series aimed at high school students.

STORM HITS SIBERIA

MOSCOW (UPI)—Radio Moscow said that a heavy storm tore through the Siberian city of Khabarovsk Saturday, uprooting trees and blowing down cables and telephone poles.

The radio reported that ice 12 inches thick formed on trees and snapped telephone lines.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR

Something new in 35mm slide projection will soon be available for camera fans . . . sound ON the 35mm slide mount itself!

The result will be a 35mm slide show in which each slide is accompanied by its own commentary sound effect—the actual voice of the subject or appropriate sound or music. The sound may be recorded at the time the picture is taken or it can be added later. Each sound slide may also be changed at any time and recorded, just like a tape recorder, if the first results are not satisfactory.

HOOKUP

You are probably wondering, just as I did, what kind of hookup could be between a 35mm slide projector and a tape recorder.

The answer is: it's a complete consolidation, a two - in - one machine called the Revere Sound - Slide Projector. It differs externally from other 35mm projectors mainly in its super-size slide mounts and slide trays and the extra knobs (four sound) on its control panel.

Internally it has added a unique tape recording mechanism and sound system. Unique because the magnetic recording head moves in a circular path either to record or to play back sound.

The trick is accomplished on the large slide mounts, each measuring 3¼ inches square with a 1⅝ - inch - square window in its center. Normal 35mm transparencies slip into these windows for projecting. One side of the large slide mount is coated with a film of magnetic oxide, the same material which coats recording tape.

To put sound on a slide mount, it is put into position in the projector with the sound system turned on and a microphone plugged in. When the "Record" button is pushed, the sound head moves in its circular path on the mount and leaves a 20 - second sound recording there.

Just as on a tape recorder, this sound can be played back immediately or it can be erased and rerecorded.

METHOD

When an event is being photographed, the projector can be used at the same time to record on - the - scene sound on an empty slide mount. Later, after the film is processed, the 35mm transparency is inserted in the center window and the complete sound - on - slide combination is ready to see and hear.

This might be practical for home celebrations such as Junior's birthday party, family parties, the Thanksgiving Day dinner of Christmas activities. Most of the pictures, however, would have the commentary or sound added later after the transparencies are processed, projected and edited into a story telling sequence.

The Sound - Slide projector is equipped with a five - inch, f-3.5 anastigmat projection lens. Slide trays which hold 40 slide mounts each can be operated automatically or manually. The projector price (around $250) will include one slide tray and 10 magnetic slide mounts ready for recording. Additional magnetic slide mounts will cost 25 cents each.

Camera fans who convert to this new sound - slide system face a problem of how to show some of their old transparencies which may date back for years. It would be expensive and a chore to record sound on all of them.

Revere's answer to this problem: less expensive (about 15 cents each) plain mounts without the magnetic oxide coating will be available.

A three - quarter view of George Washington will be on the new 5 - cent stamp, which will be issued early next year when first - class rates increase from 4 to 5 cents. This modern, clean - lined likeness, as well as the ornate 3 - cent Washington stamp issued in 1851, is based on the bust sculptured in 1785 by French artist Jean Houdon. Washington's friends said the bust was the best likeness of the first President, although Gilbert Stuart's painting is better known.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

In order to cut down on maintenance, gardeners everywhere have resorted to more and more flowering trees and shrubs and less space planted to smaller flowers which require detailed attention.

The number of newer flowering shrubs and trees which have been offerred to us in the past five or ten years is amazing as your columnist realized when he set about putting together the slides for a lecture on this subject at Georgia's Callaway Gardens.

Search through your nursery catalogues and the advertisements in gardening magazines, and you will find some treasures which you may never have heard of or seen.

MAPLES

One thing about which we can be happy is that the charming and delicate little Japanese maples in fiery reds, yellows, greens and combinations of all these colors have returned to the nurseries. These miniature trees were popular back in the beginning of this century, and now they have returned to fit themselves neatly into smaller landscapes.

New crabapples have been literally flowing into the catalogues. They fit perfectly into the picture with the fine Japanese cherries and color our landscapes just as the native redbud is fading. We are now able to buy more and more of the fine oriental magnolias, too. Especially suitable in this group of trees are the smaller shrub like varieties derived from the start magnolia. Waterlily was the first of these, but there more coming to us this year.

EARLY SNOWBALL

Those who liked Viburnum carlesii will like its child, V. Carlcephalum a great big early snowball in effect. It blooms with the last of the flowering quinces which, have been developed until we now have upright growing quinces for hedges, bush forms of all sizes down to really slow-growing almost miniature quinces.

The habit which quinces have of opening a few flowers all through the winter endears them to us. They are easy to train against a wall or trellis and very effective this way. In formal form, quinces are very effective because of their prickles and twigginess.

Here in the South, a beautiful new phontinia has been developed and named for the nursery family Fraser. The new leaves and twigs on this photinia are red like those of Photinia glabra. In the colder parts of the South P. glabra loses its leaves in winter. The new Fraser does not, but is evergreen like its parent, the big-leaved plant we grow all over the South (P. serrulata).

Two early blooming shrubs we can now buy are abeliophyllum, an early almost white forsythia in effect, and loropetalum, a white witch hazel in effect. No witch hazel ever flowered as profusely as loropetalum, however, for this is one of the longest flowering of all our shrubs.

It begins in late winter and is still going strong when middle spring arrives. In winter, it blooms, off and on, through its evergreen small foliage.

Two teams in the American League hit more home runs than Detroit last season in series with the Tigers. The Yankees hit 17 homers to the Tigers' 14 and the Angeles hit 18 to the Tigers' 17.

Cuban Crisis Provides Non-Partisan Atmosphere To Election Campaigns

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional election campaign is heading into its final 10 days in an atmosphere of enforced nonpartisanship not paralleled since the Korean War days of 1950.

With the knowledge that almost anything can happen in the Cuban crisis at any time, candidates who were quarreling over domestic issues a week ago now are spending most of their time telling the voters how solidly they stand behind President Kennedy.

The President's decision to quarantine offensive arms' shipments to Cuba and his assertion that further action will be justified if missile bases are not dismantled put all hands on notice that additional military action could come before Election Day.

The nonpartisan line, of course, was not a solid one. The Republican congressional campaign committee, for example, contended that the timing of Kennedy's actions suggested he was more concerned with votes on Nov. 6 than the threat of Cuban missiles.

Individual GOP candidates, however, did not appear to be going along with this guideline. While some of them grumbled about what they called tardiness in the president's action on Cuba, most of them made it clear they are supporting the President now that the decision has been made.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, for example, said it is too early to tell how the voters will react. He said developments before Election Day may affect their decision.

Deputy Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said that the do-something-in-Cuba issue which many Republican candidates — including Dirksen — were pounding "not only has been removed but liquidated." He added that any candidate who tries to make political capital out of the situation would find himself embarrassed.

Ordinarily a national crisis is supposed to strengthen the power that controls the White House. But it didn't happen that way in 1950. In the election that year, four months after President Harry S. Truman had ordered the Korean action, the Democrats lost 5 seats in the Senate and 27 in the House.

Any result this Nov. 6 which paralleled the outcome 12 years ago still would leave the Democrats with strong numerical control of both houses. There now are 261 House Democrats, 176 Republicans and 2 vacancies. The present count in the Senate is 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans.

But any Democratic losses comparable to those of 1950 would be certain to make it extremely difficult for Kennedy to get approval in the 88th Congress of such major legislative proposals as Social Security-financed health care for the aged.

The Democrats take solace in the belief that Kennedy is much more popular personally with the country now than Truman was when he acted in Korea in 1950.

The solution that Deputy Senate Republican Leader Thomas H. Kuchel of California came up with was to return home to talk exclusively about Cuba in his remaining campaign engagements.

Kuchel, being pressed for reelection, got a political windfall out of being summoned back to Washington with other congressional leaders for a briefing by the President on the Cuban situation.

On the other hand, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York helped Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California get an inner circle seat in Washington by arranging for a Pentagon and White House briefing of a governors conference committee on civil defense.

Brown's friends were happy about this break because his opponent, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, had been in the forefront of those who had chided Kennedy for not acting more firmly in dealing with Cuba.

Two Republican governors seeking another term who also stood to benefit by being summoned to the civil defense conference are John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Elmer L. Andersen of Minnesota.

The general opinion was that GOP candidates who had pushed the do-something line with regard to Cuba would benefit politically from developments. One of these is Sen. Homer Capehart, seeking re-election in Indiana. Capehart's earlier call for a blockade and a possible invasion brought down a presidential denunciation of him as an arm chair admiral who wanted to send other people's sons to war.

Many Democratic candidates who were being badgered on the Cuba issue took up the President's line—that their opponents were warmongers. Most of them now are encountering some difficulties in suddenly shifting their stand.

Cuban Crisis Provides Non-Partisan Atmosphere To Election Campaigns

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The congressional election campaign is heading into its final 10 days in an atmosphere of enforced nonpartisanship not paralleled since the Korean War days of 1950.

With the knowledge that almost anything can happen in the Cuban crisis at any time, candidates who were quarreling over domestic issues a week ago now are spending most of their time telling the voters how solidly they stand behind President Kennedy.

The President's decision to quarantine offensive arms shipments to Cuba and his assertion that further action will be justified if missile bases are not dismantled put all hands on notice that additional military action could come before Election Day.

The nonpartisan line, of course, was not a solid one. The Republican congressional campaign committee, for example, contended that the timing of Kennedy's actions suggested he was more concerned with votes on Nov. 6 than the threat of Cuban missiles.

Individual GOP candidates, however, did not appear to be going along with this guideline. While some of them grumbled about what they called tardiness in the president's action on Cuba, most of them made it clear they are supporting the President now that the decision has been made.

Politicians generally are wary of assessing the political impact of the President's moves.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, for example, said it is too early to tell how the voters will react. He said developments before Election Day may affect their decision.

Deputy Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota said that the do-something-in-Cuba issue which many Republican candidates — including Dirksen — were pounding "not only has been removed but liquidated." He added that any candidate who tries to make political capital out of the situation would find himself embarrassed.

Ordinarily a national crisis is supposed to strengthen the power that controls the White House. But it didn't happen that way in 1950. In the election that year, four months after President Harry S. Truman had ordered the Korean action, the Democrats lost 5 seats in the Senate and 27 in the House.

Coincidentally, the Democrats held 261 seats in the House in 1950, the number they now fill, not counting vacancies.

Any result this Nov. 6 which paralleled the outcome 12 years ago still would leave the Democrats with strong numerical control of both houses. There now are 261 House Democrats, 176 Republicans and 2 vacancies. The present count in the Senate is 64 Democrats and 36 Republicans.

But any Democratic losses comparable to those of 1950 would be certain to make it extremely difficult for Kennedy to get approval in the 88th Congress of such major legislative proposals as Social Security-financed health care for the aged.

The Democrats take solace in the belief that Kennedy is much more popular personally with the country now than Truman was when he acted in Korea in 1950.

When Kennedy halted his own barnstorming and banned further political activity by cabinet members he put a lid on partisan campaigning that few congressional candidates felt justified in prying off.

The solution that Deputy Senate Republican Leader Thomas H. Kuchel of California came up with was to return home to talk exclusively about Cuba in his remaining campaign engagements.

Kuchel, being pressed for reelection, got a political windfall out of being summoned back to Washington with other congressional leaders for a briefing by the President on the Cuban situation.

On the other hand, Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York helped Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California get an inner circle seat in Washington by arranging for a Pentagon and White House briefing of a governors conference committee on civil defense.

Brown's friends were happy about this break because his opponent, former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, had been in the forefront of those who had chided Kennedy for not acting more firmly in dealing with Cuba.

Two Republican governors seeking another term who also stood to benefit by being summoned to the civil defense conference are John A. Volpe of Massachusetts and Elmer L. Andersen of Minnesota.

The general opinion was that GOP candidates who had pushed the do-something line with regard to Cuba would benefit politically from developments. One of these is Sen. Homer Capehart, seeking re-election in Indiana. Capehart's earlier call for a blockade and a possible invasion brought down a presidential denunciation of him as an arm chair admiral who wanted to send other people's sons to war.

Many Democratic candidates who were being badgered on the Cuba issue took up the President's line—that their opponents were warmongers. Most of them now are encountering some difficulties in suddenly shifting their stand.

RUNNING THE SCALES

AT PARAMOUNT

Film, Book Classic Program Planned

The World Film and Book program, nationally sponsored by Metro Goldwyn Mayer and Scholastic Magazines, will be presented in Monroe, Ted Hatfield, City Manager for Paramount Gulf Theatres, Inc., has announced.

The program is intended to make it possible for classroom teachers to give depth and greater pleasure to the reading of literary masterpieces through this national "read the classic - see the film" program. The program, endorsed by the National Advisory Committee of Educators, will provide a precedent setting opportunity to combine the resources and benefits of eight classical masterpieces throughout this school year.

SPECIAL MEETING

A special meeting of English, literature, librarians, principals, and other interested teachers of the parish, city, and parochial school systems was held recently to set the time and presentation of the films.

The complete program will include:

Thursday, November 1 — "Little Women," In Color, Louisa May Alcott's rollicking romance of a very famous New England family of young girls. (Elizabeth Taylor, June Allyson, Peter Lawford)

Others coming in the future will be "David Copperfield," "Pride and Prejudice," "Captains Courageous," "Julius Ceasar," "Kim," "The Good Earth," and "A Tale of Two Cities."

NEW YORK (AP) — Play titles have a way of running in cycles, and this theatrical season appears to be in for a series of murmurs.

Curtain Going Up For Tech Series

By JOHN CALE

The season's curtain goes up for the Louisiana Tech concert series Tuesday and Wednesday of this week with two performances by the Romeros Family, Spanish guitarists.

The father - and - three - sons combination will feature flamenco and Spanish folk numbers also classical selections. Monroyans and Northeast students got a taste of serious guitar playing when Charlie Byrd appeared here with the Billy Butterfield jazz group Thursday a week ago. After years of near - isolation, the instrument is once again gaining favor as a medium for virtuoso playing. The more popular use of the instrument as a chord - maker for western, hillbilly or Elvis - type vocals doesn't get anywhere near to its full value. So we're looking forward to whatever is in store from Romero and Sons.

CAMPAIGN

The reserve seating chart is already open for those persons wishing to renew membership in the Northeast Concerts Association, according to an announcement from Dean Harry Lemert's office. A formal membership campaign is expected to open the first week in November. The initial booking is the musical comedy, "Carnival."

The showing of the Royal Ballet color film at the Paramount on Thursday brought to three the number of opera house films shown at the Paramount this fall. The fourth and final number on the series will be "The Barber of Seville," also in color, slated for November 8.

CONVENTION

The annual state gospel singing convention for the Monroe area will get underway next Saturday evening and continue through Sunday, November 4. Garland May, spark plug for such song festivals here, said the West Monroe High School auditorium will serve as convention headquarters and that several well - known gospel ensembles will appear during the course of the two - day affair.

Since the gospel singing movement sprang from this part of the planet earth, grew naturally without federal aid or even any encouragement from accredited music schools or conservatories, it bears the distinction of being one of our natural resources.

The roots of this movement go back to back to East Texas and a family named Stamps. It was about 50 years ago that W. O. Stamps settled in Upshur County in the Lone Star State, set up a sawmill and five - acre farm. The location of the community was several miles from the nearest school, so Stamps built a combination church and school for neighboring farmers and workers in his mill.

R. M. Morgan, hired as a singing teacher for the community, is said to have planted the energetic style of group singing in the area, and the six Stamps boys were caught up in the spirit.

Two of the youngsters, Virgil O. and Frank Stamps — aged 15 and 11 at the time — decided to make gospel music their profession. This must have been somewhere around 1915.

By 1924, the young men had attended music schools, taught gospel singing in Texas and had organized quartets of their own. Virgil worked mostly in Texas, while Frank went into the area around Chattanooga, Tennessee. Both taught schools and established music printing companies.

FAMOUS FIRST

Even if you're an outsider standing some distance from gospel currents, you have heard — or heard of — the song in that idiom, "Give the World a Smile." Small wonder. That's the first gospel quartet selection ever recorded by a major recording company. Frank Stamps' quartet contracted with the Victor Talking Machine Company to make the disc about 1926. With "Love Leads the Way" on the reverse side, the record sold nearly a million copies.

Recordings and radio popularized the idiom, and by 1940, gospel - singing was a nationwide institution. That was the year Virgil Stamps died. Frank is still living and has planned to visit the convention here next weekend.

Music as an art form may feel itself limited in the gospel manner, which stands apart from the universal aspirations of today's serious music. Gospel songs are based on white men's activities in the clean air of the rural South and any connection with religion is a rugged Protestantism.

BRIGITTE BARDOT, in her first picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, plays a highly emotional role in "A Very Private Affair," coming next Sunday to the Jim Theatre.

Broadway Play Being Made Into Film Production

Burton was given the choice of either that role or the other principal part, England's Henry II. The production is to be directed by Peter Glenville, who handled the stage presentations in both London and New York. In its White Way presentation, Sir Laurence Olivier appeared first as the martyred Becket, later portrayed the king.

GREEN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— The Jefferson County courthouse with its four-columned portico is an example of Greek revival architecture. It housed state government offices when the capital, Frankfort, was captured by Confederates in 1862.

SHIRLEY JONES and Gordon MacRae star in the Rodgers and Hammerstein award-winning production of "Oklahoma," which opens for a limited engagement today at the Paramount Theatre. The picture is in CinemaScope, color and Hi-Fi Stereo Sound. Also starring are Gene Nelson and Gloria Grahame.

AMUSEMENTS

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first recording by Vladimir Horowitz in three years concentrates much more on the purely artistic than on the purely technical side of piano playing. No one will be astonished by the clarity and firmness of his fast times, as they used to be when he was wowing concert hall audiences but everyone should be delighted with the depth and conviction of his interpretations (Columbia-KS6371.)

The record is of Chopin's B-flat minor sonata, the one with the funeral march, two of the Etudes - Tableaus of Rachmaninoff, Schumann's "Arabesque" and Horowitz's transcription of Liszt's 19th Hungarian Rhapsody. The playing is marked by disciplined virtuosity. There is no audible urge to produce a technical effect merely for the sake of dazzling. But he had an abundance of technical mastery, of course, when it was required.

Musically the Chopin sonata gains in unity from this concentration upon musical meanings. By holding back the thunder, he produces a whole fabric in which the tonal poetry is luminous in meaningfulness. He concentrates the requisite tensions in the Rachmaninoff, makes the Schumann a listening experience despite its familiarity and even gives musical persuasiveness to the Liszt.

For many years Horowitz was as firmly affiliated with RCA Victor as was his late father-in-law, Arturo Toscanini. This is his first record for Columbia, and why he switched (and why he left the concert platform) is not well understood even by his intimates. At any rate Columbia promises it is the first "in a series of historic recordings" and he is said to be preparing for a return to concertizing.

From the spectacular series of 10 concerts for charity which Artur Rubinstein gave in Carnegie Hall last season, RCA Victor has extracted pieces of four composers for a "highlights" record. They are pieces of Debussy, Szymanowski, Prokofieff and Villa-Lobos. The concerts were called "a miracle," and that they were. It is nice to have a recording commemorating the playing by one pianist, of 89 compositions from Bach to Stravinsky in a period of 40 days, and in each case a definitive playing (LSC2605).

For amateur players of the recorder, of which there now must be many tens of thousands, there is a record called "Hark, the Glad Sound" which is of the master player, Carl Dolmetsch, and his family playing 17th and 18th century recorder music (Angel-35-747.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Archie Bleyer set up his Cadence record company about a decade ago it was generally expected he would use the label as a showcase for his orchestra and that would not have been unethical.

Bleyer was at that time a well - known personality because he and his orchestra furnished the music for the Arthur Godfrey television show. But Archie moved behind the scenes, helping such artists as Andy Williams and Don Shirely establish themselves.

Now Archie has emerged from his self - effacement, A new record called "Moonlight Serenade" by Archie Bleyer and His Orchestra (Cadence CLP 3044) shows he has lost none of his touch.

The record begins with Glenn Miller themes, "Moonlight Serenade" on one side and "Sunrise Serenade," the latter composed by Frankie Carle, on the other side. The arrangements are new and imaginative.

In between are excellent orchestrations of such good music as "April in Portugal," "Melody of Love" and "Mack the Knife."

Selected Singles — "Makin' Up" by Ike Clanton (Mercury 72035), "A True, True Love" by Bobby Darin (Capitol 4837, "Hey Little Star" by Roger Miller (RCA Victor 47-8091), "Never Give Away Your Heart" by Carol Hall (Columbia 4-42580).

For Bookworms — "Dorothy Parker Stories Read by Shirley Booth (Caedmon TC-1136). Miss Booth's reading of "Lady With a Lamp," "The Waltz," "Cousin Larry" and "A Telephone Call" are worthy of a Grammy, the recording industry's Oscar.

For Jazz Fans — "Dizzy, Rollins & Stitt" (Verve V-8477). Gillespie and the two Sonnys are given more than enough room to state their independence. Only four numbers are involved on the two sides, with "The Eternal Triangle" running 14 minutes and eight seconds and "After Hours" lasting 12 minutes and 17 seconds. A real jazz gem.

LP's of the Week — Mono: "The Sammy Davis Jr. All-Star Spectacular" (Reprise R6033). Even those who bitterly criticize Davis cannot deny his talent as an imitator which is brought out with perfection in this fast-moving album. Stereo: "Rendezvous in Paris" by Michel Le Grand (Philips PHS 600-045). Easy-going French tunes, most of which are familiar, such as "C'Est Si Bon," "Petite Fleur" and "Melodie d'Amour."

Curtain Going Up For Tech Series

By JOHN CALE

The season's curtain goes up for the Louisiana Tech concert series Tuesday and Wednesday of this week with two performances by the Romeros Family, Spanish guitarists.

The father - and - three - sons combination will feature flamenco and Spanish folk numbers also classical selections. Monroyans and Northeast students got a taste of serious guitar playing when Charlie Byrd appeared here with the Billy Butterfield jazz group Thursday a week ago. After years of near - isolation, the instrument is once again gaining favor as a medium for virtuoso playing. The more popular use of the instrument as a chord - maker for western, hillbilly or Elvis - type vocals doesn't get anywhere near to its full value. So we're looking forward to whatever is in store from Romero and Sons.

CAMPAIGN

The reserve seating chart is already open for those persons wishing to renew membership in the Northeast Concerts Association, according to an announcement from Dean Harry Lemert's office. A formal membership campaign is expected to open the first week in November. The initial booking is the musical comedy, "Carnival."

The showing of the Royal Ballet color film at the Paramount on Thursday brought to three the number of opera house films shown at the Paramount this fall. The fourth and final number on the series will be "The Barber of Seville," also in color, slated for November 8.

CONVENTION

The annual state gospel singing convention for the Monroe area will get underway next Saturday evening and continue through Sunday, November 4. Garland May, spark plug for such song festivals here, said the West Monroe High School auditorium will serve as convention headquarters and that several well - known gospel ensembles will appear during the course of the two - day affair.

Since the gospel singing movement sprang from this part of the planet earth, grew naturally without federal aid or even any encouragement from accredited music schools or conservatories, it bears the distinction of being one of our natural resources.

The roots of this movement go back to back to East Texas and a family named Stamps. It was about 50 years ago that W. O. Stamps settled in Upshur County in the Lone Star State, set up a sawmill and five - acre farm. The location of the community was several miles from the nearest school, so Stamps built a combination church and school for neighboring farmers and workers in his mill.

R. M. Morgan, hired as a singing teacher for the community, is said to have planted the energetic style of group singing in the area, and the six Stamps boys were caught up in the spirit.

Two of the youngsters, Virgil O. and Frank Stamps — aged 15 and 11 at the time — decided to make gospel music their profession. This must have been somewhere around 1915.

By 1924, the young men had attended music schools, taught gospel singing in Texas and had organized quartets of their own. Virgil worked mostly in Texas, while Frank went into the area around Chattanooga, Tennessee. Both taught schools and established music printing companies.

FAMOUS FIRST

Even if you're an outsider standing some distance from gospel currents, you have heard — or heard of — the song in that idiom, "Give the World a Smile." Small wonder. That's the first gospel quartet selection ever recorded by a major recording company. Frank Stamps' quartet contracted with the Victor Talking Machine Company to make the disc about 1926. With "Love Leads the Way" on the reverse side, the record sold nearly a million copies.

Recordings and radio popularized the idiom, and by 1940, gospel - singing was a nationwide institution. That was the year Virgil Stamps died. Frank is still living and has planned to visit the convention here next weekend.

Music as an art form may feel itself limited in the gospel manner. which stands apart from the universal aspirations of today's serious music. Gospel songs are based on white men's activities in the clean air of the rural South and any connection with religion is a rugged Protestantism.

BRIGITTE BARDOT, in her first picture for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, plays a highly emotional role in "A Very Private Affair," coming next Sunday to the Jim Theatre.

Broadway Play Being Made Into Film Production

Burton was given the choice of either that role or the other principal part, England's Henry II. The production is to be directed by Peter Glenville, who handled the stage presentations in both London and New York. In its White Way presentation, Sir Laurence Olivier appeared first as the martyred Becket, later portrayed the king.

GREEN COUNTY COURTHOUSE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— The Jefferson County courthouse with its four-columned portico is an example of Greek revival architecture. It housed state government offices when the capital, Frankfort, was captured by Confederates in 1862.

SHIRLEY JONES and Gordon MacRae star in the Rodgers and Hammerstein award-winning production of "Oklahoma," which opens for a limited engagement today at the Paramount Theatre. The picture is in CinemaScope, color and Hi-Fi Stereo Sound. Also starring are Gene Nelson and Gloria Grahame.

AMUSEMENTS

CONCERT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first recording by Vladimir Horowitz in three years concentrates much more on the purely artistic than on the purely technical side of piano playing. No one will be astonished by the clarity and firmness of his fast times, as they used to be when he was wowing concert hall audiences but everyone should be delighted with the depth and conviction of his interpretations (Columbia-KS6371.)

The record is of Chopin's B-flat minor sonata, the one with the funeral march, two of the Etudes - Tableaus of Rachmaninoff, Schumann's "Arabesque" and Horowitz's transcription of Liszt's 19th Hungarian Rhapsody. The playing is marked by disciplined virtuosity. There is no audible urge to produce a technical effect merely for the sake of dazzling. But he had an abundance of technical mastery, of course, when it was required.

Musically the Chopin sonata gains in unity from this concentration upon musical meanings. By holding back the thunder, he produces a whole fabric in which the tonal poetry is luminous in meaningfulness. He concentrates the requisite tensions in the Rachmaninoff, makes the Schumann a listening experience despite its familiarity and even gives musical persuasiveness to the Liszt.

For many years Horowitz was as firmly affiliated with RCA Victor as was his late father-in-law, Arturo Toscanini. This is his first record for Columbia, and why he switched (and why he left the concert platform) is not well understood even by his intimates. At any rate Columbia promises it is the first "in a series of historic recordings" and he is said to be preparing for a return to concertizing.

From the spectacular series of 10 concerts for charity which Artur Rubinstein gave in Carnegie Hall last season, RCA Victor has extracted pieces of four composers for a "highlights" record. They are pieces of Debussy, Szymanowski, Prokofieff and Villa-Lobos. The concerts were called "a miracle," and that they were. It is nice to have a recording commemorating the playing by one pianist, of 89 compositions from Bach to Stravinsky in a period of 40 days, and in each case a definitive playing (LSC2605).

For amateur players of the recorder, of which there now must be many tens of thousands, there is a record called "Hark, the Glad Sound" which is of the master player, Carl Dolmetsch, and his family playing 17th and 18th century recorder music (Angel-35-747.)

POPULAR

NEW YORK (UPI) — When Archie Bleyer set up his Cadence record company about a decade ago it was generally expected he would use the label as a showcase for his orchestra and that would not have been unethical.

Bleyer was at that time a well - known personality because he and his orchestra furnished the music for the Arthur Godfrey television show. But Archie moved behind the scenes, helping such artists as Andy Williams and Don Shirely establish themselves.

Now Archie has emerged from his self - effacement, A new record called "Moonlight Serenade" by Archie Bleyer and His Orchestra (Cadence CLP 3044) shows he has lost none of his touch.

The record begins with Glenn Miller themes, "Moonlight Serenade" on one side and "Sunrise Serenade," the latter composed by Frankie Carle, on the other side. The arrangements are new and imaginative.

In between are excellent orchestrations of such good music as "April in Portugal," "Melody of Love" and "Mack the Knife."

Selected Singles — "Makin' Up" by Ike Clanton (Mercury 72035), "A True, True Love" by Bobby Darin (Capitol 4837, "Hey Little Star" by Roger Miller (RCA Victor 47-8091), "Never Give Away Your Heart" by Carol Hall (Columbia 4-42580).

For Bookworms — "Dorothy Parker Stories Read by Shirley Booth (Caedmon TC-1136). Miss Booth's reading of "Lady With a Lamp," "The Waltz," "Cousin Larry" and "A Telephone Call" are worthy of a Grammy, the recording industry's Oscar.

For Jazz Fans — "Dizzy, Rollins & Stitt" (Verve V-8477). Gillespie and the two Sonnys are given more than enough room to state their independence. Only four numbers are involved on the two sides, with "The Eternal Triangle" running 14 minutes and eight seconds and "After Hours" lasting 12 minutes and 17 seconds. A real jazz gem.

LP's of the Week — Mono: "The Sammy Davis Jr. All-Star Spectacular" (Reprise R6033). Even those who bitterly criticize Davis cannot deny his talent as an imitator which is brought out with perfection in this fast-moving album. Stereo: "Rendezvous in Paris" by Michel Le Grand (Philips PHS 600-045). Easy-going French tunes, most of which are familiar, such as "C'Est Si Bon," "Petite Fleur" and "Melodie d'Amour."

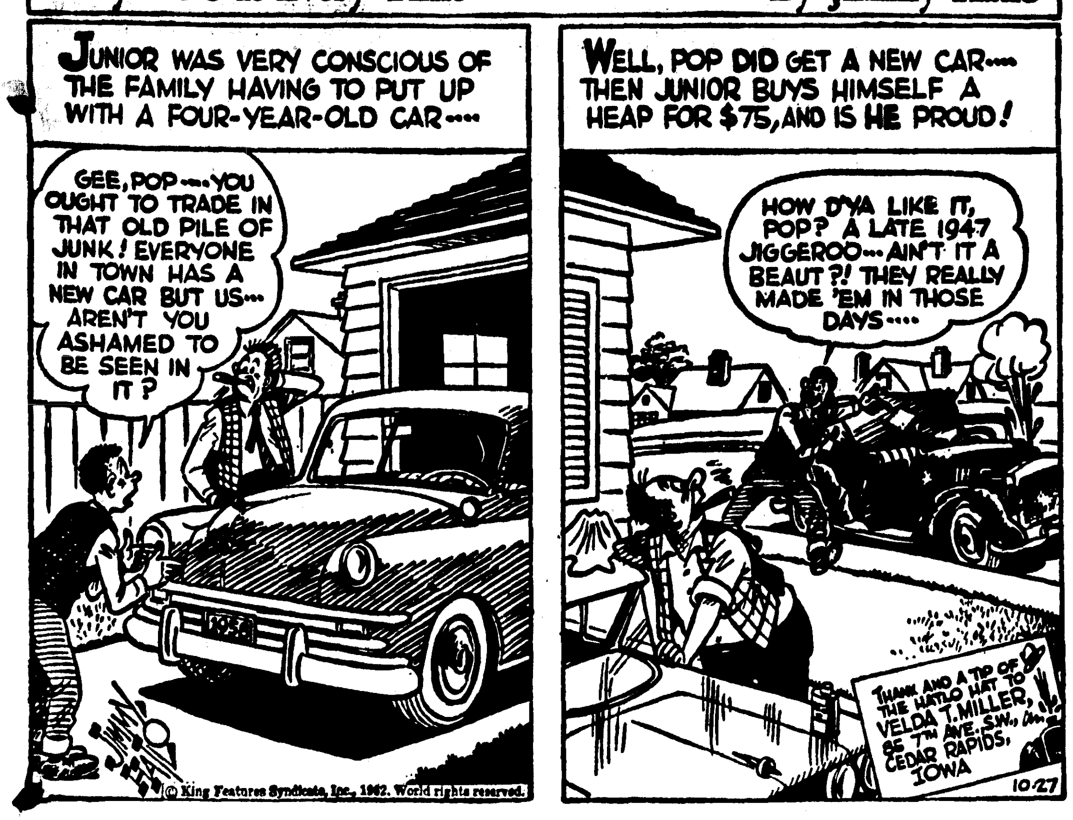
They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo



STATE INSTITUTION

Howell Is Given Post At School

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Institutions named James E. Howell Friday as the new superintendent of the State Industrial School for girls, Pineville, after Supt. Charles Lawrence resigned.

The board voiced its regret that Lawrence was stepping out, effective Nov. 9. He has accepted a consultant's post with the U. S. Children's Bureau.

Howell is executive assistant at the State Colony and Training School, Pineville. He will take over his new post Nov. 6, giving him four days to work with Lawrence.

Chester Green, board chairman, praised Lawrence for the job he has done and the board congratulated him on his new assignment.

The board chairman, meanwhile, said he welcomed help from Sen. J. C. Gilbert's new eight-man legislative committee, named by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis as a watchdog for the state penitentiary.

"The penitentiary needs all the help it can get and we feel sure the committee appointed by the governor will be helpful to us," Green said.

Gov. Davis named the committee by executive order, and it selected the Sicily Island senator as chairman earlier this week.

"We welcome any and all legislators to visit Angola and St. Gabriel (Angola Branch south of Baton Rouge) and acquaint themselves with operations," Green said.

The board chairman also made public a letter he sent to Sen. Gilbert, assuring him of board cooperation.

In the letter, Green wrote, in part, "The board of institutions believes that such a committee could be of great benefit to the Department of Institutions and the state of Louisiana in many ways."

Supt. Dallas Matthews of the State Industrial School for Colored Youth near Baker, said, "We're still on a powder keg, but we can control it."

The Negro reformatory was the scene of recent inmate unrest after five school employes were charged in the June beating death of a 15-year-old New Orleans inmate.

Matthews told the board he has re-emphasized for the adult supervisors how they must act in handling their charges.

Green commended the school superintendent, saying "we know you are overtaxed."

A board member said dormitories being built for the Negro school, now crowded with 690 youths, would be completed soon, possibly in two weeks.

Matthews reminded the board no money has been provided for use of the new quarters when they are ready.

"We'll have to cross that bridge when we come to it," Green said.

Nixon Says Missiles In Cuba Danger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon declared Saturday night that the missile bases in Cuba are more dangerous than those in the Soviet Union because "Castro is a hot-blooded maniac compared to Khrushchev."

The former Republican vice president, now seeking the governorship of California, said in a statewide television address that "if Castro ever got control of weapons of destruction we would never know what would happen. In a moment of impulse he might be willing to take action that would destroy himself as well as others."

Nixon said President Kennedy had no alternative except to quarantine Cuba and demand destruction of the missile bases there because "the missiles in Cuba might, under some eventuality, fall under control of Castro."

"If this should ever happen," Nixon said, "then we would all have to run for the hills."

Nixon said he knows from personal experience, gained in several encounters with Premier Khrushchev, that the Soviet leader would "weigh all the risks before he would ever push the button to start war."

Nixon said he does not believe Khrushchev would "risk Moscow in order to save Havana."

"I believe the American people welcome Mr. Kennedy's strong action in Cuba and that they want that same strong action whenever Communist aggressors press us any place in the world," Nixon said.

Walker Against Appeasment In Cuba Crisis

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker called President Kennedy's action in the Caribbean "inevitable and necessary" Saturday but questioned whether the next step might be to draw the nation further into a web of negotiations and appeasement.

From his Dallas headquarters, Walker said, "The vital and continuing question involves the sufficiency of the action taken. Does it draw us further into the web of negotiations and appeasement?"

"An equally forceful action to that in Mississippi would have solved the Cuban problem two years ago," he said.

"I welcome a change in our national policy from appeasement, if that it be," he said.

Missing Plane Pilot Gave Up Textile Career

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Maj. Rudolph Anderson, identified as the pilot of a reconnaissance plane missing over Cuba, gave up a career in textile engineering to become an Air Force pilot.

A 1950 graduate of Clemson College near here, Maj. Anderson worked for a while in a textile plant before accepting Air Force duty as an ROTC officer. He began pilot training in 1951.

He flew a Super Sabre jet fighter in Korea and was cited twice for distinguished service.

"We knew he was on a highly secret mission," said his father, Rudolph Anderson Sr., a first lieutenant in World War I. "But we didn't know it had to do with Cuba."

He said his son's wife was in El Paso, Tex., where he had been stationed as a U2 pilot.

The father said he first heard that a plane was missing on a news broadcast. A few minutes later he was informed officially by the Defense Department that his son was the pilot.

Ship Clearance Plan Adopted For Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Saturday a clearance system to expedite passage through the U.S. blockade area around Cuba for vessels carrying non contraband cargo.

Vessels leaving from American ports, the State Department said, whether bound for Cuba or simply sailing through Cuban waters to another destination, may obtain a clearance certificate or "clear cert" from U.S. customs authorities.

Ships leaving foreign ports to travel through waters around Cuba need only file a notice of transit with the American consulate at the last port of departure so that the consulate can send word to the blockade commanders of the ship's identification and purpose.

Four Crewmen Die In Crash Of Jet Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — A six-engine U.S. Air Force RB47 jet reconnaissance plane taking off from Kindley Field early Saturday crashed into the former Vincent Astor estate nearby and burned, killing all four crewmen aboard.

The crash demolished the boat house, swimming pool and a narrow guage railway on the estate, which Astor sold about eight years ago to Englishman Alex Mitchell.

RB47s normally are not stationed at Kindley, but officials at the field denied the plane which crashed had any connection with the Cuban blockade.

Peace Mission To Soviet Fails

NEW YORK (AP)—The Committee for Nonviolent Action said Saturday it had received word that the crew of the peace ship "Everyman III" had scuttled the ketch outside Leningrad harbor.

George Willoughby, cosecretary of the committee, said the Soviet Union has detained the 12-man crew, which includes two Americans, for deportation.

The Everyman sailed from London on a mission to urge disarmament and a halt to nuclear testing. It arrived at Leningrad Oct. 19, Willoughby said, but the crew was not allowed to talk peace and distribute leaflets.

Willoughby said the Russians towed the ketch out of the harbor and the crew then scuttled and sunk it.

Zachary Crash Kills Man, 60

ZACHARY, La. (AP) — A three-car pileup Saturday killed Alton B. Parker, 60, of Zachary and injured another man.

The injured man was identified by state police as John A. Coates, 51, of Slaughter.

Troopers said Parker's car was struck by a lumber truck driven by Milford Hill, 48-year-old Zachary Negro, as Hill tried to turn, and Coates' auto struck Parker's.

Hill was booked for reckless driving and negligent homicide. He was released on $3,100 bond.

Ruston Cited In Magazine

ALEXANDRIA (Special) New plans and proposals for general progress in Ruston are described as "a sort of community reconnaissance" in the latest issue of the Louisiana Municipal Review.

The statewide magazine, in a major article on the Hill Country Capital, praises Mayor John Perritt and Councilmen William Lewis, Jack Thigpen, Earnest Shaw, James Spears and Jeff Lain for their steps toward coordinating municipal thinking.

The Review pays particular attention to Mayor Perritt's concern over the lack of positive action and observes that "To remedy this, and to weld progressive citizens into a unified group, the mayor has introduced a series of monthly breakfast meetings during which a citizen can sound off."

"Everybody's welcome," the Review quotes the mayor. "The meetings are open to anyone who can contribute an idea, a sympathetic ear, or a willing shoulder to get started doing something about the things we've all merely talked about."

The magazine examines the general aims, which include encouragement of small industry, attraction of retired persons and tourists, beautification of parks and downtown areas and closer cooperation with Louisiana Tech.

"None of them are impractical," the magazine says, "For Ruston has what it takes to put any or all into effect."

The Review takes a close look at a number of Ruston's advantages, including "it's long history of stable progress," but concludes that "Of all Ruston's attributes, the city is proudest of Louisiana Tech, which opened its doors in 1895 and has gone down the years hand in hand with the municipality."

STATE INSTITUTION

Howell Is Given Post At School

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Board of Institutions named James E. Howell Friday as the new superintendent of the State Industrial School for girls, Pineville, after Supt. Charles Lawrence resigned.

The board voiced its regret that Lawrence was stepping out, effective Nov. 9. He has accepted a consultant's post with the U. S. Children's Bureau.

Howell is executive assistant at the State Colony and Training School, Pineville. He will take over his new post Nov. 6, giving him four days to work with Lawrence.

Chester Green, board chairman, praised Lawrence for the job he has done and the board congratulated him on his new assignment.

The board chairman, meanwhile, said he welcomed help from Sen. J. C. Gilbert's new eight-man legislative committee, named by Gov. Jimmie H. Davis as a watchdog for the state penitentiary.

"The penitentiary needs all the help it can get and we feel sure the committee appointed by the governor will be helpful to us," Green said.

Gov. Davis named the committee by executive order, and it selected the Sicily Island senator as chairman earlier this week.

"We welcome any and all legislators to visit Angola and St. Gabriel (Angola Branch south of Baton Rouge) and acquaint themselves with operations," Green said.

The board chairman also made public a letter he sent to Sen. Gilbert, assuring him of board cooperation.

In the letter, Green wrote, in part, "The board of institutions believes that such a committee could be of great benefit to the Department of Institutions and the state of Louisiana in many ways."

Supt. Dallas Matthews of the State Industrial School for Colored Youth near Baker, said, "We're still on a powder keg, but we can control it."

The Negro reformatory was the scene of recent inmate unrest after five school employes were charged in the June beating death of a 15-year-old New Orleans inmate.

The former assistant superintendent, George D. Smith, will be tried for manslaughter here Dec. 3.

Matthews told the board he has re-emphasized for the adult supervisors how they must act in handling their charges.

Green commended the school superintendent, saying "we know you are overtaxed."

A board member said dormitories being built for the Negro school, now crowded with 690 youths, would be completed soon, possibly in two weeks.

Matthews reminded the board no money has been provided for use of the new quarters when they are ready.

"We'll have to cross that bridge when we come to it," Green said.

Nixon Says Missiles In Cuba Danger

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon declared Saturday night that the missile bases in Cuba are more dangerous than those in the Soviet Union because "Castro is a hot-blooded maniac compared to Khrushchev."

The former Republican vice president, now seeking the governorship of California, said in a statewide television address that "if Castro ever got control of weapons of destruction we would never know what would happen. In a moment of impulse he might be willing to take action that would destroy himself as well as others."

Nixon said President Kennedy had no alternative except to quarantine Cuba and demand destruction of the missile bases there because "the missiles in Cuba might, under some eventuality, fall under control of Castro."

"If this should ever happen," Nixon said, "then we would all have to run for the hills."

Nixon said he knows from personal experience, gained in several encounters with Premier Khrushchev, that the Soviet leader would "weigh all the risks before he would ever push the button to start war."

Nixon said he does not believe Khrushchev would "risk Moscow in order to save Havana."

"I believe the American people welcome Mr. Kennedy's strong action in Cuba and that they want that same strong action whenever Communist aggressors press us any place in the world," Nixon said.

Walker Against Appeasment In Cuba Crisis

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker called President Kennedy's action in the Caribbean "inevitable and necessary" Saturday but questioned whether the next step might be to draw the nation further into a web of negotiations and appeasement.

From his Dallas headquarters, Walker said, "The vital and continuing question involves the sufficiency of the action taken. Does it draw us further into the web of negotiations and appeasement?"

"An equally forceful action to that in Mississippi would have solved the Cuban problem two years ago," he said.

"I welcome a change in our national policy from appeasement, if that it be," he said.

Walker was referring to the recent riot at Oxford, Miss., during the enrollment of the first Negro student in the University of Mississippi.

Missing Plane Pilot Gave Up Textile Career

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Maj. Rudolph Anderson, identified as the pilot of a reconnaissance plane missing over Cuba, gave up a career in textile engineering to become an Air Force pilot.

A 1950 graduate of Clemson College near here, Maj. Anderson worked for a while in a textile plant before accepting Air Force duty as an ROTC officer. He began pilot training in 1951.

He flew a Super Sabre jet fighter in Korea and was cited twice for distinguished service.

"We knew he was on a highly secret mission," said his father, Rudolph Anderson Sr., a first lieutenant in World War I. "But we didn't know it had to do with Cuba."

He said his son's wife was in El Paso, Tex., where he had been stationed as a U2 pilot.

The father said he first heard that a plane was missing on a news broadcast. A few minutes later he was informed officially by the Defense Department that his son was the pilot.

Ship Clearance Plan Adopted For Blockade

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department announced Saturday a clearance system to expedite passage through the U.S. blockade area around Cuba for vessels carrying non contraband cargo.

Vessels leaving from American ports, the State Department said, whether bound for Cuba or simply sailing through Cuban waters to another destination, may obtain a clearance certificate or "clear cert" from U.S. customs authorities.

Ships leaving foreign ports to travel through waters around Cuba need only file a notice of transit with the American consulate at the last port of departure so that the consulate can send word to the blockade commanders of the ship's identification and purpose.

Four Crewmen Die In Crash Of Jet Plane

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — A six-engine U.S. Air Force RB47 jet reconnaissance plane taking off from Kindley Field early Saturday crashed into the former Vincent Astor estate nearby and burned, killing all four crewmen aboard.

The crash demolished the boat house, swimming pool and a narrow guage railway on the estate, which Astor sold about eight years ago to Englishman Alex Mitchell.

RB47s normally are not stationed at Kindley, but officials at the field denied the plane which crashed had any connection with the Cuban blockade.

Peace Mission To Soviet Fails

NEW YORK (AP)—The Committee for Nonviolent Action said Saturday it had received word that the crew of the peace ship "Everyman III" had scuttled the ketch outside Leningrad harbor.

George Willoughby, cosecretary of the committee, said the Soviet Union has detained the 12-man crew, which includes two Americans, for deportation.

The Everyman sailed from London on a mission to urge disarmament and a halt to nuclear testing. It arrived at Leningrad Oct. 19, Willoughby said, but the crew was not allowed to talk peace and distribute leaflets.

Willoughby said the Russians towed the ketch out of the harbor and the crew then scuttled and sunk it.

Zachary Crash Kills Man, 60

ZACHARY, La. (AP) — A three-car pileup Saturday killed Alton B. Parker, 60, of Zachary and injured another man.

The injured man was identified by state police as John A. Coates, 51, of Slaughter.

Troopers said Parker's car was struck by a lumber truck driven by Milford Hill, 48-year-old Zachary Negro, as Hill tried to turn, and Coates' auto struck Parker's.

Hill was booked for reckless driving and negligent homicide. He was released on $3,100 bond.

Ruston Cited In Magazine

ALEXANDRIA (Special) New plans and proposals for general progress in Ruston are described as "a sort of community reconnaissance" in the latest issue of the Louisiana Municipal Review.

The statewide magazine, in a major article on the Hill Country Capital, praises Mayor John Perritt and Councilmen William Lewis, Jack Thigpen, Earnest Shaw, James Spears and Jeff Lain for their steps toward coordinating municipal thinking.

The Review pays particular attention to Mayor Perritt's concern over the lack of positive action and observes that "To remedy this, and to weld progressive citizens into a unified group, the mayor has introduced a series of monthly breakfast meetings during which a citizen can sound off."

"Everybody's welcome," the Review quotes the mayor. "The meetings are open to anyone who can contribute an idea, a sympathetic ear, or a willing shoulder to get started doing something about the things we've all merely talked about."

The magazine examines the general aims, which include encouragement of small industry, attraction of retired persons and tourists, beautification of parks and downtown areas and closer cooperation with Louisiana Tech.

"None of them are impractical," the magazine says, "For Ruston has what it takes to put any or all into effect."

The Review takes a close look at a number of Ruston's advantages, including "it's long history of stable progress," but concludes that "Of all Ruston's attributes, the city is proudest of Louisiana Tech, which opened its doors in 1895 and has gone down the years hand in hand with the municipality."

Turkey Leaders Not Surprised By Soviet Offer

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's offer to withdraw weapons in Cuba if the United States does the same with its rockets in Turkey caused little surprise among Turkey's leaders Saturday.

The parallel between the two countries—one next door to the United States and the other bordering on the Soviet Union — has been the subject of political and editorial debate since President Kennedy's quarantine announcement Monday.

Premier Ismet Inonu earlier last week backed America in the Cuban crisis but did not specifically okay Kennedy's blockade measures.

America's three big Air Force bases here have been on the alert since Monday and North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases have taken precautionary measures. Turkey's 3rd Army, based on the 300-mile Soviet border, reportedly has canceled all leaves.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Charles Dickens Uses Want Ad

In 1836, Charles Dickens, then only 23 years old, placed the following Want Ad in the London Literary Times:

THE PICKWICK PAPERS — In March will be published the 1st number of THE POSTHUMOUS PAPERS OF THE PICKWICK CLUB, containing faithful record of the Perambulations, Perils, Travels, Adventures, and Sporting Transactions of the Corresponding Members.

Thus was born the now world famous classic, heralded by a Want Ad. At a tender young age, Charles Dickens used a Want Ad to announce publication of his book.

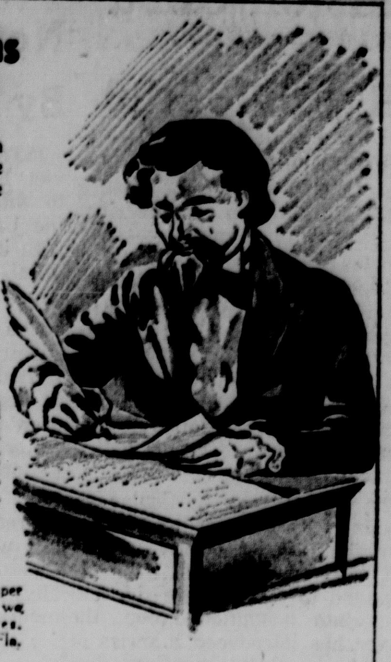
WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Charles Dickens Uses Want Ad



In 1836, Charles Dickens, then only 23 years old, placed the following Want Ad in the London Literary Times:

THE PICKWICK PAPERS — In March will be published the 1st number of THE POSTHUMOUS PAPERS OF THE PICKWICK CLUB, containing faithful record of the Perambulations, Perils, Travels, Adventures, and Sporting Transactions of the Corresponding Members.

Thus was born the now world famous classic, heralded by a Want Ad. At a tender young age, Charles Dickens used a Want Ad to announce publication of his book.

NOW BEING TAUGHT FRIDAY AFTERNOONS

Handicraft Classes At Recreation Center Offer Economical Gift-Making Activities

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Granted that it's more blessed to give than to receive, there's still nothing wrong with looking for economical gifts during the coming holiday season.

If you share that view, the place to go is Monroe's new Westminster Recreation Center, especially from 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays.

Out there, in handicraft classes under the tutelage and direction of Mrs. V. S. (Peggy) Garnett, women from all over north Monroe are turing out at a minimum of expense some of the most costly - looking gifts for Christmas and all occasions you've ever seen.

In the easy - going air of three hour weekly class periods, in which the ladies do only what interests them individually, Mrs. Garnett holds sway over everything from marble frying to fish scale mounting.

"Our object," says the instructor, a veteran of nearly 15 years with the Monroe Recreation Department, "is to make a lot of things from almost nothing." And they do — beautiful decorative, ornamental pieces made up in many cases from nothing more than clothes pins, coat hangers, wire spools, cardboard, cheese boxes, assorted nuts and balloons.

Fine, expensive - looking objects d'art such as picture frames, copper pictures, mosiac tiles, bookends and wall plaques, the retail cost of which would run to many times the cost of materials, are turned out evidently with astonishing regularity.

ONLY EXPENSE

The only expense to participants in the classes is the cost of materials, which may be brought from home or purchased at Westminster: Mrs. Garnett's services are without charge.

The handicraft program at the north Monroe recreation center, off Loop Road approximately half a mile east of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club, has been underway since September 1. It will run until the close of public schools around June, when Mrs. Garnett takes up the instruction of the same subject on summer playgrounds.

Number and names of the ladies attending vary, there being no formal registration procedures or attendance records kept.

"Anyone is welcome to come out at any time," says the instructor. "In fact we strongly encourage it. It would be a real shame to have such nice buildings and programs available and not take advantage of them."

While no handicraft class has started at the other white center, Benoit, on the Monroe southside, it awaits only a demand. According to Mrs. Garnett, rooms and materials presently are on hand, and with a need could begin immediately.

She encouraged ladies desiring to form and take part in such a program to contact Monroe Recreation Director Jack Hesketh at their first opportunity.

"This would be the perfect time to get a new class going, with the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons coming on. Seasonal home decorations and gifts are big items in our class."

Mrs. Garnett reports an increasing use, as well, of the recreation center and handicraft instruction by Monroe garden clubs and other organizations. "They're coming in for help in making all sorts of things as part of money - making projects."

Among some of those things being made, she mentioned pin cushions, bird cages, picture frames, wood fiber flowers, aluminum trays, sewing kits and baskets (from cheese boxes), paper weights, seashell and dried fruit wall plaques, as well as clothes hangers and plastic bag "poodles" and knitting yarn kittens.

A popular item, of which Mrs. Garnett is particularly proud, is the "mobile." A loosely - hanging, several stringed ceiling ornament of Oriental inspiration, described best perhaps as a vertical charm bracelet, the colorful device bobs, dances and sways with each passing breeze.

Not done yet, though equipment is available, is mosaic work. Mrs. Garnett's coaching awaits only a lady interested in the endeavor.

As she puts it, "Whatever anyone wants to do or make, we're for it here, and we welcome anyone."

OPERATION CHLORINE

Removal Of Third Tank Is Scheduled

VIDALIA (Special) — The U.S. Corps of Engineers reported Saturday that the dredge "Nelson" has been moved back to the site where chlorine tanks are sunken in the Mississippi River to remove a thick cover of sand.

The engineers lifted two of the four potentially dangerous chlorine tanks from a sunken barge last week, one Wednesday and one Friday.

Eighty - thousand residents in the Vidalia - Natchez, Miss. area were poised to flee in case the deadly chlorine gas swept over the area. But engineers reported that the tanks appear to be in good shape and anxiety has lessened.

However, evacuation and alert plans remain in effect, with 2,000 National Guardsmen stationed in Mississippi and 74 law enforcement officials on duty in Louisiana.

Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer of the Vicksburg district, said the dredge would probably be engaged in operations a the barge site for three days.

The lifting of the third chlorine tank will be attempted sometime this week, he indicated.

LMA Supports 2 Amendments

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — The Louisiana Municipal Association has endorsed proposed state amendments to authorize the $60 million highway bond issue and permit municipalities to create special service districts.

At the same time, the LMA board, meeting in Baton Rouge, urged citizens to work for defeat on Amendment No. 46 which would require that all vacancies occurring in fire or police civil service be filled within 90 days.

Hoffa Sets Groundwork For Appeal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa's lawyers used the first week of his $1 million conspiracy trial to do spade work for a possible appeal.

Before a weary U.S. district judge finally put his foot down, the defense sought to show the jury panel should have been dismissed because it (1) did not represent a true cross-section of the community and (2) was biased due to exposure to prejudicial newspaper stories.

Judge William E. Miller, stern-featured and greying, denied the motion.

The stocky, athletic, labor boss one of the nation's most controversial public figures, is accused of violating the Taft-Hartley Act by using his union influence to set up a dummy trucking firm, chartered here in 1949.

NOW BEING TAUGHT FRIDAY AFTERNOONS

Handicraft Classes At Recreation Center Offer Economical Gift-Making Activities

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Granted that it's more blessed to give than to receive, there's still nothing wrong with looking for economical gifts during the coming holiday season.

If you share that view, the place to go is Monroe's new Westminster Recreation Center, especially from 1 to 4 p.m. on Fridays.

Out there, in handicraft classes under the tutelage and direction of Mrs. V. S. (Peggy) Garnett, women from all over north Monroe are turing out at a minimum of expense some of the most costly - looking gifts for Christmas and all occasions you've ever seen.

In the easy - going air of three hour weekly class periods, in which the ladies do only what interests them individually, Mrs. Garnett holds sway over everything from marble frying to fish scale mounting.

"Our object," says the instructor, a veteran of nearly 15 years with the Monroe Recreation Department, "is to make a lot of things from almost nothing." And they do — beautiful decorative, ornamental pieces made up in many cases from nothing more than clothes pins, coat hangers, wire spools, cardboard, cheese boxes, assorted nuts and balloons.

Fine, expensive - looking objects d'art such as picture frames, copper pictures, mosiac tiles, bookends and wall plaques, the retail cost of which would run to many times the cost of materials, are turned out evidently with astonishing regularity.

ONLY EXPENSE

The only expense to participants in the classes is the cost of materials, which may be brought from home or purchased at Westminster: Mrs. Garnett's services are without charge.

The handicraft program at the north Monroe recreation center, off Loop Road approximately half a mile east of the Bayou DeSiard Country Club, has been underway since September 1. It will run until the close of public schools around June, when Mrs. Garnett takes up the instruction of the same subject on summer playgrounds.

Number and names of the ladies attending vary, there being no formal registration procedures or attendance records kept.

"Anyone is welcome to come out at any time," says the instructor. "In fact we strongly encourage it. It would be a real shame to have such nice buildings and programs available and not take advantage of them."

While no handicraft class has started at the other white center, Benoit, on the Monroe southside, it awaits only a demand. According to Mrs. Garnett, rooms and materials presently are on hand, and with a need could begin immediately.

She encouraged ladies desiring to form and take part in such a program to contact Monroe Recreation Director Jack Hesketh at their first opportunity.

"This would be the perfect time to get a new class going, with the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons coming on. Seasonal home decorations and gifts are big items in our class."

Mrs. Garnett reports an increasing use, as well, of the recreation center and handicraft instruction by Monroe garden clubs and other organizations. "They're coming in for help in making all sorts of things as part of money - making projects."

Among some of those things being made, she mentioned pin cushions, bird cages, picture frames, wood fiber flowers, aluminum trays, sewing kits and baskets (from cheese boxes), paper weights, seashell and dried fruit wall plaques, as well as clothes hangers and plastic bag "poodles" and knitting yarn kittens.

A popular item, of which Mrs. Garnett is particularly proud, is the "mobile." A loosely - hanging, several stringed ceiling ornament of Oriental inspiration, described best perhaps as a vertical charm bracelet, the colorful device bobs, dances and sways with each passing breeze.

Also practiced is "marble frying." Subjected to intense heat, as demonstrated by Mrs. Garnett, ordinary "shooten' taws" crack and splinter internally into endlessly delightful patterns.

In another project, tarpon scales were dried and sprayed into perfect flower petals for a framed wall plaque arrangement.

Not done yet, though equipment is available, is mosaic work. Mrs. Garnett's coaching awaits only a lady interested in the endeavor.

As she puts it, "Whatever anyone wants to do or make, we're for it here, and we welcome anyone."

OPERATION CHLORINE

Removal Of Third Tank Is Scheduled

VIDALIA (Special) — The U.S. Corps of Engineers reported Saturday that the dredge "Nelson" has been moved back to the site where chlorine tanks are sunken in the Mississippi River to remove a thick cover of sand.

The engineers lifted two of the four potentially dangerous chlorine tanks from a sunken barge last week, one Wednesday and one Friday.

Eighty - thousand residents in the Vidalia - Natchez, Miss. area were poised to flee in case the deadly chlorine gas swept over the area. But engineers reported that the tanks appear to be in good shape and anxiety has lessened.

However, evacuation and alert plans remain in effect, with 2,000 National Guardsmen stationed in Mississippi and 74 law enforcement officials on duty in Louisiana.

Col. Warren S. Everett, district engineer of the Vicksburg district, said the dredge would probably be engaged in operations a the barge site for three days.

The lifting of the third chlorine tank will be attempted sometime this week, he indicated.

LMA Supports 2 Amendments

ALEXANDRIA (Special) — The Louisiana Municipal Association has endorsed proposed state amendments to authorize the $60 million highway bond issue and permit municipalities to create special service districts.

At the same time, the LMA board, meeting in Baton Rouge, urged citizens to work for defeat on Amendment No. 46 which would require that all vacancies occurring in fire or police civil service be filled within 90 days.

Hoffa Sets Groundwork For Appeal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Teamster President James R. Hoffa's lawyers used the first week of his $1 million conspiracy trial to do spade work for a possible appeal.

Before a weary U.S. district judge finally put his foot down, the defense sought to show the jury panel should have been dismissed because it (1) did not represent a true cross-section of the community and (2) was biased due to exposure to prejudicial newspaper stories.

Judge William E. Miller, stern-featured and greying, denied the motion.

From the stress the defense put on these claims, it seemed certain they would figure prominently should any appeal by necessary.

The stocky, athletic, labor boss one of the nation's most controversial public figures, is accused of violating the Taft-Hartley Act by using his union influence to set up a dummy trucking firm, chartered here in 1949.
